CAPITAL QUOTA FOR RED CROSS DRIVE $100,000

3,000 Units Told Their Share in $10,000,000 Fund Sought.

ORGANIZATION FINDS PLEAS ARE TREBLED

Says Help Needed to Avert Starvation; House Plans to Kill Food Bill.

The District of Columbia will be asked to raise $100,000, as its part in a new $10,000,000 fund sought by the American Red Cross for drought relief.

Quotas in the campaign were assigned to 3,000 Red Cross chapters last night by the national organization here. John Barton Payne, national chairman, who telegraphed the call for aid to the chapters, declared that a minimum of $10,000,000 was needed to "prevent untold suffering and actual starvation by thousands of families."

Quotas for the State of Maryland were fixed at $280,000 by officials of the Red Cross, they announced last night, and those for Virginia chapters are $170,000.

Calls for Aid Trebled.

Calls for aid reaching the national organization have almost trebled in the last three days, officials said, and resulted in the new appeal for the additional sum. The Red Cross has already expended about $1,500,000 for relief of the drought sufferers throughout the country.

In his telegram notifying chapters that President Hoover had authorized a public appeal for this fund, Chairman Payne said:

"Greatly increased demands during the last ten days have made imperative an immediate campaign for a Red Cross relief fund to meet the emergency situation through parts of 21 States in the drought stricken area. A minimum of $10,000,000 is needed to prevent untold suffering and actual starvation by thousands of families. Pollution of water supply caused by dying cattle has been adde dto winter hardships in some sections. We are confident your people will not fail to meet their share of this humanitarian need. We must not fail."

Showdown Is Sought.

Campaign plans were announced after house Republican leaders had devised a plan intended to bring a showdown today on the Senate's $15,000,000 food provision for drought relief.

The leaders will move that the House disagree to the Senate proposal and send the measure to conference with a view to elimination of the disputed item. The administration has frowned upon Government appropriations for food loans.

The Red Cross had spent, or authorized cash grants, in drought relief. A total of $1,284,000, up to last night, officials of the organization announced. Of this sum, $810,000 was in cash spent by chapters in counties in Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, Aennessee, Missouri, Oklahoma, Texas and Montana.

Seriousness Seen.

No estimates could be given, it was said, on how much of the new fund would be needed for relief in Virginia or Maryland, until additional calls are received. While some money has already been utilized in Virginia, few pleas for relief have been received from Maryland.

Pleas for assistance in other sections have trebled in volume in the last three or four days, in comparison with those received in the previous four months, since August, when the drought was first recognized as reaching proportions of a widespread calamity. Red Cross leaders asserted yesterday.

Disaster relief workers in the field report that chapter chairmen have only recently begun to realize the seriousness of the situation. As an

Raskob Resents Idea He Has Bought Party

Democrat Chief Expects Repayment of Moneys; Denies Bolting G. O. P.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee, in a statement last night, set about to dissipate the picture that the Democratic party is owned by him.

He expects to be paid back the money owing to him, he declared; that, in fact, "plans are under way for a Nation-wide fund-raising campaign to meet our debts and provide money to continue the great work the national organization is now doing."

The last report of the committee to the clerk of the House showed that the party owed Mr. Raskob $225,250 and that notes for approximately $400,000 were held by the County Trust Co. of New York, which Mr. Raskob and other friends of former Gov. Smith are generally understood to virtually own.

Receipts to the committee during the year, according to the report, showed Mr. Raskob to be almost the sole contributor, he having contributed $180,000 of the $195,000 received.

of the remaining $15,000 there was a contribution of $10,000 from a Fitchburg, Mass., man.

Mr. Raskob, in his statement, declared that the financial picture of the party came about because "the friends and associates of Gov. Smith

MOB BURNS KILLER OF SCHOOL TEACHER

National Guard and Civilian Officers Make No Move After Seizure.

VICTIM HELD BY CHAINS

Maryville, Mo., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Raymond Gunn, Negro, chained to the ridgepole of a little white country schoolhouse, died in flames today, victim of a mob's vengeance.

Neither civilian officers nor a National Guard battery, mobilized to protect him, interfered after those who resorted to lynch law had wrested Gunn, confessed murderer, from the automobile of Sheriff Harvey England and marched and dragged him three miles to the school.

There, eyewitnesses said, he was taken to the place where the partly nude and violated body of Velma Colter, 19-year-old school teacher, had been found, and made to repeat a confession of complicity in her death.

The schoolroom furniture was piled about the building. Gunn was forced to mount a ladder to the roof and creep to the ridgepole. Shingles were removed to permit him to be fastened by chains to the rafters of the building. Roof, floors and furniture were drenched with gasoline and a moment later a burst of fire reached the Negro.

The victim waved at the mob once before the flames seared his flesh, then writhed and screamed until he died.

C Battery, 128th Field Artillery, had been mobilized on orders of A. V. Adams, adjutant general of Missouri, to assist Sheriff England in protecting Gunn. Its members were in the nearby armory, waiting for the sheriff's orders, when the Negro was removed from the car of the sheriff at the courthouse.

Capt. Ed Condon, commanding C Battery, said the unit was under orders to act only upon request of the sheriff.

"We were powerless to move," he added, "unless ordered to do so by Sheriff England. We left the armory at 3 p. m. without hearing from him. That was hours after the lynching.

The 63-year-old sheriff was at home in bed, suffering, he said, from a sprained back and arm resulting from his encounter with the mob. He said:

"It is too bad it happened, but there were just too many of them for us."

In his final confession at the schoolhouse the Negro introduced the name

PAYLOAD SEA FLIERS ARE BELIEVED DEAD

Only Dim Hope Felt That Pair May Have Landed Upon Obscure Isle.

ATLANTIC SHROUDS FATE

Horta, Island of Fayal, Azores, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Hope that the transatlantic "payload" aviators, Mrs. Beryl Hart and Lieut. William S. MacLaren, were still alive was virtually abandoned tonight.

Not a word or a sign of them had been received since they took off from Hamilton, Bermuda, at 11:15 a. m., E. S. T., Saturday for Horta on the second lap of their flight in the monoplane Tradewind from New York to Paris.

Strong winds and high seas have prevailed since that time and it was feared that had they been forced down their frail machine could have withstood the seas only a few minutes. They had expected to take 21 hours for the flight and were due here at 8:15 a. m., E. S. T., Sunday morning.

Tonight, indicative of the fear that they were lost, gasoline supplies

Mother Saves Six When Home Burns

Rope of Bedclothes Used to Reach Safety; All Barefoot in Snow.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 12.—Mrs. Milo Clem, living below Wiley Ford, W. Va., in Mineral County, a suburb, carried her six children, ranging in age from 14 months to 11 years, from their burning home early this morning. The home and contents were destroyed.

The mother, awakened by smoke and heat in the bedroom, attempted to descend the stairway to reach the telephone, but was driven back by flames. She smashed a window in the stairway and pushed her children out on a porch roof, and dropped them to the ground with a rope of bed clothes.

The family trudged barefoot through the snow to a neighbor's home, half a mile away. The husband, a Baltimore & Ohio yard foreman, was absent in Keyser, W. Va. The loss was set at $6,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire was blamed on a faulty flue.

SLAYER CARTS VICTIM'S BODY FOR 125 MILES

Remains Found on Bank of Mechums River Those of Roanoke Man.

CUBAN IS REPORTED TO HAVE CONFESSED

Restaaurant Ownership Row Believed to Have Caused Sanchez Murder.

Roanoke, Va., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Police said late today that Mike Bataller, a Cuban, had confessed to beating to death Ralph Sanchez, a Spaniard, in a restaurant here, and taking the body 125 miles to the banks of Mechums River near Crozet, Va.

The body, found by the river Saturday, was not identified until police questioned Bataller.

Police quoted Bataller as saying the slaying occurred Friday night in a fight over ownership of the restaurant. Bataller and Emilio Consuelo, known locally as Frank Nelson, were charged by police with murder. Police said that Consuelo was in the restaurant at the time of the slaying.

No One Appears Yet.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 12.—Despite phone messages today from residents of Buena Vista, Richmond and Roanoke, stating they were leaving for Charlottesville to identify the body of the man found strangled and hacked under the highway bridge at Mechums River Saturday afternoon, no one appeared up to a late hour tonight.

Renewed hope that an identification would be made shortly was stirred when Chief of Police Maurice Greaver received a phone message this afternoon from a citizen of Buena Vista, saying that the published description of the dead man tallied with that of his brother-in-law, Richard Robinson, who traveled out of Richmond. Robinson, he stated, always carried several blankets and an automobile robe in his car.

Sheriff J. Mahon Smith received a message at noon from Commonwealth's Attorney Smith, of Roanoke, who asserted that a description of the body conformed with that of a Spaniard missed from there last week, and that he would send an official immediately to check on the identification.

Hundreds View Body.

The Roanoke official stated that the missing man had pit marks on his face and local officers think the victim's face looks as if he had once suffered from smallpox.

The most plausible clew, until the two messages were received today, was obtained yesterday when Magistrate J. W. Wolfe, of Crozet, who acted as coroner, received a call from an unidentified person who asked if one of the victim's toes was deformed. Informed that the second toe of the right foot overlapped the large toe, the inquirer said he was leaving for Charlottesville to check further. He failed to appear, however.

Stencil marks were found today on the bloodstained blankets, found lying by the roadside at Ivy Creek, 4 miles east of where the body was located. On one the marking appeared to be "E. H. Nilles." Throughout today hundreds of persons viewed the victim's body.

Estate of $200,000 Is Willed to Daughter

An estate valued at $200,000 was left by John C. Wilson, who died three days before Christmas, according to the terms of his will filed yesterday in District Supreme Court for probate.

Miss Elizabeth Wilson, a daughter, is the sole heir and executrix. The estate is represented by Attorney Henry W. Sohon.

SENATE FIGHTS OVER BROSSARD FOR TARIFF JOB

Four on Body Confirmed Before Resistance Is Developed.

UTAHAN HELD CLOSE TO SUGAR INTERESTS

Foes Question Appointee's Candor; Borah Opposes Chairman Fletcher.

(Associated Press.)

After four of President Hoover's tariff commissioners had run the gantlet of Senate consideration yesterday and emerged undamaged, a fifth—Edgar B. Brossard, Utah, Republican—found cudgels lifted by both Democrats and independent Republicans.

The charge was raised that Brossard was "too close to the sugar interests."

A sixth member—Lincoln Dixon (Democrat), of Indiana—remained to be considered after Brossard's nomination was acted upon. Dixon faced no opposition.

Henry P. Fletcher, of Pennsylvania, Republican chairman; John Lee Coulter (Republican), North Dakota; Thomas W. Page (Democrat), Virginia, and Alfred P. Dennis (Democrat), Maryland, were those confirmed.

Borah Scores Fletcher.

No record votes were required to dispose of these four, but Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, contended Fletcher, a former diplomat of note, was not qualified as a tariff expert and had "studiously refrained from informing himself regarding the tariff."

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, took issue with Borah. He said Fletcher was a man of outstanding intelligence and he could not "imagine how a better appointment could have been made."

Senators Harrison (Democrat), of Mississippi, and La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, both members of the finance committee which considered the nominations, led the attack on Brossard. Senator Reed defended him.

Harrison argued the Utahan was "too close to the sugar interests," and said Brossard was willing that the sugar tariff be raised still higher.

Not Considered Frank.

Both he and La Follette charged Brossard had not been "frank" in testifying before the 1926 Senate sugar investigating committee, in connection with his activities as an agricultural economist on the commission.

Harrison said Brossard denied before the committee that he prepared a report on sugar costs for a minority group of the Coolidge commission, showing a higher sugar duty was warranted. He added that Brossard had testified recently before the finance committee that he did prepare data for this report.

"Men ought to be open and frank with Congress and the public, and never indulge in deceit or evasiveness on public questions," Harrison said.

La Follette asserted Brossard could "not command the respect either of the Senate or the country with reference to the manner in which he conducted himself under oath before the Senate (1926) committee."

Suggests Rejection.

The Wisconsin senator read lengthy portions of the old sugar investigation testimony and concluded:

"The Senate would be more than justified in rejecting this nomination,

LIMERICK GIRL'S TRUNK SEIZED; FRIEND IS TOLD TO KEEP SILENT, CLAIM

TWO DEATH-QUIZ WITNESSES

Evidence Removed From Murder House Is Recovered.

WITNESS SAYS REED DISPLAYED TWO GUNS

Declares Slain Woman and Family at Odds; Grocer Called to Testify.

Before the bullet hole was found in the head of the murdered Beulah Limerick on December 31, one of her intimates warned another person over the telephone "to keep his mouth shut," it will be testified at the inquest into the strange murder of the girl.

Evidence removed from the murder house before discovery of the murder was made was confiscated last night by Capt. Edward J. Kelly at the home of Mrs. Dora E. Limerick, mother of the girl, at North Carolina avenue near Fifth street southeast. The first intimation that many of the belongings of the girl were removed developed at the inquest yesterday.

Capt. Kelly also made known that Miss Martha Bargfrede, who offered sensational testimony yesterday to the effect that Mrs. Ethel Limerick, sister-in-law of Beulah, had told her that a gun had been recovered in a stove and warned her against mentioning it, will be recalled to the witness stand.

Asserts Reed Had Pistol.

Miss Bargfrede also asserted that she had seen Richard Reed, also held in connection with the killing, with a gun on his person. She added that she had seen two guns in the murder house. Only one has been recovered.

After Miss Bergfrede told her story yesterday she remarked that she was surpsied that she had not been asked questions regarding the strained relationship between Beulah and the rest of the family. Learning of this, Capt. Kelly last night issued orders to have her resummoned.

Capt. Kelly, before departing from headquarters in pursuit of new clews, expressed dissatisfaction with the testimony of Patrolman William B. Satterwhite, of the Fifth Precinct, whose statements regarding Patrolman Robert F. Langdon's actions at the funeral parlor of W. W. Deal, on the night of January 1, were at complete variance with an earlier story, Capt. Kelly said.

Whelan Assails Memories.

At the conclusion of the inquest yesterday, Harry T. Whelan, counsel for Langdon, volunteered the comment that the memories of the entire Limerick family and its friends were hazy where any testimony was sought that might be detrimental to Vernon Limerick, William E. Paddy or Richard Reed, but their recollections were excellent where Langdon was involved.

Samuel Friedlander, who conducts a grocery store near the murder house, will testify, according to Capt. Kelly, that on the morning of December 31 two men and a woman used the telephone booth in his store. During the conversation, Friedlander said, he heard the warning "Keep your mouth shut!"

The three persons who were in the store, police say, are: Mrs. Julia Bywaters, sister of the slain girl; Earl Reed, a roomer at the home of Mrs. Dora E. Limerick, and a brother of Richard Reed, and Vernon Limerick.

Admit Telephone Call.

These three told Capt. Kelly and Detective Sergt. John A. Flaherty that they made three calls from the Friedlander store on December 31, one to Casualty Hospital, a second to the Fire Rescue Squad, and a third to William E. Paddy, the girl's escort on the night before the murder.

Earl Reed, the detectives said, admits making the third call, but denies that he made any admonition to Paddy to keep his mouth shut.

In a trunk, which was removed from the murder house before the murder was discovered, were many articles of wearing apparel that belonged to the slain girl. In addition to this were an overnight bag and

CALIFORNIA NAMES INGRAM GRID COACH

Navy's Departing Mentor Signs for 3 Years; Succeeds Price.

$15,000 WAGE REPORTED

Berkeley, Calif., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—William (Navy Bill) Ingram, former coach at the United States Naval Academy, today was appointed head football coach at the University of California for a three-year term.

Ingram takes the place of C. M. (Nibs) Price, who resigned after last season. No salary terms were announced, but it was understood the new mentor will receive between $12,000 and $15,000 yearly.

W. W. Monohan, graduate manager who signed Ingram during an extensive "hunting trip" throughout the Midwest and East, had instructions not to offer more than $15,000 a year for a coach.

Ingram notified the California authorities he would report here March 1, in time for spring training. He also stated he would recommend one, and possibly two, assistants.

Ingram was a star half back and quarter back at Navy in 1916, 1917 and 1918. He was named All-American quarter back in 1918.

In 1919 "Navy Bill" returned to Annapolis as first assistant to Gil Dobie. He organized the Pacific fleet team in 1920 and 1921, while stationed in this section, and acted as coach and player on those elevens.

Retiring from the Navy in 1922 to enter business, Ingram accepted a "hurry-up" call from William and

BALTIMORE VESSEL IN SHELLED IN CHASE

Guardsmen Report Seized Boat Is Loaded With Assorted Liquors.

THREE SEAMEN CAUGHT

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Riddled with machine-gun bullets and the after part of her pilot house damaged by a 1-pound shell, the powerboat Violet, of Baltimore, was towed to this port today by Coast Guard patrol boat CG-221.

The vessel, which Coast Guardsmen said was loaded with assorted liquors, was captured shortly after midnight after a long chase and much shooting by the Coast Guard craft. The pursued boat had run ashore near Plantation Light, in Lower Chesapeake Bay. Three men composing her crew jumped overboard after their craft was grounded, but they were captured by a small boat from the CG-221. They gave their names as John Kerry, skipper; John Rogers, engineer, and Jim Gray, deckhand.

The vessel was sighted at midnight near Cape Charles, Coast Guard officials said. The CG-221 signaled her to stop, but the order was not obeyed and the suspected craft attempted to get away by putting on full power. The Coast Guard boat opened fire, but she still continued to run. Several shells from a one-pounder were fired at the Violet, one of the shells passing through the after part of the pilot house.

"When the 1-pounder failed to halt the vessel, the crew on the CG-221 opened fire with machine guns. The bullets cut the ignition wire of the Violet and wrecked her fuel line near the carburetor.

No count was made of the cases of liquor on the Violet today. Coast Guard officers said, but they estimated there were 700.

Wardman Re-enters Realty Business; Plans Building

Proposed Erection of Twelve-Story Structure on Site of Old British Embassy Signals Return of Prominent Operator.

Harry Wardman, veteran Washington real estate opeartor, who several months ago disposed of all of his major realty holdings, is definitely "back in the game."

Plans announced yesterday by the widely known operator call for erection of a twelve-story office building on the site of the former British Embassy at Connecticut avenue and N street northwest.

His announcement is in line with a hint given last week in Alexandria Corporation Court, where minority stockholders are suing for appointment of a receiver for the Wardman Mortgage & Discount Corporation.

Mr. Wardman told Judge William P. Woolls "if he were let alone," he could make $1,000,000 with the equities of the corporation. He intimated he would start a new real estate development of ten houses within the week.

The twelve-story structure projected by Wardman on the former embassy site will be known as the Embassy Building, it was learned. Built of stone, steel and concrete, it will be designed for use particularly by physicians and dentists. James Baird Co. probably will get the contract, it was said.

Plans submitted to the Zoning Commission in October called for an eleven-story building, but reports current yesterday indicated there has been considerable alteration in design. Officials of the Wardman Cor-

Says: Many young men are just starting a political career of indeterminate length in State legislatures. A number of them will be future governors and senators. One or two may become President.

If they wish to be useful and influential in the public service they will put their reliance in courage and serious hard work. Knowing a little more about a subject under discussion than any one else on the floor will be the surest way to success. When that is done it will not be necessary to seek publicity. The press will come to them.

They will find artificial newspaper notoriety very dangerous. Even when it becomes very wide it has no depth. That kind of a reputation can be destroyed as easily as it was created by an equally artificial counterblast from the opposition. Legislators ought to pay much more attention to history. There are very few problems that are new. If they examine what has been done in the past they will save themselves many errors in the present. In the political life of tomorrow not only the greatest satisfaction, but the greatest power will go to the men who are right today.

Doctor Rates Chimpanzee Above Liberian Mentality

Public Health Surgeon, Returning, Hopes His Pet May Enter United States Under African Republic's Immigration Quota.

(Associated Press.)

Fifi, "an intelligent chimpanzee," yesterday entered as a comedy relief character in the sordid story of Liberia.

Tales of slavery in a land founded by the freed, tales of tortures authenticated by the State Department stamp, formed the background for Fifi's act.

Fifi belongs to Dr. Howard F. Smith, public health surgeon, who was recalled from Liberia because of lack of cooperation with his yellow fever investigations. If all goes well, she was to quit the African Gold Coast yesterday with Dr. Smith, sailing for England, and thence to the United States.

In a letter to a personal friend here, Dr. Smith, before leaving Monrovia, Liberia, told the story of Fifi, who got all the modern medical science intended for a nation, just because the chimpanzee was was willing to be educated and Liberia wasn't.

By a surgical operation, Dr. Smith saved Fifi's life. Her mother had been shot and killed by a native hunter. Fifi had been shot through the face, the ball stopping under the skin at the back of the neck. Dr. Smith removed the bullet, and brought the baby up on a bottle until it was old enough to take solid food.

Describing Fifi's accomplishments, Dr. Smith wrote: "At present she sits up to the table and drinks from a glass, eats with a spoon, unlaces my shoes at night and takes them off.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States Appears on Pages 2, 4 and 5 Today a box, which contained nineteen letters, apparently in the same handwriting, which police seized.

Offered No Explanation.

The Limerick family offered no excuse for their neglect to mention the removal of these articles when they were questioned earlier as to whether anything had been removed from the crime scene.

Early in the investigation, Capt. Kelly said, he had asked the Limericks if anything had been removed, and they showed him a few articles of wearing apparel. He asked if anything else had been removed, and received a negative reply.

In addition to the letters, all of which were addressed to "Mrs." Beulah Limerick, the trunk contained several dresses and articles of women's underwear, an usher's badge for "Navy Day" at the Washington Navy Yard, one tintype of her former husband, Earl Aitcheson, and her brother Vernon, and several handbags, one of which contained an invitation to the Sky High Whoopee Club dance.

Found Miscellaneous Papers.

Also there were several pocketbooks containing miscellaneous papers, a newspaper clipping concerning Russell Gates, who has been cleared of any suspicion in the case, and two pairs of "whoopee" socks. In the overnight bag were manicure articles, cosmetics, and several other articles of women's apparel.

When the detectives asked the Limericks why they had not told of the removal of the articles, they offered no excuse.

Miss Bargfrede's testimony was the most startling of the day and left the crowd that packed the board room in the District Building fairly gasping. It was the largest crowd to attend since the inquest began. Nearly 500 persons jammed into the aisles and seats before Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt opened the proceedings.

Admits Being Married.

The crowd laughed when Miss Bargfrede answered "I'm married," in response to a question of Coroner Nevitt as to her occupation. The witness told of her three years' acquaintanceship with the murdered girl. She denied that any at the Whoopee Club dance on December 30 were drunk, although she admitted that some were drinking.

"Did you know that Beulah and Richard Reed were posing a man and wife," asked Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins.

Miss Bargfrede faltered a minute and whispered, "Yes."

Miss Bargfrede became embarrassed when Mr. Collins questioned her in detail regarding the relationships between the girl and Reed, but denied any improper relationships between the two.

"Have you had any trouble with David Limerick?" Mr. Collins asked.

Told of Gun in Stove.

The witness stammered an inaudible reply.

"You mean that David Limerick assaulted you," asked the prosecutor.

"Yes," she answered.

"Where did this take place?"

"It was where Mrs. Limerick and the family were living on Sixth street."

Under further questioning she said she heard of the girl's death from a sister of the girl, and that she went to the Limerick home on the night after the murder was discovered. Up to that time, she said, she believed that death was caused by a hemorrhage.

"Did you ever learn anything different?"

"Not exactly, but Ethel (wife of William Limerick) told me they had found a gun in the stove and warned me not to say anything about it."

Warned to Keep Silent.

The spectators perked up their heads as Collins led with the next question: "And what time was this?"

"Between 8:30 and 9 o'clock on New Year's night." Mrs. Limerick (mother of Beulah) also told me not to go back and say anything about what I had just been told."

Miss Bargfrede also related conversations she had with the murdered girl in which she mentioned that an officer had been annoying her.

Mr. Whelan, on his examination, asked the girl if she knew the caliber of the gun which had been taken from the stove, and she replied she did not.

"You knew there were guns in the Limerick house, didn't you," pressed Mr. Whelan.

"Yes," she answered, Dick (Richard Reed) used to carry one strapped to his side in a holster."

"Did you ever see him take it out?"

"No."

"When did you last see it?"

Admits Seeing Two Guns.

"The night that the Whoopee Club had a party at Beulah's house."

"How many guns have you seen there?"

"Two."

Only one, a .32-caliber gun, the property of Reed, has been recovered by police.

James O'Shea, counsel for Limerick, Paddy and Reed, got the admission from the girl that the night she saw the gun on Reed she had heard something about Reed's contemplated hunting trip and that the party had occurred nearly two months ago.

Additional evidence regarding the guns will be offered, before the inquest is concluded, by Sigfred Michaelis, a plumber, who police say, saw a .25-caliber automatic on the table in the murder room several weeks ago.

Will Tell About Family.

When Miss Bargfrede left the stand she made a remark that she was not asked questions which would indicate the strained relationships between the girl and her family. This information was relayed to Capt. Kelly who decided to have recalled.

When Office Satterwaite was called to the stand, it was expected that he would testify that Langdon arrived at Deal's funeral parlor in a highly nervous state on New Year's Eve and that he asked how the body lay when the bullet was discovered.

Hhe failed to make any such statement.

"Did Langdon tell you why he had gone to Deal's?" asked Mr. Collins.

Says Langdon Was Calm.

"Well, he just made the remark that he was on the beat where this girl lived."

"What did you notice about his demeanor?"

"I wouldn't say that I noticed anything."

"Was he calm or nervous?"

"Calm, as far as I know; just like he always was."

"Did you talk with Mr. Byrne (an employe at Deal's) after he left.

"Yes."

"Did you make any comment about Langdon's actions?"

"Mr. Byrne said something about it."

The policeman hesitated and said: "I don't—I don't think I did. I don't remember."

"Was there anything about his actions which were peculiar?"

"Mr. Byrne made some remark about his action, said he seemed nervous but that he didn't know Langdon very well and he might always have been that way."

Different Story Claimed.

In verbal statements to Capt. Kelly and Sergt. Flaherty, the detectives said, Policeman Satterwaite had mentioned that Langdon was in a highly nervous state and asked pointed questions about the condition of the girl's body.

When Policeman Satterwaite failed to testify as he had previously talked with detectives, Capt. Kelly said he believed he would mention the difference in the officer's statements to Inspector William S Shelby for his consideration. Whether action is contemplated against the officer could not be learned last night.

Marion T. Ashford, who was recalled to the stand yesterday, in view of Langdon's assertion that he had seen the plumbing contractor in the murdered girl's house, heard Mr. Collins read back his earlier testimony.

He refused to alter his earlier statements and emphatically denied that he had ever visited the place other than on the day of her death.

Was Less Nervous.

Mr. Collins learned through the witness, however, that he rented an apartment in the apartment house where Mrs. Dora Limerick lives, but the witness said he had never occupied it. Mr. Ashford had recovered his composure and was less nervous than he had been when he first took the stand last week.

Ashford admitted having been arrested in Virginia for possessing a "little pint of liquor," but denied Mr. Collins' suggestion that the arrest was caused by peddling "a whole basketful of 'little pints of liquor' at a fair in Virginia.

Mr. Ashford said that the reason he was at the home of the girl's mother on the morning of the murder was that he had gone there to see Hugh Edwards about a trip to Philadelphia.

Mr. Edwards next testified and corroborated Ashford's testimony about the Philadelphia trip. Under examination by Mr. Whelan, he denied that he had ever been at the murder house.

Describes Murder Room.

Policeman Walter S. Beck, of the Fifth Precinct, told the jury of the state of the murder house when he arrived there at 5:30 p. m. on the night of the murder.

He said he had looked on the mattress for bullet holes and remarked that there were none. On a second visit later that evening he told of finding a .25 caliber shell in the front basement room, and a .38 caliber revolver in a bureau drawer.

"When you left the house the first time did Paddy, Vernon Limerick and Richard Reed go to the precinct in your car?" asked Mr. Collins.

"No, I took Paddy and the other two followed in their cars."

"Did Reed go directly to the station?"

"No, he did not. He went to Mrs. Limerick's apartment, where I found him 10 or 15 minutes later."

"Hadn't you ordered him to follow you to the station?"

Said He Misunderstood.

"Yes, when I asked him why he did not, he said he misunderstood me and thought we were all going to Mrs. Limerick's home."

In response to a question from Mr. Whelan, Policeman Beck said that that the floor underneath the cot was very dirty and it would have been difficult to see a bullet hole made by a .25-caliber slub. He added that there was enough coffee in a coffee mug to have concealed a shell.

Earl Reed, brother of Richard, aroused Mr. Collins anger by his hesitancy in answering simple questions. Over and over again, Mr. Collins asked him if he had heard any conversation among the Limericks when Vernon notified them of Beulah's "illness." He replied that he didn't, although he accompanied the family to the girl's home.

Had Told of Annoyances.

Mr. Whelan asked Earl Reed why it was that he could remember a conversation with Beulah about Langdon that occurred before Christmas, yet could not recollect any discussion about the girl's death on December 31. Earl Reed had told the oft-repeated story of Lnagdon's alleged annoyances of the girl.

It was Earl Reed who revealed on the stand that the girl's belongings had been removed from the murder house.

Mrs. Ethel Annadale, sister of Beulah, was visibly affected when testifying about the conditions in the girl's room when she viewed the body on December 31.

William D. Thompson testified that he had driven Beulah and a party of friends to the dance on December 30 and said he had never seen Beulah or Martha Bargfrede before that time. It was a "blind date," he said.

The appearance of Mrs. Pearl Posten, the nearest neighbor to the murder house, eased the tension of the courtroom. Mrs. Posten, a buxom middle-aged woman, emphasized each statement with the elevation of her eyebrows and the roll of her eyes.

Complained of Disorder.

"What caused you to complain about disorders in the Limerick house?" asked Mr. Collins.

"Why, those drunken men were standing outside my window singing 'Sweet Adeline,'" replied the witness, as she scanned the entire courtroom, apparently glorying in her position.

Mr. Collins remarked that the fact that they were singing "Sweet Adeline" was pretty good evidence that they were drunk. A laugh swept the room.

"This is no place for laughing," interrupted Morgue Master William Schoenberg, as he buried a grin in the corner of his mouth.

Several times on the murder night, Mrs. Poston said, she awoke and saw a light in the Limerick house. At 5 o'clock in the morning she again saw a light. On one occasion during the night she said she saw a car parked in front of the place.

Had Seen Policemen There.

Several times, she said, she had seen a policeman about the Limerick house, and on one occasion saw a light flashed by the officer through a window. She did not know the identity of the officer.

"Did you ever tell Policeman Langdon that you had been called vile names?" she was asked.

"Yes; one day a girl hollered across at me, 'There's that damn woman that reported this house.'"

Others who took the stand yesterday were James A. Paddy, brother of one of the prisoners; William Limerick, another brother.

"What about a gun in the stove," Mr. Collins asked William Limerick.

Drove Reed to Work.

He testified that he met Richard Reed at 4:50 on the morning of the murder at the Nineteenth street house, as was his custom, and drove him to the gas station, where he worked. He did not notice anything unusual in his manner, he said.

David Limerick admitted that he had been at a party at the murder house and had been arrested for disorderly conduct.

"What do you know about Martha Bargfrede?" asked Mr. Collins.

"All I know is that I got mother to keep her away from the house. She was running around with other men when she was married."

"Were you one of these 'other men?'"

"No."

"Did you ever have any trouble with Martha?"

"No."

"re you sure that you never had an argument or anything with her?"

"Yes," he replied

Miss Bargfrede had testified to the contrary.

Jury Visits Murder House.

Early in the day the coroner's jury visited the death house where Capt. Kelly and Sergt. Flaherty explained to the jurors the relative positions of the various bits of evidence on the day that the murder was uncovered at the undertaking establishment.

Capt. Kelly last night submitted a supplemental list of witnesses who will appear before the inquest.

They are: Charles Brown, a barber, and friend of the girl.

Mr. and Mrs. William D. Willis, who own the murder house.

Dewey Ryan, of Ritchie Station, Md., a friend of Vernon Limerick.

Earl Aitcheson, of Laurel, Md., whose marriage to the girl was recently annulled.

At the rate that the inquest has progressed it is not expected that the evidence will go to the jurors for consideration before Thursday.

Memorial to Byrd Unveiled by Legion

Richmond, Va., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—The accomplishments of Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd, of Virginia, were hailed by his fellow legionnaires here this afternoon at exercises unveiling a portrait of the explorer in the State Capitol.

Col. B. M. Roszel, of Winchester, Va., past commander of the Virginia department of the American Legion, said that study and preparation were the background of Admiral Byrd's numerous aeronautical and exploration feats.

The portrait, the gift of Massachusetts legionnaires to Virginia, was unveiled by Miss Westwood Byrd, the admiral's niece and daughter of former Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, of Virginia. The former governor, Thomas B. Byrd, another brother of the explorer, and Mrs. Richard E. Byrd, sr., their mother, attended the exercises. The unveiling was on today's program of the midwinter meeting of post commanders and adjutants, about 150 of whom were in attendance.

GROUP PARES ITEMS FOR NAVAL BUILDING

House Committee Hopes for Passage of $74,030,000 Bill Outlined.

DEPARTMENT PLANS CUT

(Associated Press.)

Shaved down by the House naval committee to such a size that its advocates hope it will slide easily down the congressional chute, the administration's naval construction program probably will be presented to the House this session.

Chairman Britten said he expected his committee to bring out a bill which would allow $74,030,000 for the first stages of construction to bring the fleet up to the strength set by the London Treaty. Altogether, the proposals before Congress would provide $172,935,000 for the work.

The other recommendations include one before the House appropriations committee to set aside $52,360,000, already authorized for ten destroyers and one destroyer leader. The Navy also has asked authority to expend $30,000,000 for modernizing three battleships.

In laying the administration's program before the committee, Secretary Adams recommended $90,635,000 for new construction. Mr. Britten predicted his group would decrease that amount by $16,605,000, the sum requested for a 6-inch gun vessel.

The $30,000,000 authorization for modernization of three battleships still is pending.

Items in the $74,030,000 bill, which Mr. Britten predicted his committee would approve, include an aircraft carrier to cost $27,650,000, a $20,780,000 flying deck cruiser unlike any other ship now afloat and four submarines to cost $4,400,000 each.

In addition, Mr. Britten said, the bill will carry $5,000,000 for 130 airplanes and $3,000,000 for experimentation with submarine and surface craft engines.

Included in the authorization for the aircraft carrier would be money to provide 114 airplanes. Thirty-six would be provided for the cruiser carrier.

The naval committee prepared yesterday to end its hearings soon on the bill. At the same time an appropriations subcommittee began taking testimony on the Navy annual supply bill, which carried $380,000,000 for the current year.

Peace Is Praised By Jane Addams

Social Leader Says Nations Must Come Together on Political Issues.

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Jane Addams took an optimistic view of world efforts for peace at a luncheon given in her honor today by the New York Branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

The 70-year-old founder of Hull House, in Chicago, urged that nations think in political terms in their dealings with one another. Military thinking she branded as out of date.

"The World Court and the Kellogg pact are attempts on the part of governments to pull up the political machinery," Miss Addams said. "It is easier for people to get together on the scientific and cultural side than it is to come together on the political issue. If nations could rid themselves of fear in their dealings, much would be accomplished toward doing away with war."

Mrs. E. P. Phillips Will Seek Divorce

Prominent Society Woman of Massachusetts in Reno Now.

Reno, Nev., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Mrs. Elizabeth Pillsbury Phillips, daughter of the late Albert E. Pillsbury, former attorney general of Massachusetts, has joined the Reno divorce colony and plans to file suit against her husband, Richard B. Phillips. Mr. Phillips is a student at Edinburgh University, Scotland, and is the son of Alexander V. Phillips, head of the Bemis Bag Co., of Boston.

Mrs. Phillips denied a report from Boston that her father-in-law had offered her 5,000 a month for life if she would return to her husband and become mother of another child.

"There is no use denying that I am here for a divorce," Mrs. Phillips said. "My father-in-law did try to effect a reconciliation. He asked me to return to Dick and to have another baby, with the idea that such an event would bring us together permanently, but he never even made a suggestion of paying me any money. Of course, I suppose some provision would be made for any child, but I have separated from my husband for all time."

Inquest Planned Today In Girl's Death by Car

Inquest into the death of Bettie Jane Bennett, 5 years old, who was killed Sunday afternoon in front of her home, 1901 Irving street northeast, by an automobile, will be held in the District Building this morning at 10 o'clock.

The driver of the car, Thomas Howard Bell, 19 years old, Franklin street northeast, near Twenty-eighth street, was released in custody of his attorney to appear at the inquest. The parents of the child are Russel C. and Ella M. Bennett.

Florida Temperature in Your Kitchen

Kitchens know little about the changes in seasons. They remain warm—summer and winter. It makes no difference to your refrigerator if the thermometer outside the kitchen window registers zero. The room temperature is probably at summer heat.

That is why it is so necessary to see that you have all the ice you need—in winter as well as summer. Perishable food requires careful protection all around the calendar.

You can be sure that your food is safeguarded if you keep the ice compartment of your refrigerator two-thirds full at all times. This will maintain the degree of coldness which the United States Government has found to be efficient in the preservation of food.

EXPERTS TO STUDY DRUG STORE WASTE

Department of Commerce Sends Five to St. Louis on Laboratory Survey.

LIKE PLAN IN LOUISVILLE

BY EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

In its campaign to determine the source of waste in distribution, which waste, it is estimated, costs American business ten billion dollars a year, the Department of Commerce this week turns its attention to the drug store.

Five Department of Commerce experts have journeyed to St. Louis, there to lay the groundwork for a scientific study of drug store merchandising methods.

The experts, headed by Wroe Alderson, of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, will select eleven drug stores in St. Louis, and these will be used as laboratories for an analysis of drug retailing methods in general.

Cooperating With Committee.

The survey is being made by the Department of Commerce in cooperation with a committee representing 30 trade associations. Heading this committee is Robert L. Lund, vice president of the Lambert Pharmacal Co., of St. Louis.

Among the questions which the investigators will seek to answer are these: Which departments are netting a profit? Which soda-fountain items are of outstanding value, and which could be dropped without loss in sales and profits? In what ways can general overhead expense be cut down? What are some of the avoidable causes of failure among retail druggists?

The results of the survey, which will be made available to druggists throughout the land, are expected to reveal the profitable and unprofitable practices in the business; to point the way to greater service and profit and to provide cleaner, fresher merchandise for the consumer at lower cost.

Will Last One Year.

The survey will last a year and will be similar in aim to the Louisville grocery store survey. In that, the department's experts studied merchandising methods in 26 grocery stores and wholesale houses in Louisville. As a result of their recommendations, grocers throughout the country have been able to cut down on waste.

One retail grocery store has reported to the Department of Commerce that, as a result of applying the lessons learned in the survey, it has increased its business from $80,000 to $96,000 a year.

By installing a new vegetable rack recommended by the department, this store increased vegetable sales 10 per cent and at the same time sharply reduced spoilage.

The Louisville survey and the forthcoming survey in St. Louis are a part of the general war on waste launched by Herbert Hoover when Secretary of Commerce.

TWO PLANS MADE FOR CURBING REDS

Measures to Check Bank Whispers and to Deport Urged on House.

MAY ACT ON SATURDAY

(Associated Press.)

Recommendations for curbing bank runs and deporting undesirable aliens were received from Treasury and Labor Department officials yesterday by the Communist investigating committee for presentation to the House Saturday.

In a secret session, Secretary Doak went on record for more stringent alien deportation laws. Comptroller of the Currency Pole asked for legislation making it a criminal offense to circulate false reports concerning any national bank or member of the Federal Reserve System.

Chairman Fish said he called Pole in connection with reports that runs and failures of certain banks were attributable to Communist propaganda.

"Pole made definite legislative recommendations for suppressing the Communist whispering campaign against banks," said the New Yorker. "There is no law covering this subject at the present time. Communists are taking advantage of depressed conditions to further their attacks on capitalism by instigating false rumors about the financial condition of banks."

Pole, committee members said, urged a stringent law to enable the Treasury to prosecute as criminals persons who intentionally and falsely imputed unsound financial conditions to national banks.

400 Zealot's Riot Reported Quelled

American Flag Is Burned in Filipino Uprising; Three Killed.

Manila, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—An uprising of 400 religious fanatics in Pangasinan Province, 160 miles north of Manila, was reported quelled today by Philippine constabulary with undetermined loss of life.

At least three townspeople of Tayug, were killed yesterday when the savages burned the constabulary barracks, the postoffice and ten other buildings. The American flag, stripped from the city hall, was burned by the fanatics, who wore inscription bands reading: "We want the Filipino flag alone to fly in the Philippines."

Three leaders of the fanatics were jailed by the constabulary. Others of the band, fleeing through the dense forests of the mountainous country, were being pursued.

Clouds Lifted Off French Divorces Got by Americans

Charges of Malpractice by Attorneys Not Proved, State Department Learns; More Complex in Mexico.

(Associated Press.)

Clouds left from bygone marital storms by the question of the legality of some Paris divorces are considered by State Department officials to have lifted. It is another matter, however, with regard to freedom obtained in some Mexican states. The French divorces included some of the most prominent people in America's social registers.

The French government, it was learned yesterday, has investigated charges of sharp practice among American attorneys engaged before its divorce courts, but so far as is known at the State Department, the investigations have failed to bring proof of the charges.

The inquiry was watched closely by the American embassy in Paris, since proof of the charges might have invalidated cases in which the alleged illegalities occured.

A recent tightening up by the French courts and a closer scrutiny of cases instituted by foreigners have brought to an end to a large extent the steady trek of recent years of Americans to Paris for matrimonial relief.

Some of the Mexican States, including Yucatan, with divorces even more easily obtainable than those in the French courts, have offered a more complex problem to the State Department. Contrasted with French decrees for Americans, Mexican divorces have brought a stream of questions of their actual validity in the United States. While few persons involved in foreign divorces have appealed to the State Department for a decision on the validity of the decree with which they were connected, the State Department almost daily receives letters from persons whose former mates have obtained Mexican divorces.

To each of these letters the State Department merely replies that the question of validity is one for the courts of the separate States.

The American Embassy at Mexico City has reported a still further complication in the situation in the action of the courts of the State of Morelos, Mexico, in declaring divorces obtained in Yucatan under certain conditions to be void. A gradual lessening of the interest of American nationals on divorces abroad was found by State Department officials to have followed the adoption by the Nevada State Legislature of less stringent laws for the establishment of residence in that State.

BEER CHIEF ADMITS INCOME TAX GUILT

Plea Made Contingent on Court Decision in Ralph Capone Case.

SENTENCE IS DEFERRED

Chicago, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Terrance J. Druggan, former millionaire bootlegger, pleaded guilty "with reservations" today to four indictments charging violation of the income tax laws. Sentence was deferred until March 2.

The Government charged that Druggan, a once powerful beer baron, owed income taxes for the years 1922, 1923 and 1924 or $243,209 plus a 50 per cent penalty and interest. To Satisfy part of this indebtedness, Federal authorities levied liens on everything they could find that he owned, including a farm, a $40,000 home and various financial interests.

Druggan was the second of the men indicted in the Government's drive against major gangsters to plead guilty. Frank Nitti, a Capone executive, pleaded guilty to similar charges and was sentenced to 18 months and fined $10,000. Several others have been tried, convicted and sentenced. Among them were Ralph Capone, who was sentenced to three years, and Jack Guzik, who was given five years.

Accompanying the plea of guilty entered by Druggan's lawyers was a stipulation signed by defense counsel and the Government prosecutors, under which Druggan has the right to withdraw the plea of guilty and substitute a plea of not guilty in the event the United States circuit court of appeals or the United States Supreme Court sustain the appeals of Ralph Capone and State Representative Lawrence O'Brien, who were convicted on similar charges, on points raised by defense counsel.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE most significant utterance in Mr. Raskob's statement, of course, is that plans are being made to raise funds in a Nation-wide campaign. If this is not done the financial setup of the party will continue to give the Republicans the issue that Mr. Raskob owns the party.

It was one of their main issues of the recent congressional elections and while the results do not lead to the belief that it was a very effective one, it has, nevertheless, been accentuated by the party's financial report for the year 1930, which gives the picture, an inaccurate one in the light of his statement, that he has a $600,000 mortgage on the party.

* * * *

IT is a funny thing about Mr. Raskob and what he has done for the Democrats. Right after the 1928 debacle, there were Democrats who loudly screamed that he be made to pay the deficit and then get out. He was responsible, they shouted, let him hold the bag.

But much water has flowed over the dam since those days. Instead of wanting him to hold the bag now they do not want to let him hold it. They want him paid back so that it can not be charged that it is his party, body and soul.

WE don't recall any one rushing forward to repay him, but the periodical reports revealing the increasing debt to him have been the subject of discussion among Democratic leaders, and the thought has been increasing that something should be done about it.

Mr. Raskob's statement rather implies that he has no aversion to this at all.

A sort of half-hearted attempt was made right after the 1928 campaign to raise money by public subscription, but very little came of it. An attempt was even made to sell Gov. Smith's autobiography, but, in spite of the millions of admirers which the governor has, it is pretty hard to get people to invest in the deficit of a lost political campaign.

* * * *

AS a result of Raskob or his efforts, a new life has been injected into the party. It has perhaps never been in such fine fettle before.

And the success in the November elections makes a good fund-raising talking point. An effort now might meet with much more sympathetic response, or maybe a little later when times perk up.

RASKOB DENIES STATEMENT HE OWNS DEMOCRATIC PARTY

* * * felt great responsibility for a large part of our deficit, and met it."

Mr. Raskob's statement, issued through the Democratic national committee, was in the form of a letter to Frank R. Kent, of the Baltimore Sun, who had charged that Raskob owned the party.

"You charge that I have taken over all the liabilities of the Democratic party," he said, "assumed all its debts; that I am the only indorser on its notes; that I put Mr. Shouse in charge and am paying all operating expenses, including several large salaries, and have made great reduction in the party debt; in short, that I have bought and paid for the party.

"None of these statements is true. I am one of a group of men indorsing the only committee note outstanding. I have assumed none of the liabilities and none of the debts of the committee."

Assering that he had not known Jouett Shouse, chairman of the executive committee and in charge of the Democratic bureau here, until the campaign of 1928, he declared that Mr. Shouse had been given an absolutely free hand; that he "has never been interfered with by me, but has shaped his policies and conducted his work most successfully through working in close communion and harmony with the members of the Democratic national committee and particularly with Democratic senators and representatives who are easily accessible in Washington."

Money Will Be Repaid.

"I am loaning money to the national committee which will be repaid," he said, adding, "As a result of the party's defeat in 1928 and the severe financial depression of the last fifteen months it has been difficult to raise money to carry on our work. My faith and confidence in the fundamental liberal principles of the Democratic party gave me a great sense of security in the party's virility and the repayment of necessary loans." The recent elections "fully justify" his faith, he said.

Asserting that the Democratic party "is not and will not be controlled by any man or small group of men," he declared the nominations of the 1932 convention will not be "dictated by any clique."

"When this great party bows to the control of one man or small group of men, as does the Republican party, it will cease to be Democratic, will cease to exist, and will not have me, a true liberal in every sense of the word, as its national chairman."

Denies Ever Being Republican.

He warmly resented the insinuation, frequently heard, that he had always been a Republican and became a Democrat because of Gov. Smith's religion.

"Your article," he said to Mr. Kent, "infers that I was a Republican and states that I voted for Coolidge, Harding, and Hughes and became a Democrat solely because of the Smith candidacy.

"None of the above is true although it has been used by the Republicans as political propaganda in every malicious way possible and in spite of my denials. The facts are that my grandfather, father and whole family were Democrats and I lived with them until 27 years of age, when I married into a family that have been Democrats always, having settled in Maryland in 1634 and lived there ever since. I disapproved of the party's attitude on silver in 1896, and in consequence, although generally voting the Democratic ticket, have always been an independent in politics until I affiliated with the Democratic party.

Union League Club Member.

"I have never affiliated with the Republican party, never voted or took part in its primaries, did vote for a Republican President and belong to the Union League, a social club in Philadelphia, the charter of which provides that a member must believe in our republican form of Government. It does not provide a member must be a Republican. When I was elected a member, the membership committee was told I voted for President Wilson and my resignation has not been requested by reason of being chairman of the Democratic national committee, or otherwise."

Furthermore, he said, "a substantial number of its membership voted for Hon. Alfred E. Smith for President in 1928 and an even greater number voted for Mr. Hemphill for governor of Pennsylvania last November."

"There is no apology needed for any man whose convictions are changed on any subject," he said, adding "Gossip has it that Mr. Hoover was formerly a Democrat."

$112,000 FOR ROADS ALLOTED TO COUNTY

Share of U. S. Emergency Construcion Fund Is Given Arlington.

PLAN TO WIDEN HIGHWAY

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County again comes in for a share of improvement of State highways with the announcement from the highway department at Richmond that $112,000 had been alloted for the widening and rebuilding of the Lee highway from Hall's Hill to Falls Church, a distance of approximately one and three-quarter miles.

This allocation, according to a statement, comes from the Federal emergency construction fund, of which Virginia receives $1,504,000.

The Lee highway from the Key Bridge at Rossiyn to the People's State Bank at Cherrydale was widened to 28 feet in 1928. In 1929 the improvement was carried from Cherrydale to a point opposite the colored school building at Hall's Hill.

The statement does not state when work will be started other than in 1931-1932. Indications are that it will be started this coming summer.

Meeting yesterday afternoon at Clarendon, the committee of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, of which A. L. Kelley is chairman, in charge of the arrangements for the annual dinner meeting and election of officers, completed its plans. The meeting will be held in the Odd Fellows Hall at Clarendon. The business meeting to be preceded by a turkey dinner to be served by the ladies of the Clarendon Rebekah Lodge promptly at 6:30 o'clock. Henry C. Morris, vice president, will be toastmaster.

Among the speakers will be G. A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., Representative R. Walton Moore, Representative-elect Judge Howard W. Smith, George Plitt, president of the Washington Board of Trade, and Edmund Allen, president of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce.

The entertainment to follow the speaking, which is being arranged by Louis C. Carl, assisted by Harold M. Brown, will include fancy dancing by Louise and Jane Carl and Susan Hall, songs by Anna Mendell and Marion Moreland, with community singing led by Harold M Brown.

Music during the evening will be furnished by George Gall and his orchestra.

The nominating committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Harry A. Fellows, completed its slate of officers to be selected at the annual election to be held Wednesday, January 28. The list comprises the following names:

For president, Mrs. Ruby Simpson, of Washington district; for vice president, Mrs. Ruth Lowell, of Arlington district, and Mrs. Mary Williams, of Washington district; for recording secretary, Mrs. Anna J. Sloan and Mrs. Jessie Skidmore, both of Jefferson district; for corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jessie Hunt, of Arlington district, and Mrs. Edith Walton, of Washington district; for treasurer, Mrs. Jessie Roberts, of Arlington district, and Mrs. Ada Davidson, of Washington district; for parliamentarian, Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, of Arlington district, and Mrs. Dorothy Dunn, of Washington district; for registrar, Mrs. Ethel Cook, of Arlington district, and Mrs. Isabel Davis, of Jefferson district.

The time and place of the meeting will be announced at an early date.

Mrs. Ruth J. Anderson, of the extension department for public health nurses of William and Mary College, arrived in Arlington yesterday, where she will spend a week in field work in the county under the direction of Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer.

Attention is called to motorists that tomorrow at midnight will be the last opportunity that they will have to operate their automobiles with 1930 tags.

J. V. Turner, of East Falls Church, announces that he will be in the office of Sheriff Howard B. Fields at the Arlington County Courthouse today and tomorrow from 9 o'clock in the morning until 4 o'clock in the afternoon to issue tags. Persons unable to reach the courthouse before closing hour may obtain their tags from his office in the evening at East Falls Church.

Dr. P. M. Chichester announces that the Schick test to ascertain whether or not a child is susceptible to diphtheria will be given today at the Clarendon Health Center.

All children over 6 years of age are eligible for this test. Dr. Chichester states that all children who have had the three toxin-antitoxin treatments for the preventive of diphtheria as long as six months prior to this date should have this test.

With the completion of the additions to the four elementary schools, County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp yesterday announced the appointment of seven teachers. In addition two have been appointed to the Washington-Lee High School faculty.

Those going to the Henry Clay School at Lyon Park, where six rooms have been added, are Miss Lottie English, Mrs. Carrie Lyons, Mrs. Clements, and Miss Elizabeth Perkins.

Mrs. Melvin Kite goes to the Nellie Custis School, at Aurora Hills, where four more rooms have been added.

Mrs. Virginia Linger goes to the James Monroe School at Aurora Heights, where four rooms have been added.

Mrs. Annie Hazel has been assigned to the Stonewall Jackson School, at Bon Air, where three rooms have been added.

While the 32-room addition to the Washington-Lee High School has not yet been completed, two teachers have been added to the faculty, Miss Margaret Peed and Miss L. Ritter.

It is hoped to have the high school completed during the coming month.

SLAYER OF TEACHER IS LYNCHED BY MOB

of Paul (Shike) Smith, 28, a Negro hunting companion, and sought to place part of the blame for the actual clubbing of the teacher upon him. Smith has disappeared since Gunn's arrest.

The lynching of Gunn followed an unsuccessful attempt on his life at St. Joseph, whence he was taken for safekeeping after Nodaway County attorneys announced he had confessed and a mob began to form here.

He was spirited away to Kansas City, then returned to Maryville at 3 a. m. a week ago for preliminary hearing. The prosecutor, whose house had been picketed by incensed citizens, eluded them by remaining away all night before the hearing. Gunn was returned to Kansas City and reappeared this morning for arraignment.

Crowd Grows to 2,000.

Citizens said there were several hundred persons about the courthouse when a group of men, wearing no masks or other disguise, seized the Negro. They crowded in as a rope was placed about Gunn's body, and the leaders took the sheriff's handcuffs to manacle him. No shot was fired, no weapon brandished.

As it marched along, the crowd grew rapidly to about 2,000. Gunn was pulled along, then dragged as he hung back.

Long before the school was reached he was stripped to the waist. His shoes were lost as he was dragged. He talked volubly and protestingly about the crime, but there was disagreement among those who heard as to what he said.

Crowd Mile Long.

The crowd of people and automobiles around the scene of the lynching extended a mile along the roads in each of four directions.

Ten minutes after the torch was applied the roof fell in and the schoolhouse was soon a heap of smouldering ashes. The crowd dispersed slowly. For hours afterward men stood in small groups about the streets. Few women appeared, although there had been many women, and children, too, at the burning.

Virgil Rathbun, Nodaway County prosecutor, said he did not care to discuss what action he might take against leaders of the mob.

Omaha, Nebr., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Paul ("Shike") Smith, Negro, said to have been implicated by Raymond Gunn in the murder of Miss Velma Colter near Maryville, Mo., on December 16, was arrested late today by police detectives.

Denies He Is Implicated.

Smith, who said he came here on December 21, denied any connection with the death of Miss Colter.

He said that on December 16, from 3 p. m. until 9 p. m. he was at the home of his aunt, Mrs. B. F. Smart, at Maryville, helping her with dinner.

He declared that Mrs. Luther Forsythe and Mrs. Edwina Condon, of Maryville, were at his aunt's home from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m., and could corroborate his story.

instance, in one county the chairman considered the reports of distress were exaggerated 30 days ago, but yesterday requested relief for 250 families and feared many more would prove to be in need.

Growing Load of Work.

In Kentucky, a worker who has just returned reported a growing load of relief work has been found by all chapters. Where early surveys showed 125 families would need help the Red Cross now finds that it is called upon to feed from 300 to 500 and believes that others will apply later who are just as needy.

A donation of $2,500 was made last night to the Red River Parish (La.) Chapter of the Red Cross, where local resources had been used to the limit to care for 250 families. An authorization of $4,500 was given for La Fiore County, Miss.

Dr. William De Kleine, medical director of the Red Cross, is on his way to the drought area to plan a campaign to combat pellagra and malnutrition and to attempt to solve other health problems.

Democrats Support Provision.

While Republican House leaders will move that the House disagree to the Senate's $15,000,000 food provision for drought sufferers, Democrats plan to propose that the conferees be instructed to accept it. Administration leaders, however, expect their forces to successfully resist such a move.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, read into the record a preferential motion which he will offer today, instructing the House conferees to agree to the Senate amendment with an amendment extending food relief to the needy in cities.

Indications are that this motion will be voted down, but it is expected to command a considerable vote.

Minority Leader Garner predicted that at least 150 members would vote for the food proposal.

Urges Prompt Relief.

He read into the record telegrams from his Texas district showing that some 1,200 families are in dire need. He charged that the announcement by President Hoover that he approved the proposed appeal by the Red Cross is "an admission that he and John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, did not know the actual conditions existing in this country."

Representative Oldfield (Democrat), Arkansas, in her maiden speech in the House, declared that she did not care how the situation was met, but that it must be alleviated, and speedily, since otherwise "disease and actual starvation will promptly relieve the necessity for a delayed, futile gesture."

"It has been said," she continued, "that the Red Cross was amply prepared and is now taking care of the needy. Do you think 2 cents per meal is enough to furnish sufficient food of any kind to sustain life and guard health?

Aid Held Inadequate.

"This is the amount the Red Cross is furnishing per meal for each person."

The other woman member from Arkansas — Representative Effiegene Wingo—presented a telegram from a personal friend describing the recent food disturbance at England, Ark.

Another proposal to raise funds for the unemployed and drought stricken was made in a bill by Representative Ackerman (Republican), New Jersey, to print a billion 2-cent stamps to sell for 3 cents, the extra penny to go to a relief fund.

Requests for early hearings on their proposals to appropriate funds for the Red Cross were laid before the House agricultural committee by Representatives LaGuardia and Fish, of New York.

Boarding an air-mail plane bound for Fort Worth, Rogers said he would spend two or three weeks on a tour of the three States, appearing before audiences and giving all funds collected to the unemployed.

He will arrive in Fort Worth late today and will confer with Jesse Jones, Houston capitalist engaged with him in plans for the tour.

Rogers said he hopes to use an airplane on the tour and indicated arrangements had been made with Capt. Frank Hawks, noted speed flier, to pilot his ship.

which had been kept on a scow in the harbor in readiness for refueling, were withdrawn.

There was still a possibility they had been forced to come down near one of the small, uninhabited islands of the Azores group or had been picked up by some vessel not equipped with wireless. This possibility was a forlorn one, however, and little hope was felt in that quarter.

Although many vessels plying in the vicinity of the route the Tradewind was to follow kept a sharp lookout from the moment of the take-off, the plane was not sighted. It was not equipped with wireless and so, in case of trouble, could not call for help.

In view of the possibility the aviators might have missed the Azores altogether and continued eastward, wireless stations in Madeira, the Canary Islands and along the French and Portuguese coasts were asked to be on the alert for any reports. Up to tonight nothing had been received.

Storms prevailed tonight over a wide portion of the Atlantic, according to reports from ships at sea.

Strangled Infant's Last Rites Today

Services to Be in Home at Burnt Mills, Interment in Arlington.

Funeral services for 4-months-old James Allen English, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. English, of Burnt Mills, Md., who strangled while lying in his carriage on the porch of the English home Sunday, will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the residence. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery, the father having been an Army officer in the World War.

The baby had been placed in its carriage on the porch of the home for its airing. The mother and a visitor, Mrs. C. Y. Latimer, of Takoma Park, Md., were in an adjoining room. About half an hour later the father brought the child into the house and it was found to be unconscious.

Mrs. Latimer drove the Englishes and the boy to the office of Dr. W. R. Haynes, of Silver Spring, who pronounced him dead. The baby had regurgitated its milk and then drawn it into its lungs, causing strangulation.

poration would not confirm or deny the reported changes.

Accompanying the original plans was a petition for a change in zoning restrictions on a part of the site. The petition asked that the northeast corner of Nineteenth and N streets be changed from residential "90-foot C" to "110-foot D," making this portion conform with the Connecticut avenue frontage. It was granted.

Plans for an eight-story structure to be erected by Baer & Scholz were also announced yesterday. The builders would not divulge the location other than to say it would be in the Northwest section.

Plans for the construction of another eight-story building at 1726-30 I street northwest, which will also serve as a medical office structure, have been filed with the office of District Building Inspector Oehmann by the 1726 I Street Corporation.

SOIL TRANSPORTED TO EDITOR'S GRAVE

Col. Pendleton Is Buried at Berkeley Springs in Virginia Earth.

SON FLIES TO BEDSIDE

Special to The Washington Post.

Berkeley Springs, W. Va., Jan. 12.—Col. Nathaniel Spottswood Dandridge Pendleton, 79 years old, member of one of the most distinguished families of the eastern Panhandle of West Virginia and for 40 years editor of the Berkeley Springs News, a Democratic weekly newspaper, died at his home, Mountain Rest, here yesterday after an extended illness of arthritis.

Burial was this afternoon here, where he had lived for 60 years. In conformity with a request made in his will he was buried in soil of "Old Virginia," a truck load of it being brought from nearby Virginia today and placed in the grave into which the body was lowered. The Episcopal service was read by the rector, the Rev. E. C. Townsend. Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Eleanor Campbell, of Raleigh, N. C., who had been at his bedside for some days; two sons, Talbott Taylor, of Fort Worth, Tex., a former athletic star of Princeton University, and James B. Taylor, of Nogales, Ariz., who flew to his father's bedside last week.

Col. Pendleton came here with his family in 1860 and made this his home. He bought the newspaper in 1889 and continued its editorship as a militant Democratic organ, until 1929, when ill health forced him to dispose of the paper. Since then he lived a retired life. He was in the railway mail service in early life. He was a native of Berkeley County, W Va. He was a son of Dr. Elisha Boyd Pendleton and Lucinda Mason Tutt Pendleton. A brother, Charles Henry Pendleton, was lieutenant commander in the United States Navy Commander Pendleton died at Martinsburg several years ago. He also had one sister, Mrs. Eugene Van Rensselaer, Albany, N. Y.

While but a boy when the Civil War broke out the youthful Pendleton had several experiences in the strife. The border town of Martinsburg was the scene of almost continuous battles and skirimishes. When opportunity offered, he followed Union soldiers into battle or exploring expeditions. At one time he slipped through the Confederate picket lines to Hedgesville to warn Gen. Kelly there that he had overheard a Confederate council in the Dandridge home that the Confederates were moving to surround Kelly's forces of 8,000 men. Whether Gen. Kelly believed the boy or not, Pendleton said in telling of the experience later in life, the Union troops slipped across the river into Maryland.

Pendleton received from Gen. U. S. Grant an appointment for the Military Academy at West Point, but attended the academy for only eighteen months. After working in a brokers office in New York, he returned to the Shenandoah Valley. At Berkeley Springs he met and married Miss Agnes Taylor, of Baltimore. Mrs. Pendleton died in 1907.

UNION OF VIRGINIA FAIRS IS PROPOSED

Col. Watkins Suggests Major and Minor Circuits as Economy Move.

CONVENTION IS CLOSED

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Jan. 12.—The Virginia Fair Association opened its fourteenth annual session this morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Hotel Petersburg, with a full attendance of delegates from various sections of the State. The delegates were welcomed to the city by Mayor I. Val Parham, and the response was by J. Calloway Brown, Mayor of Bedford, who is also secretary of the Bedford Fair.

The convention was presided over by Col. H. B. Watkins, of Danville, president of the association, who made his annual address and report. He spoke briefly on the depression and its effect on the fairs and amusement organizations last year. Col. Watkins, however, in his speech declared that the outlook now was brighter for future fairs. He proposed a merger of three circuits in the State which would take in the larger fairs in the first circuit, and the smaller ones in another circuit.

This, he said, would prevent the long railroad jumps that the amusement companies have to take, and would result in the fair's having more liberal contracts with the carnival companies.

In speaking of the carnivals, Col. Watkins asked J. F. Murphy, general manager of the Melville Reiss shows, to explain the merger, which he did. At this afternoon session miscellaneous business was transacted and there were several addresses. A resolution was adopted making Richmond the permanent meeting place of the association. Following the adoption of the resolution the present officers of the association were reelected: President, Col. H. B. Watkins, Danville, Va.; vice presidents, Hon. T. B McCaleb, Covington, Va.; Hon. T. L. Felts, Galax, Va.; Mrs. Lem P Jordan, Suffolk, Va., and Charles A. Somma, Richmond; secretary and treasurer, C. B. Ralston, Staunton, Va.

It was expected that the association would be in session again tomorrow, but President Watkins stated late this afternoon that as all the business before the convention had been finished today there would be no session tomorrow, and that the convention would be closed tonight with a banquet at Hotel Petersburg, which was addressed by Lieut. Gov. Price.

Conscience and Disgust Overcome Alleged Thief

Baltimore, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Conscience and disgust combined today to send William J. Annulis, 24, to a police station to give himself up voluntarily.

Annulis explained he was conscience-stricken because he had stolen $20 from the cashier's cage of the department store where he was employed.

He was disgusted, he said, because he failed in an effort last night to froce open a safe in an office by means of an electric drill.

Annulis said he tried the safe robbery after he had lost the stolen $20 in a crap game. He had been employed by the department store for 16 months.

JOHNSON WILL PUSH REPEAL OF DRY LAW

West Virginia Senator Backed by Democrats; May Deny Appropriations.

BOXING BILL PROPOSED

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 12.—The Senate will remain in the hands of the Republicans, while the Democrats are due to take charge of the House of Delegates when the 1931 session of the Legislature is convened at Charleston on Wednesday, and, judging from presession announcements from various members, many important matters are on the program.

Senator Clyde E. Johnson, a veteran in State politics, who defeated former Senator Walter B. Hallahan, Republican national committeeman, in the November election, has announced that he will sponsor a bill to do away with the State prohibition department. Many other Democratic leaders are backing him in his efforts, contending that the State police could handle the prohibition question, along with Federal agents. These leaders have also made it known that they will endeavor to deny to State Department of Public Safety, the official name for the police organization, appropriations unless they have assurance that the police will keep out of politics, something, they charge, was not done in the last election.

Another attempt to legalize boxing in West Virginia is on the program. The American Legion and various other organizations will use their efforts in the passage of a bill creating a boxing commission to guide in the State the roped-arena game. The bill has been passed twice but vetoed each time by the governor, Gov. John J. Cornwell doing so in 1917, and Gov. Howard M. Gore later. It is not known how Gov. Conley feels about the bill.

As the result of the campaign over the State by State Tax Commissioner T. C. Townsend and complaints by various business concerns, much tax reform legislation is likely to be passed. A real fight is being made against the gross sales tax.

Senator M. Z. White, who is favored by the governor, is certain to be elected president of the Senate, while J. Alfred Taylor, former representative and the Democratic gubernatorial candidate in 1928; A. J. Wilkinson, Ralph M. Hiner and several more are candidates for speaker.

DYNAMITE DAMAGES HOME OF MILL MAN

Danville Official Is Hurled From Bed, Wife Injured, by Explosive.

BOMBERS MAKE ESCAPE

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Jan. 12.—Police tonight were without any clue to the authors of the most serious bombing outrage which has shaken Danville since the textile strike began. The terror squad again escaped after partially wrecking the home of John P. Broome, superintendent of spinning in the Riverside Mills, and damaging less seriously five nearby houses.

The blast occurred at 2:30 o'clock this morning and shook houses at Fall Creek, 6 miles away. Dynamite was thrown from a passing car, but hit a tree in the front yard. The concussion, according to Broome, threw him out of bed to the floor and sprinkled the bed of his wife with broken glass and plaster, which fell freely in several rooms. The front door was blown open.

Broome says he ran to the door with his revolver as soon as he could get up and saw a car receding in the distance without a rear light. Over an hour later the police detained three men in a car, similar to that described by Broome, found out of gas on the county pike, but after being questioned for an hour they were remanded to jail to face a liquor charge. Chief of Police Martin said they had no part in the dynamiting.

The whole neighborhood was terrorized by the blast. The adjoining property owners who suffered were not identified in any way with the strike controversy. Plaster was cracked in some houses. There is a standing reward of $1,000 for information leading to the conviction of dynamiters.

The condition of Mrs. Broome this evening was reported "serious" and she was in the hands of a doctor, suffering from a nervous collapse. Broome has been a central figure in the strike controversy and says he had been threatened. His home was insured against the damage done it this morning.

While today was set for the eviction of 47 Schoolfield strikers from mill-owned property, no dispossessions took place. Magistrate Fitts again demurred to putting strikers out in the rain, but said that it was not necessary to do this because families ordered to move "are getting out as fast as they can."

Danville ministers made no collective reply to the assault made on them yesterday evening by the Rev. W. B. Spofford, of New York, who said he "supposed the pastors here are mill-owned."

An official of Mount Vernon Methodist Church, whose pastor, the Rev. John B. Winn, now is in a Richmond hospital, was singled out for attack as pastor of H. R. Fitzgerald, mill president, said no reply would be made. The Rev. N. E. Wicker, Episcopal rector, said that Mr. Spofford "did not speak for the Episcopal churches of America."

Brunswick Water Supply Assured

Three Springs in Washington County Purchased; Bond Issue Likely.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Jan. 12.—An agreement to purchase three springs in Washington County for $10,000 was closed today by Mayor Harry C. Allgire and the council of Brunswick for the purpose of increasing the town's water supply. The project, which will cost more than $100,000, will be financed by a bond issue. Permission to float the bonds will be asked of the State General Assembly, now in session, within a few days and an effort will be made to begin work on the improvement within 60 days.

The springs are located near Brownsville, 7 miles from the town. A right of way was purchased some time ago and a 10-inch pipe line will be constructed to convey the water to a reservoir.

It is estimated that the springs will supply between 400,000 and 500,000 gallons daily. This, with about 50,000 gallons daily under normal conditions from springs in Virginia and 15,000 gallons from an artesian well, will give the town of 4,000 inhabitants an abundant supply for many years, it is hoped. Purchase of the springs culminates a controversy of five years over obtaining more water.

Aud Named Tennessee Antisaloon League Head

Baltimore, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—The Rev. B. Franklin Aud, assistant superintendent of the Maryland Antisaloon League, has been appointed Tennessee superintendent of the league and will take office February 1, it was announced today. His headquarters will be at Nashville.

PROSPERITY IS SEEN FOR DAIRY FARMERS

"Stick to Cows" Is Advice Given at Shenandoah Producers Meeting.

MORE MILK IS HANDLED

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Jan. 12.—Shenandoah Valley dairy farmers were advised to "stick to their cows," at the ninth annual meeting of the Valley of Virginia Milk Producers Association today, because when prosperity returns to American homes dairy products, of all farm products, will be the first to benefit from the increased buying power of the consuming centers, it was stated.

This advice was given the 650 dairy farmer members of the association by D. E. Shank, its secretary-treasurer, and by Gordon H. Ward, of the Virginia agricultural extension division. Unemployment and decreased purchasing power of the city consumer, not overproduction and surplus, were held largely responsible for the present low range of dairy products.

"Dairy production is not above normal," said Mr. Ward. The decreased consumption caused by reduced consumer buying resulting from the business depression is the chief cause of the low prices.

Judging from the length of previous depressions, conditions should start to improve this spring and consumer demand should pick up during 1931 and bid up prices to more favorable levels a year from now. Also, with normal crops in 1931, dairy production should become more favorable for farmers than at present.

The Valley of Virginia Milk Producers Association, a cooperative organization, did a record business in 1930 through increased membership. It handled 11,123,000 pounds of milk against 9,900,000 pounds in 1929 and against 5,800,000 pounds in 1926. Due to administrative economies, the cost of marketing was reduced in 1930 to 3.7 per cent of the total of sales against 5.9 per cent in 1926. Money sales of milk dropped $61,000 last year, despite that 1,400,000 more pounds of milk were sold.

DRIVER IS ARRESTED IN GRIMM KILLING

Prince Georges Sheriff Finds Bowlding in Shack After Auto Accident.

TAX COLLECTIONS GAIN

Wallace Bowlding, of Faulkner, Md., was arrested yesterday as the driver of the car which crashed into a pole Sunday and killed Raymond Grimm, 28, of La Plata. Bowlding was released when he posted bond of $1,000 for his appearance before a coroner's jury Friday.

Bowlding disappeared after the accident, and was found by Deputy Sheriff A. C. Thompson in a shack in the woods about 2 miles from Camp Springs, where the accident occurred. He had received lacerations of the face and bruises to the scalp.

Grimm was the oldest son of Mrs. Lulu Mae Gamble, who came into the limelight last summer when she shot Mrs. Elsie Davis, when she found her in an automobile with her husband. She was later acquitted.

The youth died a few hours after the crash at Casualty Hospital, where he was taken. Judge Harry I. Anderson has charge of the inquest.

Although this has been a bad year for crops and business, it seems likely that there will not be as many Prince Georges County properties advertised for nonpayment of taxes in 1931 as there have been in the two preceding years, according to R. Ernest Smith, country treasurer. Mr. Smith revealed that tax collection on December 31 were about $10,000 over the amount normally collected on that date.

During the eight months of 1930 in which the taxes have been due, $945,034.64 has been paid into the treasurer's office. During a similar period in 1929, only $935,098.43 was the sum collected. This gain has been made despite a reduction of both State and county tax rates and despite the almost complete failure of all crops, except in tobacco.

Collections during the last three months of the year were far larger than usual, as in September taxpayers were about $20,000 behind in their payments. It is believed, as soon as crop conditions for tobacco improved, the farmers sent their product to market and so paid their taxes promptly. Where producers of other products obtained the money is not generally known.

Despite a reduction of the county tax rate from $1.36 to $1.35, the county taxes are $2,000 beyond normal. The total collected to the first of the year was $679,589.70.

On the other hand, State taxes showed a decrease of about the same amount, which is held due to a decrease in the rate from 25.74 cents to 25 cents. The amount collected for the State was 118,831. An increase of nearly $1,000 was shown in the amount collected for the Sanitary and Park and Planning Commission tax. In 1929 they took in $27,866.24 on 10-cent rate, and in 1930, $28,694.09.

Thieves recently entered the postoffice at Mitchellville, Md., and a store operated by the chief of the Riverdale police. The gang who broke into the postoffice got less than $1 in small change, but did not disturb a quantity of mail. In Riverdale, where the store of Chief E. S. Aldridge was entered, they got $9. A few dollars in cash was taken from the shoe repair shop of Joe Vincio, in Hyattsville ,and a small sum from the Sanitary Store in Brentwood.

Following the Riverdale robbery, Chief Aldridge said that he would recommend to the town the appointment of two extra bailiffs. He also said two street lights should be kept going until 5 o'clock in the morning. They are turned off at 2 o'clock now.

Seeking more centralized control of volunteer fire apparatus in the county, representatives of three agencies are planning to establish a single fire switchboard in the county. Officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemen's Association, and the State bureau of forestry are working on the plans.

It has been proposed that the operator of the single switchboard shall act as dispatcher for the companies, keeping a close check on the service wanted. A record of all fire alarms answered would also be made. All fire calls throughout the county would go into the central switchboard, and this operator would send companies nearest the fire.

At present an indefinite number of engines go to each alarm, as they have no means of knowing the extent of the fire. Communities unnecessarily are unprotected. It was on such a useless alarm last fall that Capt. B. W. Cranford of the Marlboro company was killed.

Forestry officials have intimated that they may bear a portion of the cost, since they would have greater protection against forest fires in the county.

The Medical Society of Prince Georges County will meet in Hyattsville, Saturday, January 17, according to a notice sent out yesterday by Dr. A. B. Hooton, acting secretary. The session will be held in the office of the county home demonstration agent. Officers will be elected.

In place of William E. Norfolk, who died while filling the post of messenger for the orphan's court of the county, the judges have appointed Henry Packard Tayman, of Croome. His appointment holds good for one year. His predecessor had held the job 20 years.

A photograph of the White House, autographed by Mrs. Herbert Hoover, will be one of the prizes to be awarded at the card party to be given Thursday in St. Luke's parish hall in Bladensburg. The affair is being given by the ladies' guild of the church.

Operation for Sousa Is Held Unnecessary

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—John Philip Sousa, band leader and composer, was informed today at Johns Hopkins Hospital that an operation on a shoulder injured eight years ago will not be necessary, and he felt so jubilant about it he announced he would write another song.

Dr. Dean Lewis, head of the surgery department, said X-ray plates showed that the injury sustained in a fall from a horse at Willow Grove, Pa., was a split vertebra, which was healed. Mr. Sousa, he said, will remain for ten days for therapeutic treatment.

BECK IS IDENTIFIED IN ANOTHER CRIME

Hospital Patient Picks Him Out as His Assailant at Bladensburg.

HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Morris C. Beck, 18-year-old suspect in the robbery of an uptown drug store, was yesterday identified by his victim as the bandit who slugged and robbed a man near Bladensburg early last week. Beck was taken to Providence Hospital yesterday by police, where he was identified by Leslie F. Pitcher, who is still in the institution as a result of injuries he sustained during the battle with the bandit.

The positive identification followed a partial recognition of Beck through a newspaper picture. Pitcher told police that he was on his way to his home in Laurel when he was approached by Beck, who asked for a ride to the university. In Bladensburg Beck, it is alleged, drew a gun and made Pitcher drive to River road. Here Pitcher resisted and was struck over the head with a pistol, as well as being stabbed near the heart. He will recover.

Alleged to have broken into a drug store on Connecticut avenue northwest near Chapelle road, Beck and James L. Carpenter were arraigned in Police Court yesterday on housebreaking charges and ordered held for grand jury action.

Beck at present is under a three-year suspended sentence. He pleaded guilty to an indictment in District Supreme Court charging the holdup and robbery of a messenger of the Mount Vernon Savings Bank.

Record Rum Haul Seized by Deyoe

Deyoe, lone eagle of the police liquor squad, yesterday single-handed made the largest seizure of liquor in the history of the department, when he confiscated a truck bearing 1,104 half-gallon jars of corn whisky and arrested the driver in an alley near Sixth and T streets northwest.

Deyoe was watching a house in the vicinity when he saw the truck with its load of contraband on T street near Fifth street northwest. He followed it up the alley, where he took it and the operator into custody.

The man arrested, police say, was Roland J. Crismond, 25 years old, of California street near Eighteenth street northwest. He was charged with possession of liquor and released on $500 bond.

Thursday is the last day on which the 1930 Virginia automobile license tags may be used, and only about 3,000 have been issued to date by Deputy City Sergt. Claude W. Fletcher. It is expected, however, that there will be a rush to secure the new tags in the next three days.

The work of issuing city automobile tags has not yet been started, due to the fact that the forms have not been received. Commissioner of Revenue Charles H. Callahan states that the forms are expected to be received today. The final date on which city tags may be obtained without a penalty has not yet been announced.

Delegations of Elks from Baltimore, Annapolis, Washington and Fredericksburg last night paid a fraternal visit to Alexandria Lodge, No. 758. After degree work, which was conferred by officers of the Washington lodge, there was a social session in the rathskeller of the lodge. James Reece Duncan, exalted ruler, presided.

The annual report of Engine Company No. 5, of the Alexandria Fire Department, which has just been submitted, indicates that the company answered a total of 172 alarms, and had 19 men injured in the performance of their duty.

The alarms were: 153 locals, one first alarm, 7 second alarms, 1 third alarm, 4 general alarms, 6 silent alarms, 3 calls to Washington, and 43 suburban calls. There were 3,428 members who responded to calls, the average number of men being 20 to a call; 43 small extinguishers were used; 5 foam type extinguishers used; 22,650 feet of hose used; 30 hours of pumping service, and 408 feet of ladder used.

The Alexandria Rotary Club and Kiwanis Club will hold a joint meeting Thursday, instead of separate meetings as usual, this being in line with the policy of the two clubs. The meeting will be in the George Mason Hotel.

J. Fred Birrell and Nelson T. Snyder, jr., have been named as jury commissioners for the Circuit Court for Alexandria City by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. The commissioners will select names of citizens from the list of qualified voters who will serve as jurors in the Circuit Court during 1931.

DECISION IN THE CASE OF GOLFERS VS. UNCLE SAM

(As it might have been written).

(A circuit court of appeals has reversed the lower court in a test case brought by the United States Golf Association, which contended that the Government tax on shares of a golf club constituted an impost on fresh air, pleasure and sunshine, and is illegal.—News item.)

THIS is an action in which the questions primarily raised were:

(a) Is golf a pleasure?

(b) Does a golf club member get any more fresh air through virtue of such membership than he would get if he had to play on public links?

(c) Is a man, in point of fact, aware of any sunshine after he takes up golf?

* * * * *

The plaintiff argues that a tax on golf club shares discourages golf, is an unfair burden on golfers and retards the development of the game as an American sport. The plaintiff errs primarily in the assumption that anything should be done to encourage golf or to make the life of a golfer less burdensome.

It has been held by the United States Supreme Court (Shapiro vs. Glook, 1918) that persons who take up golf and join golf clubs of their own free will forfeit all hopes of future happiness. It has also been held (Finch vs. Callahan, 1922) that once a man becomes a golfer he loses perspective and is no longer qualified to appreciate what is burdensome and what is not.

* * * * *

ONE of the questions raised is this: Is payment to a retiring member of a club for shares in the corporation controlling said club a condition precedent to membership and as such liable to the initiation tax? The plaintiff makes the novel contention that such payment may be:

(a) An act of charity.
(b) A free will offering.
(c) A payment to establish a loss.
(d) A mere proof of business incompetence.

* * * * *

This court (Justice Geech, a golf club member who is trying to dispose of his stock, dissenting) is willing to recognize that there is some merit in these contentions in view of the business depression and the stock market collapse.

With the litigant's contention, however, that the desire to take up golf constitutes a normal craving and that it is to be encouraged, the court is not in sympathy. Indeed, the U. S. Court has ruled (McIntosh vs. Brazos) that a man ceases to be a companionable, enjoyable and desirable citizen after he takes up golf, that his language, opinions and attitudes expressed thereafter are alone sufficient to deprive him of the protection of any court and that his conduct after missing a 6-inch putt is enough to bring complete repudiation from any government, including the Scandinavian.

* * * * *

Realizing that its decision will make it intensely unpopular in all the locker rooms of the country, and deeply conscious of the fact it will be denounced from the first tee to the nineteenth hole, this court feels obliged to hold firmly to the established policy of the supreme courts in discouraging golf as a pastime or hobby and to prevent, so far as is within its power, unsuspecting and inexperienced citizens from succumbing to its pitfalls, disappointments, heartaches, discouragements, blights, despondencies and humiliations.

The contentions are therefore overruled and the tax upheld.

WATER VOTE TODAY AT FALLS CHURCH

Fairfax Commerce Chamber to Convene Tonight in Lee-Jackson School.

LIBRARY GROUP MEETS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The resident freehold property owners of the town of Falls Church will vote on the proposed $125,000 municipal water bond issue today. Only persons over 21 years old owning real estate in the incorporated limits and actually residing there will be allowed to participate in today's election, whether they have paid their poll taxes or not. The polls open at sunrise and close at sunset.

At the close of the special meeting of the town council last night to pass on the list of freeholders approximately 620 names were on the approved list which will be the guide for the judges of the election. The judges named by Mayor L. P. Daniel are Councilmen Dr. Julius Parmelee, Frank L. Birch and Town Clerk J. C. Parrott. Of the freeholders within the corporate limits at least 50 per cent of the total must participate today or the election will not be valid and at least 50 per cent of those voting will be necessary to carry the issue favorably.

The town of Falls Church is in a peculiar position because its corporate limits lies in two counties, Arlington and Fairfax. The Arlington County portion of the town is at present supplied with water from the water mains of that county. These mains can not under the present conditions be extended into the Fairfax County portion of town, which includes the greatest proportion of the town's area and population.

The plans evolved by a special committee, consisting of members of the council and citizens calls, it is argued, for no great increase in taxes, the only increase being for fire protection purposes. The plans of the committee briefly summarized are as follows:

The town of Falls Church to purchase from Arlington County all mains and fire hydrants already installed within the corporation limits; refund to citizens all payments of frontage charges where made in cash, and pay all notes given for the same purpose; extend the water mains over the rest of Falls Church; purchase wawter from Arlington County at the corporation line; arrange, if possible, to have the Arlington County water department read the meters and render bills.

Councilman Charles E. Gage, chairman of the town water and sanitation committee, stated last night that "the citizens of Falls Church are faced with the most important question in the history of the town and any unfavorable action on their part at this time would materially set the town back several years. It would be impossible to prophesy when this question could be brought to their attention for action again and I hope for favorable action at the polls today. I believe the only thing that would keep them away would be unfavorable weather and 50 per cent would not participate. The wells of the citizens are at present lower than they have ever been at this time of year and to date we have not had the normal rainfall and to bring them back to normal an unusual amount of water would have to fall in the near future and then we would be forced with disease because of pollution as the soil is now saturated with filth because of the past years drougth."

Mayor Daniel reiterated Councilman Gage's statement and stressed the necessity of the freeholders voting in today's election to make the election valid. "I hope the people of this town," he declared, "will realize the necessity and benefits to be derived from a water system and take advantage of the wonderful opportunity being presented to them."

Harry A. Fellows, a former mayor of the town and a leader in town and county movements, stated that "I hope the citizens of this town make no mistake and turn down an opportunity to get water into the town therefore providing increased property values because of an adequate fire protection and water supply at all times. I am heartily in favor of this water bond issue and I hope to see the people vote favorably for it."

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular monthly meeting this evening in the auditorium of the Lee-Jackson school house on the Little River turnpike. The movement to abolish the so-called billboard nuisance along the highways of the county will be discussed. The leaders of the movement expect to map out plans for the removal of these landscape disfigurements prior to the George Washington Bicentennial in 1932. They state that as Fairfax County is the home of George Washington its citizens should take the lead in the movement to make the county's highways the model of the country, as thousands of tourists will visit this section of the State during the next two years.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fairfax National Bank will be held this morning in the board room of the bank at Fairfax. The directors for the coming year will be elected at that time and other business transacted.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Federal Land Bank of Fairfax County will be held this afternoon in the office of Attorney John W. Rust on Payne street in Fairfax for the election of directors.

The stockholders of the Herndon National Bank will hold their annual meeting this morning in the directors' room at the bank in Herndon for the annual election of directors.

The Fairfax Masonic Lodge will confer the past master' degree on Junior Warden Thomas P. Chapman, jr., at a special meeting this evening in Fairfax.

Fairfax County Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kinzcheloe and his deputies have begun their tour of the merchants of Fairfax County to assist them in their annual reports and the computation of their license tax, which is based on the volume of purchases made during the past year.

The Clifton Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will hold its regular meeting this evening in the Masonic Hall at Clifton Station.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Oakton will hold its meeting tomorrow afternoon at the home of M. T. Cockerill. A luncheon will be served at 10 o'clock, followed by a business meeting and the annual election of officers.

The executive committee of the Fairfax County Parent-Teacher Association will hold a meeting on the call of Miss Dorothy Otley, president, tomorrow afternoon in the auditorium of the Oakton schoolhouse. They will make arrangements for the next meeting of the association, which is to take place during the coming week.

The East Falls Church Citizens Association will hold its meeting this evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. James W. Brown. The results of the town election, which is being held today will be discussed.

Mrs. H. B. Jones and Miss Carrie Dean, leaders of the 4-H Club at Fairview, will meet with the club there this morning and give demonstrations on the making of "hopdoodle," a quick bread.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Zion Episcopal Church at Fairfax will hold its meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Ramsey Taylor, on Payne street, in Fairfax.

At a recent meeting of the Garden Club at Fairfax plans were made for an active campaign, in the coming spring, against billboard advertising. The District of Columbia Chapter of the Garden Club of America, in conjunction with the Capital Park and Planning Commission and the committee for the Washington Bicentennial celebration, is making every effort to have all billboards within 2 miles from the District line removed.

U. S. Pilot Returns Home From Peru

Harold Grow Says He Has No Bitterness Against Present Regime.

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Harold Grow, United States Naval Reserve aviator, who was inspector general of the Peruvian air service before the revolution which deposed President Augusto Leguia, arrived on the liner Santa Maria today saying he had no bitterness in his heart against the present government of Peru.

At the outbreak of the recent revolution Grow was arrested by the rebels, who charged he intended to bomb the City of Arequipa. Taken to Lima, he was released on promise that he would not leave the city. After a long court-martial he was cleared of the charges and the new government bought up his contract and paid transportation back to the United States for himself and his wife.

"I was treated with courtesy and respect by the new government heads," said Grow. He said he "felt like a son of former President Leguia and hoped the deposed official would not die in prison. Grow was in Peru for four years. His contract had a year to run.

Alleged Drinking Party Ends in Fatal Shooting

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Jan. 12.—Raeford W. Cook, 34, was shot and killed last night at Newtown by H. S. Alley, 33, who later surrendered. According to Schoolfield officers, the two men were drinking. Alley's version is that Cook struck him on the back with a shotgun, whereupon he drew a revolver and fired three times, death resulting in fifteen minutes.

Three eyewitnesses have been summoned to court tomorrow, when a hearing will be held. Among them is Irving Cook, brother of the victim. The shooting took place at Alley's home.

RED CROSS ELECTION IS HELD IN ROCKVILLE

Mrs. Brann Chosen Chairman of Montgomery Chapter at Annual Meeting.

HIGH SCHOOL IS PLANNED

Mrs. Berlin G. Brann, of Cabin John, was elected chairman of the Montgomery County Chapter of the American Red Cross at its annual meeting yesterday in Rockville. Mrs. Frank Meyer, of Silver Spring, was elected vice chairman. The meeting, held in the Rockville High School, was attended by representatives of the various branches.

Mrs. Robert D. Hagner, of Bethesda, was elected secretary, and Mrs. Frank Eliot Middleton, of Chevy Chase, was elected treasurer of the chapter. The following committee chairmen were elected: Ira Law, of Takoma Park, first aid and life-saving; Frank P. Severance, of Gaithersburg, disaster relief; Mrs. Katherine Alvord, of Brookeville, production; Mrs. Ivan Weld, of Sandy Spring, nutrition; Mrs. Charles W. Lane, of Kensington Heights, Junior Red Cross.

Mrs. Robert D. Hagner, chairman of roll call, announced that approximately $3,050 had been collected in the last roll call. Miss Margaret Ansdell, Red Cross nutritionist, who is carrying on a campaign of nutrition in the schools and homes of the county, under the auspices of the local chapter, reported on her work.

A committee composed of representatives of business and civic organizations of the Silver Spring section will meet Thursday evening in the Silver Spring County Building to discuss school building conditions in that section. The principal subject for discussion will be the proposal for a new senior high school to serve the Takoma-Silver Spring area, to be erected at a cost of $125,000, and the conversion of the present high school into a junior high school.

The meeting has been called in response to an invitation sent out by the Woodside Park Property Owners Association which appointed a committee of three, Ralph Lee, John J. Dolan and Mrs. Archibald Small, to meet with representatives of other interested groups in accordance with a suggestion made by the county board of education.

The organizations which have signified their intention of having representatives present and the names of the representatives where they have been made public, follows: Silver Spring Chamber of Commerce; Silver Spring Citizens Association; Seven Oaks Manor Citizens Association, George W. Davis, George H. Butler and Ralph A. Wells; Women's Improvement Association of Silver Spring, Mrs. H. H. Howlett, Mrs. Leroy C. Leasure and Mrs. John C. Keele; Blair Citizens Association; North Woodside Citizens Association, William H. Reynolds, C. I. Finn, Mrs. Earl A. Brown, Mrs. James M. Bowling, jr., Mrs. George E. Good and B H. Lamore.

The present Takoma-Silver Spring Junior High School will care for 650 pupils. By September, 1933, it is estimated this number will be reached. Since the present building will be required for the junior high school grades, especially when the first year junior pupils are transferred from Takoma, East Silver Spring and Woodside, it is the opinion that a separate senior high school should be built. A large senior high school will be needed to take care of the suburban section as it eventually will develop in the eastern zone, according to Supt. Edwin W. Broome, of the county schools.

The first unit here being discussed should be a section of such large building as eventually will be needed.

The sentiment to provide ample ground for schools makes it seem best to select a site of 10 or 12 acres while it is available, according to Mr Broome. Having the school land adjoin the proposed Sligo Creek Park may be found a happy solution for this question. The senior high school for the eastern suburban zone most likely should be located north of Silver Spring, it is held, so that it can be easily reached from all directions when the suburban development makes it necessary to complete the structure, the superintendent said. The cost of the ground and first section of the proposed school would cost about $125,000.

Miss Irene Shields, executive secretary of the Montgomery County Social Service League, has tendered her resignation and it has been accepted by the executive committee, Dr. J. W Bird, of Sandy Spring, president of the league, announced yesterday. Miss Shields' resignation is effective immediately, the doctor announced.

Miss Katherine T. Kirwin, of Baltimore, executive secretary of the Maryland Children's Aid Society, has been loaned by that society, of which Dr. Bird is president, to the Social Service League for several weeks to assist in reorganizing the office of executive secretary and to aid in selecting another executive. The executive committee met with Miss Kirwin yesterday afternoon to discuss plans. It is probable that the new executive will be appointed at the meeting of the board of directors February 1, according to Dr. Bird.

Miss Shields took over the duties of the office October 1.

The Montgomery County League of Women Voters will meet Friday morning at 11 o'clock in the American Association of University Women, 1634 I street northwest. Miss Lavinia Engle, first woman delegate from Montgomery County to the House of Delegates, will be the speaker. Welfare measures which are to be introduced into the present session of the State Legislature will be discussed.

The weekly meeting of the Montgomery County county commissioners scheduled for today has been postponed until Thursday because of the absence of Lacy Shaw, president of the board, who is attending a road congress in St. Louis.

The county board of education will meet today at Rockville and is expected to discuss the provisions of the Montgomery County Civic Federation recommendations on schools for the county, which ask funds totaling $550,000.

TARIFF COMMISSIONERS.

In a sullen and resentful mood, members of the Senate turned yesterday from their defeat over the Power Commission to a consideration of nominees for the Federal Tariff Commission. Senators who felt the full force of President Hoover's rebuke see in this controversy a possibility of revenge. They are making every effort to sacrifice the tariff commissioners because members of the Power Commission are out of their reach. But it is improbable that the coalition can muster enough votes to defeat any one of these nominees.

Senator Borah made an ineffective speech against confirmation of Henry P. Fletcher as chairman of the commission. He could find no flaw in Mr. Fletcher's character, or his record for devoted service to the Government, so he attacked him on the ground of inexperience in tariff matters. Mr. Fletcher was not chosen for his knowledge of the tariff, but for his qualifications as an able and impartial judge. His broad experience in diplomacy adds to his qualifications. Senator Borah's argument against him was ignored, and Mr. Fletcher was confirmed without a record vote.

Opposition is now centered upon Dr. Edgar B. Brossard, former chairman of the commission. The basis of the argument against him is partisan politics. In ludicrous reversal of the argument against Mr. Fletcher, Senator Harrison cries out in righteous anger that Dr. Brossard is a tariff expert. His chief sin is that he has some opinions on tariff questions after many years of investigation. When Senator Harrison adds to this that Dr. Brossard is a protectionist, he shudders in holy horror at the thought of such a commissioner being appointed to carry out the protective policy enacted by Congress.

This squabble is an outgrowth of the tariff fight. Of course, Democrats would be delighted if President Hoover would appoint free traders to the Tariff Commission. It is inconceivable that the majority in the Senate which passed the tariff bill will surrender on the question of potection. Nothing has been or will be said against Dr. Brossard's competence or integrity as a tariff expert. Some of the charges that have been made against his conduct as a commissioner are too trivial to notice, and others are not supported by fact. There is good reason to believe that the Senate will recognize the political motives in this assault and vote to confirm all of the nominees.

INCREASES OF PAY.

In suggesting that pay raises totaling some $81,000,000 be granted the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Coast and Geodetic Survey the interdepartmental pay board makes a recommendation that will meet with popular approval. The state of shabby, genteel poverty in which Uncle Sam keeps his uniformed services is generally well known. The only question that has first to be answered before pay raises are authorized is whether or not the Treasury at this particular time can stand the increased strain.

The board recommends increases that would give about $43,000,000 annually to the Army, $30,600,000 to the Navy, $3,500,000 to the Marine Corps and about $4,500,000 to the Coast Guard and the Coast and Geodetic Survey. Officers and enlisted men would be given increases, the special allowances now authorized for wives and dependents would be abolished and the principle of equal pay for equal work and responsibility reestablished. The increased compensation now allowed for extrahazardous duty would would be reduced and placed on a flat-allowance basis.

The board recommends that admirals and generals be compensated at $14,000 a year, with an additional special allowance of $3,000; lieutenant generals and vice admirals at $14,000 plus $1,500; colonels and naval captains at $10,000; lieutenant colonels and commanders at $7,500; majors and lieutenant commanders at $7,000; Army captains and naval lieutenants at $5,500; first lieutenants and lieutenants (junior grade) at $4,000 and second lieutenants and ensigns at $2,500.

Considering the caliber of man needed by the uniformed services, the character and responsibility of his work and the salaries paid in civil life to those occupying similar positions of trust and responsibility, it is apparent that the recommendations of the interdepartmental board are none too liberal. Moreover, it has been obvious for some time that unless the pay scales obtaining in the Army and Navy are brought into closer approximation with those prevailing in industry the services are destined to lose by resignation many of the officers of outstanding ability. If the Treasury can stand the strain the recommendations of the board should be approved forthwith. If the increases can not be granted at this particular time Congress should reassure the services in some appropriate fashion that the increases will be granted at the earliest practicable opportunity.

THE STABILITY OF CUBA.

With patience and firmness President Machado of Cuba is leading his country toward better times. Thus far he has mastered a situation that would have overwhelmed a less courageous or less patient leader. The economic crisis in Cuba has been more severe than in countries where revolutions have occurred, and it is not surprising that politicians in Cuba have tried to stir up a revolt. Agitators have gone among the youth, urging them in the name of patriotism to overthrow the government. Representative Britten has exposed the fact that some of the "students" in Havana are professional agitators of advanced age, who skillfully inflame the petty grievances of youth into excuses for disloyalty to the government. President Machado seems to have discriminated between criminal agitators and the thoughtless youth who have been misled.

The extent of concealed American encouragement of unrest in Cuba is not known to the American public, although it may be known to the Havana government. That certain financial interests in the United States have sympathized with a revolution in Cuba is well known; but the United States Government has been watchful, and conspirators on American soil are very careful to avoid detection. The Washington authorities have pursued a "hands off" policy toward Cuba, much to the disappointment of revolutionary elements which hoped to see Washington adopt an unfriendly attitude toward President Machado. Yet the revolutionists would be the first to condemn Washington for any action that smacked of interference in Cuba's domestic affairs.

The administration in Cuba is entitled to the friendship and confidence of the United States. It is obvious that a strong hand is needed at the helm at Havana. President Machado has maintained order, which is the first rule in all governments. He has worked incessantly upon the economic problem, and has made progress. The cutting and grinding of cane will begin this week, and throughout Cuba the people will be busy. Opportunities for employment are increasing. There is no excuse for a revolution. A change of government, in view of the fact that the would-be revolutionists have no program and no outstanding leader, would probably plunge the country into chaos and invite American intervention. Whatever the individual disappointments of politicians may be, they are not serving their country when they encourage opposition to the government. Fortunately the army has remained loyal to the government, thus preventing such military coups as marked the revolts in Bolivia, Peru and Argentina, as well as those which set aside constitutional government in Brazil and Panama.

Public order and stable government in Cuba are indispensable elements of Cuban independence. The Cuban people can not expect to indulge in national anarchy and escape the consequences of American intervention. When President Machado maintains order in Cuba he maintains the liberties of his countrymen. It is incumbent upon the United States Government to suppress any conspiracies in this country having for their object the fomenting of revolution in Cuba.

NATHAN STRAUS.

Nathan Straus, who died in New York Sunday morning, was one of the handful of philanthropists whose names are known throughout the civilized world and whose benefactions will redound to the betterment of humankind through all time. Born in Germany, Mr. Straus came to America as a youth and in time became one of New York's merchant princes. During his active career he spent a large part of his income for the amelioration of the distress of others. He retired from active business so that he might devote his entire attention to philanthropic affairs.

Mr. Straus was the pioneer of the movement for free milk for the children of New York's crowded slums, which was largely responsible for decreasing the death rate of infants and young children in that city. In Germany, Palestine, Cuba and the Philippines and in other parts of the world he built pasteurization plants and operated them until the communities in which they were located were ready to undertake the work on their own responsibility. He was liberal and active in many other lines of philanthropy. His sympathies were as broad as humanity.

The name of Nathan Straus will never be effaced from the memory and gratitude of the American people.

GOOD BUSINESS—FOR BANKERS.

No one can disagree with Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of Chase National Bank, in his conclusion that cancellation or reduction of Europe's debts to the United States would be "good business." It must be admitted, however, that Mr. Wiggin did not express the complete thought which must have been in his mind. It would be good business for whom? Why, for the international bankers. No one can deny that. Cancellation of these debts would give the international bankers a chance to lend Europe more money, while taxpayers of the United States assumed the burden. Of course, it is good business for Mr. Wiggin to talk about cancellation, but how can he sincerely imply that it would be good business for the country as a whole?

Mr. Wiggin laments because Europe hasn't enough money to pay her debts and at the same time "buy our exports in adequate volume." His solution for this enigma is to give Europe the money needed to purchase American goods. Thereby trade will be stimulated, prosperity will return, and no one will suffer—except the American taxpayer.

It is well that Mr. Wiggin did not go into detail as to just how cancellation of these debts would redound to the benefit of "business." If debts owed to this country by Great Britain, France, Italy and the other allied countries were canceled, reparation payments to those countries from Germany would have to be canceled likewise. Germany pays the allies about $406,000,000 this year. The allies, in turn, will pay to America about $250,000,000, which means that they will have a balance of $156,000,000. Wipe the board clean of reparations and war debts and the allied nations would have less to buy from America than they now have. Only Germany's financial position would be immediately strengthened. The added trade which Germany might give American interests would not make up the difference.

Moreover, the United States sells to these debtor nations something in the neighborhood of $2,000,000,000 worth of goods annually. If the entire amount which the allied countries pay on their debts to the United States were devoted to the purchase of American goods, it would increase our exports to those countries by about 12 per cent. But it can not be assumed that this sum would go entirely for American goods. Other nations would compete for this additional trade, and in the end only a fraction of Europe's increased purchasing power would benefit the United States. Can taxpayers of this country be asked to assume debts of foreign nations aggregating more than $11,000,000,000 for the phantom chance of an increase in American trade?

At best such a course would be a sacrifice of the American taxpayers to the exporting industries and the international bankers. No doubt the automobile industry would also consider it good business to cancel international war debts. But the American taxpayers don't think so, and no amount of sophistry from international bankers can convince them that the way to prosperity is to assume Europe's debts.

A California man paid another a $2.20 fee for the murder of his wife. The 20 cents was the war tax.

NAVAL BUILDING PROGRAM

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. Navy.

(This is the first of a series of four articles on the naval situation. The next will appear tomorrow.)

When the London Treaty was signed there was in effect a naval building program. This consisted of fifteen 10,000-ton cruisers and one aircraft carrier. The act authorizing this program had been passed by large majorities in both houses of Congress. As a further evidence of the plain intent of the Congress that we should have these vessels there was inserted a provision that they must all be laid down with a three-year period.

It was intended that all the above fifteen cruisers be armed with 8-inch guns. The London Treaty imposed a rather low limit on vessels of this type, but permitted the construction of other types of naval craft. In fact, our signature of the treaty automatically canceled five of the 8-inch cruisers authorized and delayed for some years the construction of three more.

To replace in part these 80,000 tons of 8-inch cruisers, whose construction has been canceled or deferred, the President has submitted a substitute one-year program of about 52,000 tons. This consists of types in which considerable building must be done to reach the limits designated in the London Treaty for December 31, 1936, or to replace the vessels which will become overage before that date. A vessel is said to become overage when it passes an age limit stated in the treaty. It is economical to replace such ships with new ones for the same reason that this is done in the case of automobiles.

The new one-year program includes the following vessels: One aircraft carrier, one 6-inch cruiser with flying deck, one 6-inch cruiser, one destroyer leader, ten destroyers and four submarines. It must be emphasized that this program will do no more than give us a good start toward our goal, parity with Great Britain and the London Treaty ratio of 10 to 6.3 with Japan.

It is our purpose to consider each type of naval craft in turn. We will show the existing situation in this type, the tonnage which must be built before the end of 1936 to reach treaty limits—which the other nations have practically reached today—and to what degree the one-year program will remedy our deficiencies. Some simple explanation will be given of the contemplated war duties of the vessels of this program, together with some special reasons why they should be built at this time.

It is well to remember that a naval vessel passes successively through five stages:

1. Authorized, i. e., by the passage of a special act of Congress.

2. Appropriated for, i. e., by inclusion in the annual Navy Department appropriation bill.

3. Building, i. e., the status of the ship from the letting of her contract to her commissioning.

4. Built, i. e., completed and under the age limits of the London Treaty.

5. Overage, i. e., obsolete because over the age limit at which it may and should be replaced by a new ship.

Today we have two aircraft carriers built. The building of a third has just commenced. These three vessels have a total tonnage of 79,800, of which 13,800 have been assigned to the ship under construction. The one-year program contains a second ship of this size. This design of carrier has been developed by years of experience with our present carriers, the Lexington and Saratoga. It will permit the operation of 76 planes—with 38 in reserve. This is as many as the Lexington can operate, though she is over twice as large.

Already air power has become an important element in naval strength. Its influence in the future will increase. We have specialized in the development of aircraft carried by the vessels of the fleet. We have learned to operate them with much success. A few such planes are carried on battleships and cruisers. They are launched from catapults, but can return to their ships only by landing on the water and being hoisted on board. This, of course, is impracticable in even moderately rough weather or in battle. It was to avoid this grave handicap that the carrier was designed. Not only can it carry many times the number of planes assigned to battleships and cruisers, but it has a continuous flying deck from which they may be launched and on which they may land in any weather suitable for flying. The carrier not only operates its own planes, but can refuel or give refuge to planes attached to battleships and cruisers when conditions prevent their return to their own ships. Thus the number and effectiveness of the carriers largely determine the value of the fleet air force.

The addition of a fourth carrier will give us an opportunity to exploit our superiority in operating fleet aviation. It will be an important step toward giving our fleet its proper proportion of aviation. With 98,600 tons of modern carriers we will approach parity with Great Britain in carrier tonnage—provided that nation builds no more in the meantime. However, even this fourth carrier will only partly remedy the situation as regards Japan. It will give us a ratio of only 10 to 7.4—compared with that of 10 to 6, as specified in the Washington treaty.

If we are to reach the treaty limit of 135,000 tons three more carriers, each of 13,800 tons, must be constructed. If these were built at the rate of one a year in subsequent programs, several of them would not be completed until after the termination of the London Treaty.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

LOVETIME.

Oh, glad am I youth can not see the cares that lie before
Or hear the moaning of the gales a few miles out from shore.
'Tis well that they must wait to learn what age has lived to know,
Or laughing, dancing through the years we'd seldom see them go.

I watch them walking arm in arm in love as plain as day,
And wheresoever now they tread the world is wondrous gay.
And though the wind be bitter cold and snow is drifted high,
Love tints grim February with the splendor of July.

And should I say: "Beware, beware! This love of which you speak
With tears of bitterness and grief will some dry stain your cheek.
Some day you'll feel the wintry cold and feel the tempest's force
And ne'r your utmost strength to hold love's ship upon its course?"

Not I. They'll learn it soon enough. Nor would I spoil their youth
By shouting: "All who love must mourn," although it is the truth.
I'll leave them to their happy dreams and pray that love will stay
To sweeten every touch of care they'll find along the way.

Too Busy to Work.

If Her Mirror Reflects Only Her Face, Only Her Face Gets Careful Attention.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

It probably is not an exaggeration to say that every adult American who reads is influenced by advertising as a child is influenced by its parents.

He does not purchase a certain article as though in obedience to a command. He thinks he is guided by his own judgment and taste. But his choice is, in fact, the result of an opinion absorbed from advertisements.

He thinks a certain tooth paste best for his gums, a certain oil best for his car, a certain cigarette least harmful to his throat. He believes that a certain watch and a certain car afford proof of his solvency and his social standing. He has a distinct preference for almost everything that he buys.

And in nearly every instance his preference is not a result of careful analysis or experimentation, but was formed unconsciously as the constant repetition of advertising phrases overcame his indifference and made him a partisan.

What is true of advertising is equally true of other printed matter. To an extent much greater than is commonly realized, we are products of the press.

Relatively few, perhaps, get their opinions and prejudices ready-made from the pen of some eloquently biased proselyter, for the day of personal journalism is gone; but not one of us escapes the subtle influence of headlines, and almost without exception our thoughts are directed by the news that is given prominence.

Official propaganda aroused the Nation and steeled it for the war against Germany.

Clever press work made millions expect a struggle of giants when Carpentier met Dempsey.

Publicity makes the millions baseball-mad in summer and football-mad in the fall.

To the power of printer's ink the Republican party owes its reputation, despite occasional hard times and scandals, as the one political organization blessed with the knack of generating prosperity.

The printed story of a spectacular suicide causes numbers of the weak-minded to end their days in the same manner.

Persistent advertising of Coolidge prosperity and the oft-repeated admonition not to sell America short made us a nation of speculators, as long-continued publicity given to the inevitable reaction has made us a nation of hoarding pessimists in the midst of abundance.

The public prints shape us as the potter shapes clay.

Who, then, can doubt that much publicity, seldom scornful in tone, adds to the number of criminals; that many stories of contempt for law prompt new contempt; that much talk about the modern girl's lack of virtue causes simple girls to forfeit their chastity?

The press reflects our times. But it chooses certain details to magnify, and by that choice it shapes our morals and our destiny.

The President and the Merger.
Christian Science Monitor.

It is quitie typical of the present state of American political opinion that, while many of the politicians in Congress are seizing occasion to criticize President Hoover for his action in encouraging and perhaps expediting the railroad merger, so outstanding a student of railroad management as Prof. William Z. Ripley, of Harvard, should not merely applaud the merger policy, but should express the greatest approval of the President's interposition in the matter. At Rollins College the other day Dr. Ripley asserted that:

"The activity of the President has been directed solely to encouragement and insistence upon a get-together, leaving all details to be reached by parties directly interested. This achievement will go down historically as one of the outstanding achievements of the administration, in my opinion."

There never was any doubt that President Hoover would repel the Senate's latest and most flagrant attempt to invade the Executive's rights and independence, but the vigor and promptitude with which he has put that belligerent body in its place will command the special admiration and applause of the country. He has not only tackled and stopped the Senate in its tracks. He has thrown it for a loss. For the Senate, as a result of this encounter, has lost many more points in the public respect once accorded to "the most dignified legislative assembly in the world."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Democrat Casts an Eye to the Future, Having in Mind the Hard-Headed Temper of the People.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is astonishing the way our bright publicists of the newspaper press hang on to certain stock ideas.

For instance, there are plenty of political experts with a keen scent for the availability in presidential possibilities who will tell you that Gov. Franklin Roosevelt would be certain of the Democratic nomination but for his early start-off.

"Gov. Roosevelt is suffering the handicap, familiar to every experienced politician and President-maker, of being 'out in front' too far in advance of the convention," is a good sample of how it is frequently stated.

It is true that the rubber stamp tradition regarding the handicap of prolonged publicity may unfortunately make good in a nominating convention. But the exceptions to it are at least sufficient to make a thoughtful layman doubtful as to its dependability.

Theodore Roosevelt was boosted by his henchmen and knocked by his opponents for many a month before his nomination. Woodrow Wilson got by in spite of the alleged publicity handicap.

In my opinion, it depends to a considerable extent on the mood of the electorate, and I think that right now the electorate have some sort of a fixed idea as to what is best, one way or the other.

In saying this, I do not mean to claim that every mother's son of the voters is exactly wise to what he wants. I have a feeling, however, that out of the heat of argument of the past few years, definite conclusions on public questions have to an unusual extent been welded fast in the minds of many. It is enough to leaven the whole lump and render the masses immune to indefinite partisan appeals. They are in a state of mind which is apt to queer the schemes of politicians.

There may be campaigns in which side issues and spread-eagling and straddling and last-minute dark horses may have some show to win—but not next year. The 1932 classic calls for candidates with a sincere and definite declaration of principles to meet the hard-headed mood of the masses.

HICKORY.

Virginia Democrat Excoriates Members of His Party in Senate for Trying to Besmirch the President.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Every thinking American, be he Democrat or Republicon, who has any regard for the Constitution and our form of Government, will rise to a man and applaud the President for his refusal to be intimidated by those senators who, by their Communist efforts and for political reasons, endeavored to besmirch the President by forcing him to return to the Senate the appointments of three members which had been duly appointed to the Power Commission.

To fully understand the sinister motive of those who were back of this movement, one has only to read the names of those voting for the recall. As a lifelong Democrat it is disgusting, to say the least, to me to find so many Democrats among those who favored this heretofore unheard-of procedure. If any of them should have the temerity to ever refer to this regrettable incident and political plot, as it was, with the hope of linking the President on the side of the power trust, it is believed that the voters will promptly rebuke them by putting their Americanism above their political affiliations.

There are certain limits in politics beyond which the people will not go. The fiasco just enacted by the Senate went away beyond this limit and those who participated in it should profit by the well-merited rebuff given them by the President.

Only Seven States Make Pathways to Protect Pedestrians.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a brief statement of changed conditions in respect to highway walking, I can not do better than quote from an editorial of the Detroit News. After asserting that "half the victims of motor accidents are pedestrians and a great part of these meet death while walking upon the unlighted highways," the News remarks:

"There are those who remember that once it was fairly common for persons to go on foot along the public roads and the road makers and road menders had respect for this practice and left paths for the pedestrians' use.

"But modern highway engineering knows only wheels. Where the footpaths once were is now a ditch. And those who have been looking up the matter find that there not only is no sidewalk for foot passengers, but no law authorizing the use of public money to provide one in any but seven States in the Union. Delaware and Florida permit the building of sidewalks along highways in specific cases, and Georgia, Idaho, Indiana and Utah permit building walks for pedestrians upon bridges, and New Jersey permits State expense for grading only. But Michigan is one of the States that has no legal provision in the matter." PEDESTRIAN.

Dr. Haussmann Decides That Germany Ought Not to Pay.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The question is not all as to whether Germany can pay, but as to whether she ought to pay. And she certainly ought not. No less a personage than the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Andrew William Mellon, has committed himself to the extent of intimating that the term "reparations" is a misnomer. In his letter to the president of Princeton University he said that the money is to be "exacted" from Germany. Therefore, exaction is the correct term. It is consummate hypocrisy to keep on speaking of reparations. Let us hereafter call the thing by its proper name. The Secretary of the Treasury has given the cue. "Exaction" is the word.

COURT SETS DATE TO HEAR DAM CASE

Boulder Canyon Project Will Go Before Supreme Jurists on March 9.

ACTION IN 23 CAUSES

(Associated Press.)

A combined legal assault by the Government and six States on Arizona's attempt to prevent construction of Hoover Dam was made yesterday in an appeal to the Supreme Court, urging it to dismiss the latter's suit. On motion of Solicitor General Thacher, Chief Justice Hughes fixed March 9 for hearing oral argument on the motions.

Arizona objected to the apportionment of water and power under the act which authorized the dam, arguing it would deprive her of constitutional rights. The State brought its suit against Secretary Wilbur. The Government, in its motion to dismiss, filed in Wilbur's name, argued the action was in reality against the United States and that the Government could not be made a defendant without its consent.

The States — California, Nevada, Utah, New Mexico, Colorado, and Wyoming—said in substance they did not create the act authorizing the dam and that consequently Arizona had no cause for action against them.

In mandamus proceedings the court refused to consider appeals by D. B. Daugherty, a Huntington, W. Va., attorney, seeking to set aside his disbarment, and by E. Harper, of Tennessee, and C. E. Crigger, of Arkansas, challenging the right of the Federal District Court for Western Arkansas to pass on a suit they had brought against drainage district 17 of Mississippi County, Ark.

The court declined to interfere in the removal of Charles Gugenhine, alias Charles Allen, from St. Louis to Pointe Coupee Parish, La., where he is wanted for trial for the murder of Dr. James A. Ridney in November, 1897.

It agreed to decide whether persons charged with stealing airplanes may be tried under the Federal law punishing the theft of motor vehicles. The question reached the court through the conviction of William W. McBoyle, of Galena, Ill., charged with having flown an airplane knowing it to have been stolen.

RITCHIE'S INDUCTION WILL BE ELABORATE

Inauguration as Maryland's Chief for Fourth Term Set for Tomorrow.

RADIO WILL PLAY PART

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 12.—Ceremonies marking the inauguration of Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to his fourth term as chief executive of the State will overshadow the sessions of the General Assembly this week. Final details for the inauguration, which will take place at the State House on Wednesday at noon, are about complete and it is expected that the occasion will be marked by much pomp, in spite of the governor's wishes for simplicity.

Thousands of people from all over the State and elsewhere, admiring friends of the governor, politicians and others are expected to descend on Annapolis.

A joint committee of the Senate and House of Delegates was charged with planning for the ceremonies and some of the details are in the hands of a citizens' committee. The Senate committee is composed of Ridgeley P. Melvin, of Anne Arundel County, and Senators Coblentz, of Frederick; Coat, of St. Mary's; Kennedy, of Baltimore City, and Beauchamp, of Somerset. The House appointed Delegates Dalesandro, of Baltimore City; Lindsey, of Baltimore County; Williams, St Mary's County; MacFarland, Allegany County, and Miss Lavinia Engle, Montgomery County.

Will Broadcast Inauguration.

The inauguration is attracting Nation-wide interest by reason of the strong possibility of Gov. Ritchie becoming a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932, and belief is expressed by many politicians that he will have something to say along this line in his inaugural address, which is to be carried over a Nation-wide hookup of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The General Assembly will convene at 11:30 a. m. to appoint a joint committee of senators and delegates to escort the governor from the executive mansion to the Statehouse. Members of the National Guard will form lanes for the march of the governor and his official party.

Meanwhile, senators and delegates will gather in the Senate chamber, where, at noon, Chief Judge Carroll T. Bond, of the Court of Appeals, will administer the oath of office and the governor will sign his name, attesting the oath. A governor's salute of nineteen guns will be fired by the National Guard as the oath is pronounced.

Mother Not to Attend.

Mrs. Elizabeth Cabell Ritchie, the governor's mother, in ill-health for months, though not bedridden, will not witness the ceremony. It would not be advisable for her to go to the Statehouse, the governor said, and she will view his march to the Senate chamber from her window.

After taking the oath the governor will submit to the Senate his reappointment of Mr. Winebrenner as secretary of state and then retire to the executive office.

A few minutes later the governor will be escorted to the House chamber where the Senate and House will have convened in joint session to hear the inaugural address. At the conclusion of the address the governor will go to the Senate chamber to hold a public reception.

BOARD WILL STUDY FARM MARKET SITE

North Side of Water Street Among Suggestions of Arts Commission.

SHELTERS ARE OPPOSED

The District Commissioners will take no immediate action regarding the suggestion of the Fine Arts Commission that the area just west of the Fish Market, on the north side of Water street, be employed temporarily as a site for the Farmers' Market. For the present time the farmers will probably continue to use B street, near the abandoned Center Market.

The Fine Arts Commission proposed several other sites for trials, declaring that the uncertainty of the whole market problem in Washington makes it unwise for the District government to go to any great expense in the development of a market until it is sure what site the farmers themselves prefer.

Among the other sites suggested are the grounds formerly occupied by Central High School at Seventh and O streets and the Patterson tract, near the junction of Florida and New York avenues northeast.

Disapproval of the plan to expend $10,000, already appropriated, for the erection of shelters over the sidewalks where the farmers sell their produce was also expressed by the commission in its letter. Establishment of these shelters would establish a dangerous precedent, the commission stated, that would lead to their erection in sections of the city rapidly becoming residential areas.

The letter pointed out that Congress had already provided for the purchase of two squares adjacent to Water street, near the Fish Market, but that the appropriation was not sufficient. This land is now in the process of condemnation. It lies between Tenth and Eleventh and F and G streets southwest.

SPEEDY ACTION SEEN FOR FLOOD CONTROL

Chicago Conference Backs Fund of Billion Dollars to Curb Mississippi.

WOULD BE JOBLESS AID

Chicago, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—The Prairie States and the deep South joined in predicting, at Mayor William Hale Thompson's flood control conference today, a speedy response from Congress to proposals for a billion dollars to curb the rampaging Mississippi.

Speakers from Kansas, Illinois and Louisiana threw their support behind augmented appropriations for work on the river. One of them—Representative U. S. Guyer, of Kansas—said that flood control would be the best investment since the Louisiana purchase.

Likewise Alfred E. Danziger, chairman of the Louisiana flood control commission, asserted that "settling the Mississippi Valley flood dangers is a problem of national concern, to be settled at public expense alone. When accomplished it will be the greatest engineering feat in the history of the world."

Congress has appropriated $346,000,000 for the Mississippi project. Mayor Thompson not only proposed to the conference that what remains of this sum be released at once, but enough to make a total of a billion. He said that such a sum would go a long way toward relieving unemployment.

Mr. Guyer said there was no evidence the relief project would cost a billion dollars, but added: "What if it does?"

"We can rely on the experience of our engineers to adopt and execute a comprehensive plan that will master these floods and at the same time prepare the channel of the Mississippi for navigation."

Cramton Considered For Bicentenary Post

Representative Louis Cramton, of Michigan, who will leave the House after several terms at the end of the current Congress, is under consideration for appointment as associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d recently resigned from the post.

Three other men also are under consideration, it was disclosed yesterday.

if the Senate is anxious to build up an impartial fact-finding commission, nothing it could do would be more effective than rejection of the nomination. The appointment of Brossard broke down the morale of the commission."

Senator Reed said Brossard's testimony before the Senate investigation in 1926 had seemed "the testimony of an honest man, honestly trying to give the facts."

"I found nothing discreditable in his testimony," Reed said. The Pennsylvanian was a member of the investigation committee.

Sees No Evasion.

"He made no attempt to evade or conceal the facts."

"Does the senator think his testimony was open and candid?" Harrison asked.

"On the whole, yes," Reed replied.

Reed said if Brossard had lied before the Senate committee he should not be confirmed, but that he did not think he had.

"He was quite explicit, but was confused, as were members of the committee, by the number of documents spoken of as reports."

Reed said it was evident Brossard not only had not written any of the report recommending an increase in the sugar tariff, but had not even read it.

No Fight on Dennis.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who was chairman of the 1926 investigating committee, said the whole record of Brossard's testimony in 1926 showed an "utter desire to avoid being frank."

"He had a perfect right to perform the service he did," Robinson added, "but for some reason he started out by denying he had any part in the preparation of the sugar report."

Senator Barkley (Democrat), Kentucky, contended it was "open to doubt" whether Brossard acted with propriety."

Although a contest had been anticipated on Dennis, another holdover from the former commission, Senator Harrison, who voted against him in committee, did not press his opposition beyond stating his reasons for opposition to the Marylander in the finance committee.

Two Not Opposed.

"There was not any question as to Dennis' honesty," he said, "but I felt he was a little bit too subservient and would not measure up to what I thought he should as a tariff commissioner. His views are correct and he is a real expert, but I felt he would not be as free and independent as he should."

No opposition was expressed to Coulter or Page. The latter was a member of the old Taft and Wilson tariff boards, while Coulter is former chief economist of the Coolidge commission.

The contest over Brossard was still raging when the Senate adjourned last night. It is expected a vote upon his confirmation will be reached today.

AMERICA'S MIRACLE WOMAN WILL SPEAK

Helen Keller Will Be Heard at Presbyterian Church Here on Friday.

TEACHER TO BE PRESENT

Helen Keller, the miracle woman of America, will deliver an address Friday night at 8 o'clock at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, under the auspices of the American Foundation for the Blind. Accompanying her is Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, her devoted teacher, who has been her constant companion since her early childhood.

In a recent magazine article Prof. Walter B. Pitkin, of Columbia University, discussed the living Americans who have achieved the most, and could find but four persons to whom this high praise could be bestowed. Helen Keller was one of them. Prof. Pitkin placed her name at the head of his list, and after her came, in order, Thomas A. Edison, Orville Wright and Edward Acheson.

Acheson Little Known.

Everybody, he says, has heard of Edison and Wright, but few of Acheson. His chief contribution was the invention of carborundum, without which, he says, the machine age could not have come into being.

In a secondary list, composed of those who did not quite measure up to his four greatest, he places Mrs. Macy's name at the head of the list, for without her patient, intelligent teaching, perhaps Helen Keller might never have burgeoned into the miracle woman she is.

This miracle woman was born in the little town of Tuscumbia, Ala., in the home of Maj. Arthur Keller, who was a Confederate soldier and the editor of the county paper. At birth she was a normal child. An attack of scarlet fever left her blind, deaf and dumb. Her father determined that if it were humanly possible his afflicted child should surmount these terrible afflictions and, hunting for a teacher, he found Miss Anne Sullivan, who entered upon the task of making the blind see, the deaf hear and the dumb speak.

Surmounted Difficulties.

Helen Keller learned to see through Miss Sullivan's eyes, and to hear through her teeth attached to some object, just as Edison hears the piano or the violin play, and through her sensitive fingers, which she places on the lips of those to whom she is talking; and to talk with the natural organs of speech. Her speech is unnatural, but you can hear her distinctly. Her thoughts are crystal clear, and her diction the envy of veteran writers.

Of her achievement Prof. Pitkin says: "Her aim was to learn to know the world as a normally equipped person does. * * * She succeeded, to an unbelievable degree. Must I defend the social significance and human value of her achievements? My reply is that her moral and spiritual influence on thousands of handicapped souls has been and still is colossal. And her career opened new vistas in the art of learning."

DOCTOR SAYS SIMIAN SHAMES LIBERIANS

brings me my slippers and does a number of other interesting things.

"I am trying to get her intelligence coefficient, up to a mark where she can pass the Binet test. If I succeed, I shall in all probability get a Liberian passport for her and endeavor to get her into the United States under the Liberian quota.

"It should not be a difficult task as she already admits and recognizes in me some one who can teach her a bit, which is more than any Liberian will admit."

Dr. Smith described how, during 5½ months of "enforced inactivity" due to the Liberian government's balking his sanitary engineering plans, he devoted much of his time to training and taking pictures of Fifi.

"She would be a darned valuable animal when one considers the amount of salary I'm drawing," he said. "But it hardly seems fair to me to have me sit here at the expense of the service and twiddle my thumbs because they do not see fit to keep their agreement. Had I been able to carry on with the work along the lines of the memorandum agreement, I would surely have enjoyed the year here."

Dr. Smith's letters also pictured political and slavery conditions similar to those described by the State Department.

Previous to his Liberian commission Dr. Smith was health officer in charge of the Philippines. He was selected for the librarian work because of his experience in the tropics.

Because of its continuously hot, damp climate, Liberia has been an acute sanitation problem among nations. On either side are British and French colonies where sanitary measures are enforced, but Liberia's independent government has thus far done little in sanitary engineering.

Mrs. Walker Fails In Identification

Woman Who Scared Thief Sees Only Similarity in Brewer.

Mrs. Frances Walker, of 1833 New Hampshire avenue northwest, yesterday could not identify positively Theodore Roosevelt Brewer, taken by police Saturday after the hold-up of a grocery store at Third and C streets southeast as the man whom she frightened from her apartment early Thursday morning.

Mrs. Walker saw Brewer's picture in The Washington Post and was convinced he was the intruder she saw rummaging in her bedroom. Yesterday she went to the Fifth Precinct Police Station and saw him. She said there was a similarity, but she could make no positive recognition.

John Boyd, Brewer's companion in the hold-up of the store, who shot himself when cornered by policemen, will recover, physicians at Casualty Hospital say.

Lieut. John Fowler, police ballistics expert, who is examining the two .25-caliber guns taken from Brewer and Boyd, under orders from Inspector William Shelby, to see if one of them was used in the Limerick murder, will not be able to make his report until this morning.

Osborn H. Oldroyd, who became widely known as a collector of relics associated with Abraham Lincoln, left his widow the collection under the terms of the will filed yesterday for probate in District Supreme Court. However, it was revealed later by Attorney David Aiken Hart that the entire collection had been sold by Mr. Oldroyd to the Government prior to his death, October 8 last.

Mr. Oldroyd at one time lived on Tenth street northwest, just across from the Ford Theater, in which the Civil War President was assassinated by John Wilkes Booth. He became interested in Lincoln memorabilia, according to Mr. Hart, and began a collection of them in the same house in which the President died.

The will left by the collector was dated February 3, 1925, and under the terms the wife was to receive everything.

In addition to the collection of Lincolniana owned by Mr. Oldroyd at the time he made his will he also gave his wife the premises at 1723 Webster street northwest, valued at $30,000, and personal property.

An armed robber early yesterday accosted Edward Pittman, 16 years old, of Rhode Island avenue near First street northeast, as he was entering his car, parked at New Hampshire avenue and V street northwest, and ordered him to drive to Capitol Heights, Md., where the boy was robbed of $5.

After taking the money the robber told Pittman to take him to Sixth and I streets southeast, where he departed, Pittman said.

$250,000 Libel Suit Withdrawn

Better Business Bureau Was Named by Bronx Chamber Head.

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Withdrawal of a $250,000 libel suit brought against the Better Business Bureau by Logan Billingsley, president of the Bronx Chamber of Commerce, was announced today by H. Bennett Solomon, third attorney to represent Mr. Billingsley. Mr. Billingsley had alleged the bureau published "malicious and unwarranted statements" about his past.

Mr. Solomon's announcement came after Mr. Billingsley and Charles V. Hailey, associate counsel in the suit, were called in contempt of court by Justice Mitchell in Bronx Supreme Court. They were alleged to have tried to block the examination of Mr. Billingsley before trial by opposing counsel.

The two men were not taken into custody, but Judge Mitchell said he would conduct contempt proceedings.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Social Leaders Active Sewing For City's Poor

Mrs. Gann Heads Red Cross Unit Busy on Mondays.

LADIES of leisure with busy hands is the paradox repeated nearly every Monday in a sumptuous apartment in the Mayflower where women whose "business" it is to make the official round of Washington society, gather in the winter home of the second lady of the land to aid the unemployed situation.

Despite the manifold duties of her position, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann has instituted a Red Cross unit, constituting a group of society friends who each week meet at her apartment where the whir of sewing machines precludes much "visiting" and where fingers turn out piles of children's clothes, knitted sweaters and socks. Through the agency of the Red Cross these are distributed to families feeling the press of unemployment.

It was all prompted, Mrs. Gann says, from a visit to the hotel kitchen one day, not long ago, where she helped to serve plates of food to men and women desperately in need of aid. Deciding then and there that she would launch a project whereby families might be supplied with clothing, Mrs. Gann organized the Red Cross unit which, in three weeks, has furnished dozens of pieces for headquarters down on Seventeenth street.

With one sewing machine of her own to count on and with a portable furnished by Mrs. Alice Nibly Smoot and two more brought in by several other members of the class, the work has hummed for several hours each Monday afternoon under Mrs. Gann's direction. Fulfillment of the idea was no task for Mrs. Gann, w- consistent efforts during the World War in finishing one pair of socks after another still is remembered by her friends and certainly by the Red Cross of Washington. When the 380th pair of socks had been completed Mrs. Gann "just quit counting" and knitted day and night.

While busy people in the pretty apartment in ...e Mayflower turn out needed articles for people who would like to be busy, but can't, another group not far away also has launched a constructive line of work which will mitigate suffering in town. It is at the Congressional Club, where the members meet each Friday morning with Mrs. Clarence F. Lea, wife of Representative Lea, of California, serving as chairman.

Here, sweaters and socks and tiny dresses, plain, but warm and well made, find their way into huge boxes which rattle down the boulevards to the white pile of marble that is the Red Cross Building, and finally find their way into homes where poverty reigns, but hope looks in at the window.

Yale '88 Class Boy to Attend Stimson Party

Klotz Among 24 Men Who Will Attend Dinner Here.

With the "class baby" leading the yells and the wittiest men primed for a revival of the old college tales, the class of '88 of Yale University will hold its annual dinner in Washington on Saturday night, January 31, instead of in New York, because the Secretary of State, Mr. Henry L. Stimson, dispatched invitations to dine at Woodley.

The "class baby" is Mr. Allen T. Klots, becoming pretty widely known in official circles now, as he recently was appointed secretary to Mr. Stimson. In fact, the "class baby" is pretty well known to the '88 men, as he attended his first reunion of the class. He was then 2 years old.

There will be 23 guests with the Secretary rounding out the two dozen.

The men will stop at Wardman Park Hotel, where they all will be quartered in one of the wings. The group includes:

The Rev. Franklin Carter, Williamstown, Mass.; Dr. B. Austin Cheney, New Haven; Dr. Henry B. Covell, Rochester, N. Y.; Prof. Irving Fisher, New Haven, Conn.; the Rev. William C. Gordon, Washington; Dr. Daniel B. Harbenbergh, Middletown, N. Y.; Mr. Eugene W. Harter, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. Richard M. Hurd, New York; Mr. John C. Kebabian, New Haven, Conn.; Mr. Wolcott G. Lane, New York; Mr. Frederick H. Paine, Brooklyn; Mr. William A. Parshall, Port Jervis, N. Y.; Mr. Fred F. Solley, New York; Mr. William S. Stone, New York; Prof. Frank B. Tibbals, Detroit; Mr. Fred A. Verplanck, South Manchester, Conn.; Mr. Ephraim M. Youmans, New York; Mr. Jose Bornn, Philadelphia; Mr. Albert C. Lux, Clyde, N. Y.; Mr. Charles E. Cornwall, New Haven, Conn.; Mr. A. Milner Wellman, Caledonia, N. Y.; Prof. Monroe N. Wetmore, Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., and Mr. Allen T. Klots, Washington.

Mrs. Margaret Sheridan O'Connell, Miss Julia Teresa Sheridan and Miss Annette Sheridan will leave today for a three weeks' motor trip to Palm Beach.

Mrs. Edgar R. Kiess entertained informally at luncheon at the Shoreham yesterday.

THE BUSINESS PASS.

With the above hand played at Auction Bridge, South would bid one No Trump, West would double, North would pass—his weakness making that declaration necessary, and East would pass for the opposite reason; that is, East would make a "business" pass, with the hope of obtaining a large penalty. If South should venture the S O S redouble (always a dangerous declaration), commanding North to come to the rescue, he would be jumping from the frying pan into the fire; for, regardless of whether North rescued by bidding two Hearts or two Clubs, West or East (as the case might be) would have a profitable double of the increased commitment.

At Contract Bridge, with South's No Trump doubled by West, East should be guided in determining whether to business pass or bid three No Trumps by vulnerability. If North and South were vulnerable and East and West were not, it would be a great opportunity for a big penalty; if the vulnerability conditions were reversed, most players would prefer to take a surer rubber. With both sides vulnerable or both invulnerable, it would be a close choice.

With the hand played at one No Trump by South, doubled by West and passed by the other players, North and South would be massacred. West would lead the King of Hearts which South probably would refuse to win. West then would go on with the King of Spades and South would repeat his refusal, hoping to get the lead up to one of his Ace-Jacks. When East did not start a signal in either Hearts or Spades, West would try Diamonds or Clubs, either of which would suit East. As a result, East would lead both Hearts and Spades through South, and all that Declarer would save from the wreck would be his three Aces, and would be down four; if invulnerable 600, if vulnerable 1,400.

Dare Interprets the MODE

This gown of black georgette is distinctly Grecian in effect, due to its incrustations and cleverly inset pleatings. (Yteb, Paris.)

Paris, Jan. 12.

"WHAT'S going on in the tea-gown world these days? Or are tea gowns a thing of the past?" writes one of my readers.

No, indeed, my dear, tea gowns were never more popular, and never more beautiful than they are today—and if you doubt it I just wish you could see some of them that I have seen in the recent collections.

As to "what's going on"—'spose I just describe a few of the loveliest ones I saw?

In the Molyneux collection there was a dream of a tea gown—formal, gracious and flattering. It is of cut velvet with a pale rose flower design mounted on a coral background. It is a perfect thing with its trailing sleeves, its snugly draped hips and full skirt of pleated, rosy chiffon.

A lovely pajama tea gown was made of white crepe romain, in three pieces, depending on tucks, cut and fringe for its considerable charm. And still another adorable one was sky-blue crepe georgette and lame, the hip-length packet giving the effect of a peplum.

No, indeed, tea gowns aren't out of the running (if they could ever do anything so unladylike as to run)—and they never will be if the couturiers continue to make them as lovely as they are now.

* * * *

That's a smart way to take the place of the millyun near-diamond bracelets that used to be chic! And it relieves that glittery, heavy look, don't you think so? Yeah, I do!

It's the strass snake bracelet sketched today that I am talking about.

And then you know how I love those monogrammed bracelets, don't you? That's my idea of a slave bracelet with chic—and there it is, sketched, too.

* * * *

Not the gangling awkwardness that is charming and adolescent! Not the fullness of the mature figure! And never flabbiness.

These are Fashion's imperious demands—but there are ways of achieving the suggestion of curves that achieve gracefulness.

One of the most important ways is to wear the proper type of brassiere—one that holds up your bust and at the same time gives it a firmness of outline. That is exactly the type of brassiere we tell you how to make, giving clear, technical directions, in this week's illustrated leaflet. Hurry with your stamped, self-addressed envelope.

* * * *

I could write reams of paper and use up gallons of ink trying to describe to you Yteb's lovely black georgette gown! But being ever thoughtful of my deah public, and knowing the eyestrain such verbosity (isn't that a lovely word, now honestly) would cause, I decided to sketch it instead. The loveliest lady of Ancient Greece might have worn it, with its odd little bolero and peplum and skirt incrustations all following the well-known Grecian style. And see the skirt with its inverted pleats, inside which the finest possible knife-pleated sections have been inserted? No wonder such grace has lived through the ages!

* * * *

Must we remind you again of Dare's weekly fashion letter? You should look for it each Sunday in The Washington Post.

Au revoir!

"CAPRICORN."

If January 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to noon, from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger periods are from 3:45 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m.

According to the planetary aspects of January 13, there will be experienced a rather depressing feeling during the forenoon, but thereafter there will prevail an atmosphere of energizing force, during which the task on which you have centered your hopes should be assiduously prosecuted.

Children born on this January 13 will captivate by their winsomeness and willingness. They will be full of affection and free from mannerisms. They will develop their good characteristics at school, and will always "play the game." A very satisfactory career is augured for them.

If you were born on a January 13 you are always waiting, Micawber-like, for something to turn up. You expect things to come your way, and do not go out looking for opportunities. You suffer from an inferiority complex, as well as from lack of effort, and are continually repining your bad luck. It is difficult to diagnose your character. It is full of contradictions and anomalies. Endowed with high ideals, gifted with intelligence, blessed with personality, you seem to want to live at a low level; you rarely show to outsiders the erudition that is yours, and you, so far as personal charm is concerned, hide your light under a bushel.

There are many walks of life for which you possess aptitudes; by some inexplicable contrariety, you always seem to occupy the position that is least suited to one of your attainments. Why not analyze the situation and take the bull by the horns and master fate? You can, if you will.

If you could only be as natural and charming in your outside contacts as you are in the family circle you could very soon change the outlook and become what you ought to be. It is said that "familiarity breeds contempt," but in your case it breeds affection, as at heart you are unselfish, sympathetic and broadminded. When you expand, you are everything that is desirable. When you contract, you are anything but desirable. In the home you expand, while outside of the home you contract.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Friend for Karick.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I can not get poor Karick out of my mind, hence these lines. If she will take your fine advice she will find everything so much easier. But will she? Especially in regard to confiding in her people? I have two adorable babies and my husband and I have always said "they will only trust us when they are grown and have the same faith in our love then that they have now how wonderful it would be. And that is what we are hoping for in return for all our love and care. But will they? Will they know how much we would do for them and how far we would go to spare them sorrow or suffering? Or will they be like little Karick and turn to strangers rather than to us if trouble comes?

Please tell Karick, if you succeed in getting her real name, that the most important thing is to tell the ones who have loved her from her first breath and will love her until her last. Tell her that a mother's love has no dimensions and no limitations and survives any test and deserves to be rewarded with a child's trust.

Do you think she would come to see me? I somehow feel if she would I could help her to see things. And I know my babies would make her feel that babies are wonderful and hers will be too, regardless of the circumstances. And just as you tried to tell her, she and the baby count more than the man who has foresaken her. He is not the only one in the world, and unfortunately not the only one of his kind, but there are millions of men today who do not hold a girl an outcast because she has erred in one respect.

I would like to know Karick and help her to become reconciled to what is before her and to regard it as a thing to be met with every bit of intelligence and womanhood at her command. She will develop to meet this emergency and I am not the only happily married mother who would be glad to help her to that development. I am not offering charity, but would like as a friend to supply her with all my baby clothes. My mind is so full of her and her terrible distress that my Cheerio wish over the radio this morning was for her.

Here's hoping that it will help a little and that she will heed your advice to trust other women to extend the hand of strength and friendship that she needs just now. I want to hear from her. My address is attached.

MRS. M. C.

If Karick can withstand this friendly hail it will be surprising. Thus far she has failed to send me her name and so it will be hard to help. If she could know how many girls have found complete protection and privacy in a newspaper column, she would cease to mistrust. These columns were established to fill a very pressing need. They have no connection with the news. No individual connected with the news department of the paper has access to this column's mail. No one on the paper opens the mail addressed to me. It is sacredly and inviolately my private mail and whether Karick was revealed as a homeless and penniless working girl in the city's maze, or as a pampered child of wealth, her case would be handled with the selfsame privacy and sympathy. Every mother in the world deserves the sympathy and help of every woman in the world., and the matter of how she happened to become a mother is of no moment to other women worthy of the name.

Give us all a chance, Karick. Your little bark will yet know safe harbor and many a happy voyage. The gathering storm will pass as storms have passed through the ages, leaving blue skys. Have faith in yourself as strong enough to meet life, and have faith in all the women who are waiting to be real if unknown friends. Send your name and address or a name that will reach you so that you may be cared for as you deserve.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me whether it is possible to remove the young plants from about the base of my pandanus plant. Are rose geraniums likely to do well in the house if planted in empty coffee cans?

MRS. R. C.

Remove sprouts from the base of your pandanus and plant in a sandy soil, keep shaded for a few days, then place in a sunny location and water about three times a week. Rose geraniums make excellent house plants and will, provided you have holes for drainage, grow in tin cans. They will be much more attractive if planted in ordinary flower pots, however.

Please tell me why the leaves of my chrysanthemums are turning brown and whether they require much water when in bloom.

MARY E. D.

At this season, if planted in the open, your plants have gone into sear leaf. If in the house, the same thing may be true. Chrysanthemums demand a great deal of water at all times.

We have a productive garden, with rich soil, but we can not grow large onions or even large sets from seeds. They come up, but when about half grown the tops begin to dry and the onions do not develop. The tops of our chives do the same. Two years ago we put crushed lime on the soil, but it has made no difference in our onions.

MRS. C. W.

When onion tops wilt and topple over, white maggots are present. Onions must be kept growing rapidly. One of the great authorities on vegetables tells us when blight is present to "spray with two-thirds strength bordeaux mixture at ten-day intervals," and for maggots to "wet the surrounding soil with carbolic soapwash, or remove the soil about the plants in the morning, replacing at night, so as to allow some drying of soil about the maggots."

Please tell me how to transplant Boston ivies from hanging baskets on a porch into pots for house use. What winter protection must I give hydrangeas in my garden?

MRS. H. K.

Boston ivy (ampelopsis veitchii) is not likely to do well in the house. French hybrid hydrangeas do best in lawn tubs, which can be moved into a light, sunny basement in winter, or wherever the temperature remains at about 50 degrees. If you leave them in the open, mulch the roots with dead leaves, litter or well-rotted manure and cover the tops with an inverted basket. If you live where there are high winds in winter, better place cornstalks about the basket.

Please tell me if this is the time to bring an azalea, which has been in a cool, sunny place since being indoors, to a warm, sunny place and whether at the same time the amount of water should be increased.

MARY T. P.

Yes.

Do narcissus which have bloomed in the house bloom another year if planted outside?

AN AMATEUR GARDENER.

No.

Please tell me how to care for a coleus plant indoors. I can always raise them beautifully in the open, but never in the house.

ALICE W. T.

A coleus in the house demands a great deal of sun, heat and water every day. Spray the foliage once a week with cold water to prevent the plant being attacked by mealy bug.

FISH CHOWDER.
(Bureau of Home Economics.)

1½ pounds of fish
4 potatoes
1 onion chopped.
2 cups diced carrots.
¼ pound of salt pork
2 cups milk

Cod or haddock is the kind of fish generally preferred for chowder, but any kind of fish, dried or canned fish will do if it has large flakes of meat and only a few bones, which can easily be picked out before the fish is combined with the other ingredients. If preferred, a quart of clams or oysters may be used instead of fish.

Cut the salt pork in small pieces and fry with chopped onion for five minutes. Put pork, onion, carrots and potatoes in a kettle and cover with boiling water. Cook until the vegetables are tender. Add the milk and the fish, which has been removed from the bones and cut in small pieces. Cook until the fish is tender, or for about ten minutes.

YOUR NAME WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

The family name "Blackburn" (also spelled "Blackbourn," "Blackburne," and "Blackbourne") is of English origin. When it is derived from the Old English "blaec-burne" it means "the black brook," and indicates an original place of residence near such a stream. However, it is known that the first element of this name is often the Old English "blac" meaning "clear" and "bright." The large town of Blackburn in Lancashire has frequently given rise to this family name. The rather frequently found "Blackborn" is merely a corruption of "Blackburn," and does not at all indicate negro ancestry. An English document of the last part of the Fourteenth Century mentions a certain Willelmus de Blakburn and a Cristoforus de Blakeburn.

The family name "Caldwell" (also spelled "Cauldewell") is of English origin. Its source is the Old English "ceald-wiella," and its full significance is "he who lives near the cold well or spring." Many families which bear this name have received it because of a former residence in the place called "Cauldwell" in Derbyshire. Very frequently this name has been corrupted to "Caudle," "Cawdell," and "Cadle." At the present time it appears to be more common in the United States and Canada than in England. The earliest records of this name seem to be Cristina Caudel and William Caudle (1273), Ricardus de Coldewell (1739) and Thomas Cawdell (1587).

The family name "Knappe" is of German origin. It is derived from the Old High German "chnappo" which first meant "the boy," but which has now taken on the extended meanings of "page" and "servant."

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

CHAPTER X.

In Santiago things were in ferment. Peace between Spain and the United States was in the air but had not yet materialized. No one either in Santiago or in Washington seemed to have a clear idea of the status of this territory which American valor had won. Shafter held it, as commanding general of the victorious army, but Gen. Garcia, chief of the Cuban Army in the province, insisted that by the nature of the intervention it should be turned over to the Cubans.

No one knew what policy the American Government intended to pursue.

No one questioned Shafter's supreme authority. The serious matter was that the forces on which that authority rested were, in their camps on the San Juan ridge and around Caney, facing dissolution. The malarial fevers were sweeping through the Army. The men were shadows, up one day, down two; no regiment ever was 50 per cent effective; a troop of the Rough Riders could muster at roll call only eight men. Malaria was not the worst. In the background came on the yellow fever, monstrous, invincible, spreading panic.

Plight Is Unrecognized.

The War Department, trying to puzzle out how to govern a territory which Spain owned, the Army had conquered and the Cuban's claimed, failed to visualize the Army's plight. If the men were sick in the lowlands, let them be moved to the hills.

"We were all aghast," wrote Lieut. Charles D. Rhodes in his diary August 5. "Not one-third of our Army could march five miles, so weakened are we by disease, and the idea, the absurd idea, of our marching far up into the mountains gave us a thrill of horror and lack of confidence in our Washington chiefs."

Obviously there was, now that Santiago and its garrison were captured, only one thing to do, which was to take the Army to some northern climate where yellow fever germs could not propagate. The general officers met at Shafter's headquarters in the palace to discuss how best to make the obvious comprehensible to Secretary Alger. Tactfully, it was suggested to Roosevelt that as a civilian he could afford to risk the displeasure of the War Department better than officers whose careers rested on the favor of officials superiors. Besides, he had the ear of the public. If he would issue a statement and give it to the press that might have some effect. Roosevelt wrote the letter, but he did not give it to the correspondents. Wood, wise in the ways of the Army, advised him to address it to Shafter and let Shafter make it public. Meanwhile, the other general officers decided that they too had better go on record.

Round Robin Creates Furore.

Wood, working in the room adjoining Shafter's, heard talk of a "round robin," and opened the door.

"Here comes Wood," exclaimed one of the officers. "He's a doctor. Ask him to dictate it."

Wood dictated it to a military stenographer and it was signed as he wrote it, though Lawton thought it too peremptory and added a statement to that effect. The representative of the Associated Press begged Wood for a copy of the dispatch. Wood refused and took the dispatch to Shafter. "The matter is now in your hands."

"I don't care whether this gentleman has it or not," Shafter growled.

The correspondent took the message. Wood advised Shafter urgently to recall it, and to hold it until his own dispatch, contained in the round robin, had reached Washington and the War Department had had an opportunity to act. Shafter refused to call it back.

The round robin made a sensation. The Secretary of War was furiously angry at its publication, as Wood had known he would be, and Shafter blandly disclaimed all responsibility, but the day the statement was made public orders came to bring the Army North.

Hundreds Rise From Beds.

"The news that they were to go," Wood wrote Mrs. Wood, "took hundreds up from their beds and gave them life and energy to go to the boats * * * Glad is no name for their condition of mind. * * * It is pathetic to see them, yellow looking shadows of their former selves, trying hard to walk as far as the wharf but finding it difficult."

Meanwhile, Wood's work as military governor was not passing unnoticed. "I think Gen. Wood is by far the best man to leave in command of this post, and perhaps the whole district," Shafter telegraphed the adjutant general. "If he is not to have entire command, I would suggest Lawton as the only other man here in every way equipped for the position * * * They are the two best men in the Army here."

"Shafter goes in a day or two," Wood wrote Mrs. Wood, "and Lawton and I will be left here. Rather strange, is it not, as we were the only two who lasted out the Geronimo campaign in '86?"

By the middle of September the city was, from a sanitary standpoint, centuries in advance of what it had been when the troops entered it as victors a month previous.

Down to Modern Dirt.

"The old town is at last clean," Wood wrote his wife, "and we are down, so to speak, to modern dirt, which, while not attractive, is of a less offensive character than that of 1520."

Householders were not only buying garbage cans but were actually running to the palace to protest indignantly when—since carts were scarce—the collector did not arrive at the appointed hour. The lower, most unhealthy portions of the city, had been ditched and drained. It was no longer necessarily fatal to be sent to a hospital.

Lawton, having his hands full organizing the new military department, appointed Wood civil governor of the province. Wood turned at once to the reorganization of the municipal government of Santiago, cut the salaries of officials right and left, reducing the unhappy archbishop to one-third his magnificent stipend; organized schools, and cast about for ways and means to bring responsible Cubans into the subordinate positions. Such a move seemed important to him for two reasons. The Cubans had so long associated corruption with government that they were entirely cynical regarding the honesty of any man in public office.

In the eyes of these victims of Spanish greed, every official was a thief, of course, in office for no reason except to make himself rich. Wood realized that this attitude was ruinous, for it intimated only too clearly what the Cubans themselves would do when they came into power. They needed to learn that there was such a thing as integrity in public office, and how that integrity could and must be safeguarded. The Americans, moreover, had pledged them independence and it was important that they should learn something of the operations of government.

Jealousy Must Be Shunned.

There were, Wood knew, enough responsible Cubans in Santiago to fill the clerkships and other subordinate posts, but how was he to find them and, having found them, how was he to avoid jealousy on the part of those not appointed or the suspicion that the ones selected were being bribed with office and its traditional emoluments to play the American game? He steered adroitly among the rocks by appointing a committee of 50 prominent Cubans and placing on their shoulders the responsibility of selecting honest, conscientious and efficient men. The choice, he stipulated, must in each case be unanimous and must be presented to him in writing.

The plan proved one of those inspirations which statesmen are always hungering for and seldom are vouchsafed. It provided him with officials whom he might use, instruct and direct, but for whose good behavior the leading Cubans themselves were responsible. But it did more. It stirred those Cubans to the depths. They had been outsiders all their lives; as far as any public activity went, pariahs. Wood gave them practically the first recognition they had ever received as a responsible element in society. Inevitably they became his allies, and their friends and henchmen became his supporters. Wood's simple gesture, curiously, had results even more far-reaching. In effect, it organized all that was solid and dependable in Santiago behind his government. The Spanish element—having nowhere else to go—had already ranged itself behind the Americans. The act which brought the responsible Cubans actively to Wood's side brought therefore, the first step toward cooperation between the Cubans and Spaniards.

Organizes for Cooperation.

Wood deliberately organizes his various projects in such a way as to bring as many of the substantial Cubans as possible in touch with the life and government of their city. The Cubans prove eager to help. Were they backward at the beginning of his government? They did not understand, it seems. Coopration, civic spirit, all-for-each and each-for-all are strange terms which nothing in their experience illuminates. All that they know of government is government for the benefit of the governors; all that they know of civic duty is subjection, obedience and taxes.

Somehow, dimly, they come to realize that Wood is opening a new world to them, and follow him with a naive faith and admiration. Wood gives them a little power, and gives them more as they show their fitness and understanding.

Early in October, Lawton, who had been ill with fever off and on for three months, broke down, as McKibben had broken down, and was relieved. Wood was appointed commander of the department.

Santiago Province, of which he was now autocrat—subject only to a President far away and glad to give him a free hand—covered an extensive territory, having its sea coasts north and south and east, and a wide, unpeopled grazing country on the west, which reminded Wood of New Mexico and made the eastern end of Cuba to all intents and purposes an island by itself.

Same Task on Bigger Scale.

Wood's task in the province was the same as the task he had confronted when he took charge of the city, but on a larger scale, and complicated by the fact that the centers of population were in point of time as far apart as Boston, and San Francisco, Seattle and New Orleans. The people were half starved. The plantations belonging to the "reconcentrados" had been burned by the Cuban forces; those belonging to the Cuban forces had been destroyed by the Spaniards and the guerillas; and the jungle had crept upon them and all but obliterated them.

But in that back country were 10,000 hungry soldiers, not to be disregarded. Garcia went to Wood in a sultry mood.

"He demanded work and rations for his men," Wood said afterward. "I told him they could have neither while they remained under arms. He threatened war, and I told him the sooner he began the better, because, as we had taken a mean job on our hands, that might be the best way out of it."

Gen. Wood fully recognized the Cuban's difficulties and proposed that the American Government pay off the Cuban army, giving each soldier $50, half in cash and half in agricultural implements. The expenditure even of $1,500,000 seemed to him a cheap solution of so tangled and thorny a problem. Meanwhile, he sent a dependable Cuban officer through the province with an escort of Cubans and Americans to acquaint the soldiers with the plans of the Americans in Cuba and induce them to return to their homes. Gradually the tension relaxed. In small groups the hungry warriors surrendered their arms and went to work.

Problem of Brigands Arises.

There was a disgruntled minority, however, who refused to resume the responsibilities of normal living. These stepped lightly across the narrow line which separates the guerilla from the outlaw, and became brigands, terrorizing the back country and looting the farms and villages. Gen. Wood was chary of sending soldiers after them. He knew that if an American soldier killed a single Cuban brigand the fact would be front page news in every American newspaper, and that a single clash between the brigands and an American force might touch off the explosive relations between Americans and Cubans, and start an insurrection similar to that with which the Americans were contending in the Philippines. A Cuban, Col. Francisco Valiente, came to Gen. Wood with a happy thought. He knew the brigands, he said; they were most of them good men, who stole merely because they were hungry. He proposed calling these in from the bush, organizing them as a body of rural guards and setting them to catching the other brigands. The idea was greeted with a howl of derision by every one except the governor. There was no news in Cubans killing Cubans. Wood told Valiente to see what he could do. The plan was brilliantly successful.

In the midst of Wood's labors and perplexities a bizarre thing happened. "My desk was in a particular room of the house there, and I got accustomed to his location," Wood said in an interview years afterward. "One very warm day my secretary moved the desk to another room where there was a chance of getting more air. Some one called me and I got up suddenly. Directly behind me there was a hanging chandelier. It must have been hanging extremely low, for when I arose my head came in violent contact with it. The blow must have broken my skull."

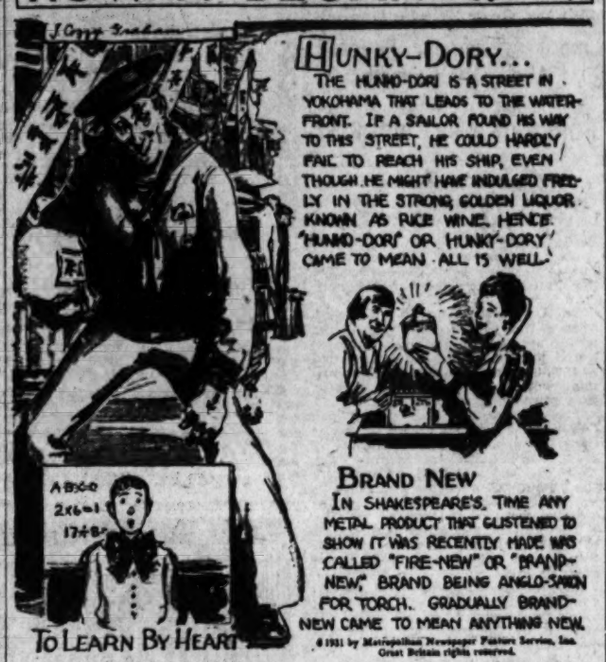

The chandelier was a ponderous affair and it was weighted down with a gallon of kerosene. Wood fell to the floor, dazed and groggy, but managed to get to his feet again. He did not have the wound examined, but washed it himself and went on with his work. At last the pain drove him home. Next morning he was back at his desk with a bump on his head as big as his fist. This gradually diminished.

Wood regarded the accident as a ridiculous and insignificant interruption of the day's work.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—In order to be different, we're nominating the ten best picture "stealers" of 1930:

Beryl Mercer walked away with "Seven Days' Leave," which caused one to wonder why Gary Cooper was starred.

Marie Dressler was outstanding in two "all-star casts" — namely, "Anna Christie" and "Let Us Be Gay."

Douglas Fairbanks, jr., was more convincing in "Dawn Patrol" than its star, Richard Barthelmess.

WARREN HYMER

Warren Hymer's comedy in the satire on prison dramas, "Up the River," is the first flight. (Watch this fellow.)

Wallace Beery's work in "Way for a Sailor," put the star of the piece, John Gilbert, in second place.

James Gleason made Harry Richman look rather like an amateur in the latter's first and only film, "Putting on the Ritz."

Jack Haley made "Follow Thru" a little worth while. (It was soft pickings for the stage comedian to outshine Nancy Carroll and Buddy Rogers in this one.)

Mutt, the dog, in "Anybody's War" was the whole show. (It was that Moran and Mack thing—their last.)

The scenery in "The Big Trail" stole it.

The Zeppelin in "Hell's Angels" will be remembered long after everything else about the pictures is forgotten.

Listens to Critic.

Jeanette MacDonald has done some repair work on her face—with grease paint. The blonde singer looked at herself on the screen more carefully than ever after a critic said she was photographically impossible because of teeth.

The "illusion" caused by the slight curl of her upper lip has been eliminated now by the application of a dab of red paint.

Cold Actress.

Going back into movie history: When Signe Auen, a Seattle society girl whose name now is Seena Owen, came to Hollywood in 1915, she went to D. W. Griffith.

"Too cold for an actress," said the director bluntly, so the story goes, as he appraised the calm Scandinavian blonde.

"Then I'm an actress," she retorted, "because I'm trembling inside right now."

"You're hired," Griffith replied. A year later he cast her for the fervid role of the princess beloved in "Intolerance."

Miss Owen still is in Hollywood, occasionally appearing in character parts.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Nervous Fatigue.

Daniel, 2½ years old, received for Christmas a multitude of toys.

There were brightly colored balls, several rubber dolls and animals that made exciting noises when pressed in some particular spot, a woolly teddy bear and a fine wagon, not to mention a half dozen ingenious toys which behaved in a variety of ways when dragged along the floor at the end of a string.

Christmas morning was a great success with Daniel. After his morning nap he went back to the new play things with fresh vigor.

Then quite suddenly he burst into tears. Mother squeaked his dolls, father ran the wagon back and forth over the floor, but he only wailed the louder.

It was mother who had the inspiration. "Find his old nested blocks. He always liked those." At the sight of the familiar play thing he stopped crying and began to occupy himself with the oft-repeated game of taking them all apart and putting them all together again in the correct order.

While he was thus serenely absorbed his mother collected the Christmas toys and put them away in the closet.

Little children become nervously fatigued through the excessive stimulation of many new toys given to them all at once.

Most children receive at Christmas many more play things than they can happily enjoy. Although it may be difficult to prevent this, it is at least possible discreetly to remove all but a few which seem to have made a special appeal.

If the child has been permitted to play with too many new things until he has become unhappy with nervous fatigue, it is better to remove all the new things until the child has had a chance to recover his poise.

Don't risk daintiness
this sanitary protection
deodorizes completely

Kotex not only deodorizes, but it is softer, more absorbent, more comfortable.

DON'T sacrifice your feminine charm one single day. Kotex protects when daintiness is especially difficult.

All through every Kotex pad, there is a wonderful deodorant. This deodorant is your protection. It is safe and gentle . . . soothing, even . . . yet deodorizes as long as the pad is worn.

Meantime Kotex gives a degree of comfort that seems almost miraculous. This is largely due to its unique filler—Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding.

Stays soft and delicate

Kotex keeps its original delicacy an amazingly long time, because Cellucotton absorbs laterally and away from the surface, distributing moisture throughout the entire pad.

The round, tapered corners make this pad always inconspicuous. And you dispose of it, you know, just like tissue . . . doing away with unpleasant laundering. It is adjustable, because of the layer construction—can be changed to suit changing needs. You wear it on either side, with no danger of embarrassment. Ask today for "a package of Kotex" at any drug or department store.

How World Wealth Shifts

The United States is today in full control of the world's gold, and in full command of the world's economic influence; the question is, how long will she retain it?

Canada is vitally interested in the answer to that question; the more wealth United States has, provided it is active wealth, the more prosperous will Canada be. But world wealth is only comparative; it follows world trade and world leadership, and where either is absent, wealth has a peculiar way of shifting. The wealth of a nation, like the wealth of an individual, takes in that nation's possessions, its farms, its livestock, its real estate, and industrial capital, based on its earning value.

When the Great Powers started their race for world economic supremacy in 1860, Four Powers had reached high figures in wealth:

Great Britain led with	40	Billion
Germany followed with	38	"
France	33	"
United States	30	"

By 1900 the standing of those Four Powers was:

United States	65	Billion
Great Britain	53	"
Germany	50	"
France	43	"

From 1900 until 1913 the world enjoyed tremendous industrial development, England in particular had a tremendous trade with her Dominions and with Asia and India, while United States enjoyed internal industrial development.

Before the war trumpets sounded in 1914, the wealth standing of those Four Powers was:

United States	190	Billion
Great Britain	75	"
Germany	65	"
France	50	"

What United States won out of the war and out of the ten years' internal and external trade which followed Britain's war debts' settlement in 1920, is best told in the standing of world wealth in 1929:

UNITED STATES	500	Billion
Great Britain	90	"
Germany	80	"
France	60	"
Canada	30	"

No man, however fortunate and rich, will believe how well off he is until he goes around and takes a look at a few of his neighbors; it's the same with nations. So that the true position with respect to World Finance and War Debts can easily be seen and understood by even the mystified mind of the masses on viewing the situation from a world perspective.

The essence of such a world picture is, that out of the war period from 1914 to 1929 the United States has emerged with her wealth increased from 190 to 500 billions. The question is, has United States enough men with leadership and greatness of mind to appreciate and improve her new won position by a generous constructive attitude toward Europe and Asia? Or will her leaders dissipate by the billions this new national wealth, and all the while pretending to their masses and even to themselves that they are true American and true World Citizens.

How little of that increased wealth of 310 billions which United States made out of the war and after-war era, is made up of buildings, inventories and gold, and how much of it is PAPER, or new capital grounded on PAPER values, AND DEPENDENT ON WORLD STABILITY, can be realized by a glance at the New York Stock Board, where, in the last twelve months, there has been a shrinkage of 50 BILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

Where the ill consequence of haggling and small-mindedness injures not only the masses of North America, but the whole human family, is it not time for straight thinking and plain speaking?

Official Washington says: "War Debts must be paid; Europe must continue to send 70 Million Sterling per year to America." A leading American weekly says: "If Germany's war debt is postponed or reduced, American taxpayers will suffer." A leading banker says: "Financial America knows that a war debt moratorium or reduction, along with world credit to China, are urgent steps, on which United States should take a lead, but the American public is not yet ready for such a move."

And yet, every WEEK for a whole year that American public has suffered a shrinkage in national and individual wealth, of ONE BILLION DOLLARS, or a sum three times greater than the amount annually demanded from Europe; on stocks alone a loss of 50 BILLION DOLLARS!! Has the American public been told and has it grasped the significance of this?

Would it be regarded as competence for a company president to sit down and watch his millions of accumulated capital become impaired and vanish, while he fussed around about a few hundred dollars' expenses or bad debts? Supposing present world trade stagnation goes on for another twelve months; how much more will America have to cut her wealth figure of 500 billions?

With nations, as with individuals, it is income, business volume, activity and fructification that make wealth. There is no wealth or life in gold and frozen assets and accumulated surpluses.

United States can live without the rest of the world. So can Canada. So can any man who wants to live in a cave.

But United States cannot live independent of the rest of the world and independent of world trade and world finance, and at the same time maintain her wealth figure at 500 billions; or at 300 billions, or at even her 1912 figure of 190 billions. Nor can humanity anywhere any longer live independent or unconscious of humanity.

WORLD FINANCE MUST BE RECONSTRUCTED, with China and other countries who use silver exclusively, brought into the financial world picture; WORLD TRADE MUST BE RESUSCITATED so that surpluses now accumulating all over North America can move more freely among our own people, as well as move to Europe and to Asia, to mouths that are hungry and backs that are bare.

If the years from 1930 to 1940 are to be years of world progress and world prosperity, United States men must give today a world lead like Englishmen gave the world in 1920.

They can. Will they? —Editor, Vancouver Sun.

CHURCHES WILL AID IN CHEST CAMPAIGN

Meeting of Pastors Pledges Full Support to Drive for Charity Fund.

SERMONS ARE PLANNED

Hearty cooperation of the Protestant churches with the coming Community Chest campaign was pledged at a meeting of pastors of all denominations and of both white and colored churches, which was held yesterday in the Calvary Baptist Church, Eighth and H streets northwest.

Sunday, January 25, the day before the campaign officially begins, was officially set aside as Community Chest Sunday. Cooperation promised included sermons by pastors, appearance of Community Chest speakers in pulpits and before various church groups, distribution of descriptive leaflets to all who attend church on that Sunday, printing of explanatory material in church calendars and bulletins, and placing of posters on bulletin boards and in church lobbies.

"This opportunity of the churches to cooperate with the Community Chest enables us to put a new emphasis on the significance of the truth of God in the world," said the Right Rev. William F. McDowell, senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who presided in the absence of Bishop James E. Freeman, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Washington and chairman of the Community Chest committee on church cooperation.

Many Valid Reasons.

"I am not advancing the benefits of the Community Chest as a financial or economic measure or as solving the problem of poverty, although those are valid reasons for the support of every citizen. We are trying to discover the spiritual nature of all these things and to link up the activities of the Community Chest member organizations in behalf of those in need with the purposes of God in the world and with the way in which he expresses his concern in human welfare."

"The Community Chest is the church in action," said the Rev. Robert W. Brook, pastor of Lincoln Temple. "It is our ideals being made practical. It is a community enterprise in which all of us may have a part irrespective of any accidental station in life. The Community Chest seeks to meet the elemental and primary needs of all of the unfortunates in our midst."

The Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of the Washington Cathedral, said: "All the pastors of Washington can help the Community Chest by informing the people as to its work and as to its value. I have sat on boards of two organizations which are members of the Community Chest and have no question that the Community Chest has been of great service. It has improved the business methods of its organization. It has removed financial anxiety from their managers. If not a dollar were raised by the Community Chest it would still be a boon of the unity which it has brought into the diverse elements of our community."

Enthusiastic Over Idea.

The Rev. Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, pastor of the First Congregational Church, said: "I am enthusiastic about the Community Chest and the Community Chest idea. I know its work intimately. It expresses the spirit of the Good Samaritan in the idea that 'what is mine is yours if you need it.' The pastor can help tremendously with the Community Chest by talking about it on every possible occasion."

The Rev. Homer J. Councilor, assistant minister of Calvary Baptist Church, said: "We are going to live up to our obligation to support the charitable and philanthropic work of our community as expressed through the Community Chest. That work is the outgrowth of the touch of the church on the life of the community. Protestant churches of Washington are heartily behind this great unified movement."

Father Will Greet Tallulah Bankhead

Representative's Daughter Who 'Conquered London' Coming Home.

(Associated Press.)

A beautiful American girl, who went abroad on her nerve and brought London theatergoers to her feet, is coming home to an affectionate welcome from her father—Representative Bankhead, of Alabama.

Tallulah Bankhead, blonde, slender, Southern belle, who left a skeptical family five years ago, will be received with joy today in New York. There will be a family celebration, her father said yesterday, "but no fanfare."

"I am overjoyed," he added. "She went over on her nerve, you know. She had few acquaintances in London. She had worked in the theater here for about two years, but had no job in prospect. Now she has a movie contract and her first talkie will be made in New York."

Additional $200,000 For Arboretum Urged

Advocates of the plan to establish a national arboretum in the National Capital yesterday urged the House agricultural committee to provide an additional $200,000 for the site.

The measure was discussed at a public hearing by the committee at which Representative Robert Luce (Republican), of Massachusetts, sponsor of the bill, and several others urged speedy action. The $200,000 additional money requested, they said, merely represented the amount cut out of the measure when Congress originally authorized an arboretum. The bill before the House committee has been passed by the Senate.

12,000 Oklahomans Watch Alfalfa Bill's Inauguration

Red Man Joins With White When Murray Takes Governor's Oath.

WILLIAM H. MURRAY.

Oklahoma City, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—From the cotton patch and teepee and from high position, Oklahomans joined today to inaugurate William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray their ninth Democratic governor.

The white man, the red man and the Negro formed a spontaneous pageant of Oklahoma history as 12,000 of them saw the gaunt, picturesque constitutional author take the oath of office from his 91-year-old father, Col. Uriah Dow Thomas Murray.

Mr. Murray, who already had served notice his administration would be one of the common people, with tax slashing and grim economy, said in an extemporaneous speech he would "walk the highway alone," challenged his enemies and promised to reform the pardon and parole system.

Just after Mr. Murray had repeated the oath of office, Millett Hoy Koy Bitty, Comanche Indian chief, bright in ceremonial costume and paint, confronted him and uttered a prayer in his native tongue, wishing the "great chief" godspeed and asking justice for all races.

The quiet housewife who became Oklahoma's first lady is one-eighth Chickasaw and Mr. Murray himself always has been close to Indian affairs.

In itself the inauguration program was simple. Mr. Murray stood on a small platform decorated with a few flags. The colorful crowd was confined to a roped off area before the south steps of the capitol.

Thus was "Bill" Murray, who left a Texas cotton patch at the age of 12, made chief executive of Oklahoma.

The former representative, who returned only recently to the State, whose constitution he helped to write, after failing to establish an agrarian colony in Bolivia, was swept into office last November with the greatest vote ever given an Oklahoma governor.

A man of simple dress and tastes, outspoken always, he has promised a new departure in Oklahoma governors. This State's last two elected executives were impeached and removed.

Moustache abristle, Mr. Murray paused only long enough to eat a luncheon of hard-boiled eggs, onions and milk and plunged into an afternoon and evening which included a reception and inaugural ball.

Telegrams of congratulation poured into the executive offices from high dignitaries, but the State's new governor remembered best the faltering words of his father, whispered after the oath had been read:

"This is my happiest moment—next to the time, down under an elm tree, when I got religion."

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IN THE old days of the silent cinema when a player was hired to appear before the cameras he was hired to appear before the cameras, and that was about all. Nowadays, what with chain theaters, centralized control and the manipulation by a single head of all the by-products of motion picture making, the actor or actress becomes a sort of amusement jack of all trades and master of most of them.

I mean to say, if you sign with any of the foremost producers for this, that or the other chore you will probably be doing all three by the time you get through. Take the Warner Bros., for example—and a new paragraph in which to take them.

The Warner Bros., as, needless to say, you already know, produce motion pictures and are the pioneers in sound and dialogue production. They also control the Brunswick Phonograph Co., or whatever its precise corporate name may be; produce stage plays and musical comedies, operate a broadcasting studio on the West Coast and own a considerable sheet music publishing business. When an artist signs on with the Warner Bros. he lets himself in for something besides a joyride, no fooling. Take Irene Delroy, for example—and a new paragraph in which to take her.

Miss Delroy, first of all, played the feminine lead in the stage production of "Top Speed," which was backed by contributions from the Warner strong box. Then she went to the Warner Studio on the coast and enacted screen roles in "Men of the Sky," "The Life of the Party" and "Divorce Among Friends." During this period she was heard more than once by radio listeners from Station KFWB, Los Angeles, owned by the Warner Brothers. Phonograph records were made of her songs in various productions, both stage and screen, and nationally distributed by the concern controlled by the Warner boys, who also effect similar distribution of the sheet-music editions of the same numbers. Now Miss Delroy is in New York, between pictures, not at all sure that she will not soon appear in another Warner-backed musical comedy and thus begin the cycle all over again—unless a few personal appearance tours of the picture houses are tossed in in the meantime for good measure.

When you ask the Warner Brothers for a job, it seems that that is what you get. Apparently, unlike the gentlemen in another big industry, they even make use of the squeal!

You don't do so badly, either—or so it seems—when you go out and get yourself a press-agent berth with Fox. Last May Hardie Meakin was elevated from the publicity assignment to the managing directorship of the local Fox Theater, and now Tom Olsen, who succeeded Mr. Meakin as chief cymbal-whanger on F street, has received similar recognition of his ability and faithfulness.

On Wednesday of this week, meaning tomorrow, Mr. Olsen will leave Washington for his home town of Seattle, Wash., where he will assume the managing directorship of the Fox Fifth Avenue Theater. Word of his tentative appointment was received several weeks ago, but was only definitely confirmed by the Fox executives yesterday.

Although Mr. Olsen is a native of the Puget Sound country, he was appointed to Washington from up-State New York. He assumed his duties at the Fox in this city the first week of last August, and during the five months of his conduct of the advertising and publicity department, under Mr. Meakin, has made stanch friends of all with whom he has come in contact in the Capital. As one of these, I join the others in wishing Tom every good fortune in his new affiliation.

His successor in Washington will be supplied by promotion from the ranks of publicists already in the Fox employ. At the next managers' meeting in New York Mr. Meakin will make his choice of publicity and advertising man from the available list of eligibles furnished him by the office of Harry Arthur, in charge of Fox theaters.

It does not always pay to keep your big mouth shut, and here is the proof.

Joe E. Brown, whose ear-to-ear grin and cavernous maw are his fortune, has just signed a new five-year contract with Warner Brothers Studios, where he has risen to the rank of star since the movies became the talkies.

A large increase in salary—amount not stated—is involved and the agreement also stipulated that Brown will be privileged to devote twelve weeks a year to stage appearances. He is starring in "Elmer, the Great," on a Hollywood stage at the present time.

Brown's first vehicle under the terms of the new contract will be a camera version of "The Tenderfoot," a comedy in which Richard Carle scored a hit on the stage years ago. There is one production, however, still to be completed under the old contract.

Tickets for the first special Saturday morning performance for juveniles, to be given Saturday morning of this week, January 17, at the Fox Theater, may be purchased in advance at the box office of the theater, beginning today, at the flat rate of 15 cents per ticket for all children not past junior high school age. This is to permit parents to buy tickets in advance and so avoid long lines at the box office when doors are opened at 8:45 Saturday morning.

The extensive and picturesque vernacular of sound pictures has been assembled and compiled into a book, "A Selected Glossary for the Motion Picture Technician," by the technical bureau of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

The book is intended first of all to help cameramen, sound engineers, laboratory workers and projectionists understand each other, and, secondly, to render the technicians' vocabulary comprehensible to actors and directors.

That ought to help!

It appears to be the consensus of critical opinion, both professional and lay—and I mean no pun—that Evelyn Laye came, was seen and conquered, despite a woefully weak vehicle as the medium of her introduction to American motion picture audiences.

It would seem that such skillful artisans as Louis Bromfield and Sidney Howard might have contrived a trifle more credible picture than "One Heavenly Night," current at the Palace, for their charming blonde star, but inept as their attempted adaptation of time-worn musical devices proved to be, the effulgence of its feminine luminary was not seriously dimmed. Her personality and poise are such that she appeared not quite so ridiculous as many others might have in situations little less than grotesque. It will require another picture to show her at her best.

This was true also of Marlene Dietrich, whose personal performance was better than the slow-moving "Morocco," in which she was first glimpsed by Washington audiences. Fortunately, her second picture—made first—will not be long in reaching the local screen. "The Blue Angel" is an early booking at the Fox and is, incidentally, Emil Jannings' first talking film.

Frau Dietrich, by the way, was not the first choice for her role in "The Blue Angel." It was first offered to Gloria Swanson, who found it impossible to accept, and then was proffered to Phyllis Haver, who had been Jannings' leading woman in his first American film, "The Way of All Flesh." Miss Haver declined to come out of retirement. What to do? Easy. Josef von Sternberg, the director, engaged Miss Dietrich immediately he had heard her speak the line, "Three cheers for the gentleman who has won the grand prize," in "Zwei Kravatten," a Berlin musical comedy hit.

In case you are a little weak in your German, "Zwei Kravatten," translated into English, means "Two Kravatten."

Bankruptcy Is Asked By Capital Auto Firm

Rudolph Jose, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to adjudge the Washington Cadillac Co. a bankrupt. Mr. Jose also is president of that firm. No schedule of assets and liabilities was filed, the ten-day period of grace being reserved.

The petition pointed out that the board of trustees and stockholders of the company met January 7 and decided that the company could no longer pay its debts. The company is represented by Attorneys Ellis, Ferguson, Houghton and Gary.

CARTER CRITICIZES RETIREMENT POLICY

Printer Says State Department Messenger Favored Above His Experts.

FORCE OF 4,827 WORKING

The Commerce Department has become the Government's most important printing customer, displacing both Congress and the Postoffice, which formerly vied for the place, Public Printer George H. Carter told President Hoover yesterday in his annual report.

The Commerce printing bill ran up during the year to $2,872,597, the public printer reported. Congressional printing and binding reached $2,499,510, almost exhausting the annual working capital available for that purpose, Mr. Carter said.

The public printer reported the Government Printing Office has benefited the unemployment situation by giving work to 563 persons since July. This was accomplished by reducing the amount of overtime and employing a larger force to handle the increasing work of the office.

The staff of the office now stands at 4,827. Pending appointments will bring those employed to 4,982, however, he said.

Mr. Carter criticized civil service administration of the special continuance provisions of the retirement act enacted by Congress on his recommendation. As interpreted by the Civil Service Commission, the law "is really of little or no benefit to the Government Printing Office," the public printer said.

He cited an instance in which the commission had continued in service a messenger to Secretary of State Stimson. Although the amendment was intended to apply to employes having "expert" knowledge, according to the public printer, he said he had been unsuccessful in deferring the retirement of two printing office employes who qualified as "experts."

"It is evident, therefore," he said, "that the Civil Service Commission considers the 'expert knowledge and special qualifications' of a State Department messenger as more 'advantageous to the public service' than the expert knowledge and special qualifications of one of the most skillful wood carvers and cabinet makers in the country, whose service in the Government Printing Office was ended by the arbitrary ruling of the commission."

Barber Shop Closing Bill Hearing Due Today

Hearings on the bill to compel barber shops to close on Sunday will be held at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon by a subcommittee of the Senate District committee. The measure is sponsored by representatives of the Barbers' Union. Senator Royal C. Copeland (Democrat), of New York, author of the bill, said yesterday that he has no particular desire to force the closing of barber shops on Sundays, but he was interested in having their work week limited to six days.

NATS BUY OUTFIELDER HARRY RICE FROM YANKEES

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—One hears and reads expressions of the greatest displeasure at the action of the New York prize fight commissioners in busting Max Schmeling, their own pork-barrel heavyweight champion, down to the rank of loogan or palooka, but my own indignation has a rather high boiling point and I remain quite calm and placid.

One time a distinguished war correspondent, returning to this country after the crash of the war business, found himself overcome with intoxicants and wandered into a church for meditation and spiritual stock-taking. A funeral service chanced to be going on at the time and the young man was swept in the little eddy of mourners as the company entered the hacks to ride to the grave. Arriving there, the pastor uttered a few apposite platitudes, winding up with the observation that "the good Lord giveth and the good Lord taketh away."

"And what," said our hero, lurching to the brink of the pit and ogling all present with an alcoholic challenge, "and what could be fairer than that?"

In the present instance, the prize fight commission giveth and the prize fight commission taketh away, and nothing, I insist, could be fairer than that, either.

It is agreed that a prize fighting championship won in action in the ring can be lost only by defeat in action in the ring, but this argument ignores the fact that Max Schmeling did not win a championship but was appointed to that rank by a political commission which invested the bout with this quality with the sole object of meriting some compensating political favor in the future. The favor was not extended to Max Schmeling but to an important political interest which was promoting the prize fight. From the fact that the appointment has been withdrawn, I take it that the debtor interest has not redeemed its political I O U given to the Tammany prize fight commission about eight months ago, and any fair judgment is bound to concede that the prize fight commissioners are now justified in withdrawing the title.

MAX'S TITLE POLITICAL BOON

Titles of rank arising from political favor always are revokable at the pleasure of the source from which they are derived. Sir Roger Casement, a British knight, was divested of his rank and all the prerogatives pertaining thereto before he was hanged for disloyalty to the crown. He was disloyal only in the sense that he had accepted distinction from the king, and Schmeling, being a creature of the New York prize fight commissioners, likewise was beholden to them. A citizen of a country which was recently a monarchy, Schmeling should have realized this more keenly than any American prize fighter could have been expected to. In this country, political loyalties, particularly local ones, are subject to momentary conditions.

HUNG LORD WITH SILK ROPE

I heard that Sir Roger, out of deference to the rank which he once held, was supposed to have been granted the consoling privilege of being hanged with a silken rope. This privilege was entirely theoretical as it turned out. He was supposed to imagine that the common hangman's line was a luxurious strand. The prize fight commission should develop some sentimental ceremonies, too. In revoking a pork-barrel appointment to the heavyweight championship, the Tammany commission should hit upon the idea of signing the decree with a gold or platinum nib. But I hear that the revocation was attested with a common, 1-cent, tin or postoffice type of pen. Herr Schmeling, like Sir Roger, will have to let his imagination do the rest.

At any rate, never having been a champion except by political appointment, Schmeling has lost no more than many a victim of capricious royal favor in times long past, and much less than some who also lost their heads. In time, the prize fight commissioners will be deposed, also, and, like all the little gigolo former monarchs and dukes of Europe, will be subject to the rudeness of those who formerly bent the knee to their powerful office. But I hope that time is long in coming. Like Marie of Roumania, they are very comic in their pomposity, whereas, shorn of their smug dignity, they would be only pathetic.

In pugilism, Schmeling resembles the exiled grand duke who claims to be the absentee czar of all the Russias, inclusive. He will now fight William Stribling for a title which was only lent to him in the first place by an authority which had no right to confer it and subsequently

South Plans No Curb on Athletics

Grid Receipts Decline to Have Little Effect on 1931 Program.

3 Report Increases; Tennessee to Curtail Baseball.

(This is another of a series of stories based on a Nation-wide survey by the Associated Press of athletic conditions.)

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Despite the failure of football to draw the customary number of customers through the gates of Southern football stadia last fall, athletic programs in Dixie schools will be carried through practically without curtailment.

Even with receipts running 5, 10 and 20 per cent below 1930, there was no disposition among athletic directors to curtail other sports activities, which in the main must be supported from the football fund.

Director Miles, of Virginia Poly, said his school was prepared to "borrow money if necessary" to keep intramural and minor sports operating on the same plane as in previous years. Dan McGugin, athletic director at Vanderbilt, said the decrease in football revenues there meant merely that there would be less money to apply to reduction of debts on the athletic plant and that no curtailment was planned in minor sports.

Baseball Suffers at Tennessee.

Only Mississippi College, Alabama Poly (better known as Auburn) and Tennessee reported a curtailment in minor sports. At Tennessee baseball is being curtailed only "because of lack of interest."

Centenary College, of Louisiana, and Oglethorpe, of Georgia, instead of curtailing minor sports are planning to extend them.

The smaller schools as a group were the hardest hit by the depression.

Oglethorpe, Alabama Poly and Kentucky reported increased football revenues. Tulane, which had a good year in football competitively, reported its revenues as about the same as in 1929, exact figures not being available.

Two small Dixie schools, Kentucky Wesleyan and Atlantic Christian, of North Carolina, dropped intercollegiate football at the close of their 1930 season. C. M. Dannelly, president of Kentucky Wesleyan, said the game "tended to create an atmosphere not in harmony with the higher ideals of scholarship and character."

Three Report Increase in Grid Receipts.

Classifying the schools responding to the Associated Press questionnaire as to football receipts and curtailment of athletic programs, the line-up is as follows:

Normal or increased receipts: Kentucky (no estimate of increase), Oglethorpe (10 per cent), Alabama Poly (no estimate), Tulane (about the same).

Decreased receipts: Georgia Tech (10 per cent), Virginia Military Institute (slightly off), Mississippi College (20 per cent), Vanderbilt (10 per cent), Tennessee (slightly off), Centenary (20 per cent), Mercer (slightly off), South Carolina (33 per cent), University of Maryland (10 per cent), Washington and Lee (5 per cent), Virginia Poly (no estimate).

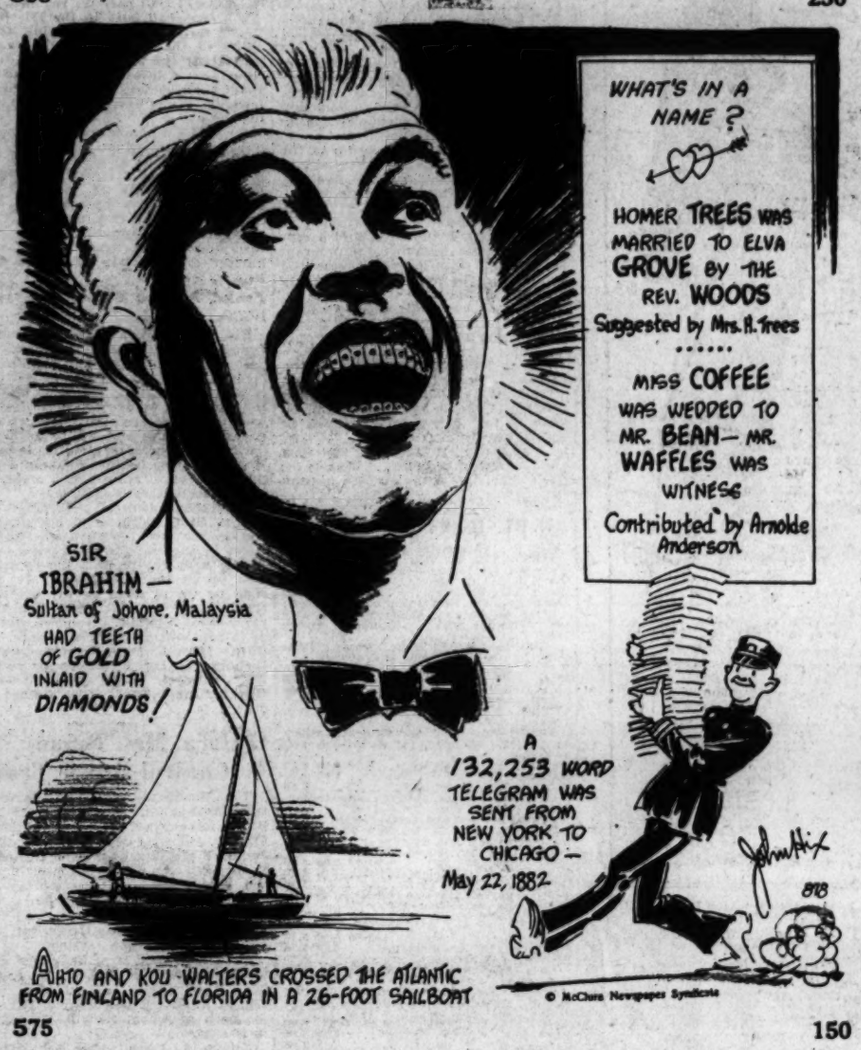

Curtailed programs: Mississippi College (baseball, basket ball and track), Tennessee (baseball), Alabama Poly (baseball and basketball).

Whitcombe to Captain British Cup Golfers

London, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Charles A. Whitcombe, professional golf champion of Great Britain, today was named captain of the British professional team, which will meet one from the United States at Columbus, Ohio, June 26 and 27 for the Ryder Cup.

Whitcombe is expected to meet with the four members of the Ryder Cup committee within the next few days to select the team of eight players and two reserves which will go to the United States in an effort to regain the cup now held by the American niblick wielders. F. J. Pignon will manage the team.

DUDLEY'S 285 WINS AT LOS ANGELES

Loos, Espinosa Tie for 2d; Mackenzie Leads Amateurs.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Smiling, soft-voiced Ed Dudley, who has threatened to win many important golf competitions since he left his native Georgia ten years ago, finally crashed his way into the "big money" today by capturing the $3,500 first money in the Los Angeles $10,000 open.

The big Southerner, who now is professional at the Concord Country Club, Concordville, Pa., but calls Wilmington, Del., his hmoe, finished two strokes ahead of Eddie Loos and Al Espinosa, Chicago pros, with a brilliant 72-hole totalof 285.

Dudley came home with a sensational 68 for his final round. This wound up his play with perhaps the most courageous finish witnessed in highly competitive golf since Tommy Armour dropped his long putt on the eighteenth green at Oakmont in the 1927 open to tie Harry Cooper for the lead.

Dudley Stymied by Tree.

The former Ryder Cup player came to the home green needing a par 4 to record a score of 285 and everybody had said from the opening of the competition that 285 would win. He got a great drive and long second, but his iron was slightly pushed and his 4 seemed far from easy when he came up to his ball off the green with a tall tree cutting off the cup.

With a championship in sight the big fellow played like a champion. He pitched over the tree, and the ball came to rest 16 feet from the pin. He had two putts to win, but at that stage he did not know it and probably would have scorned to play safe if he had. He boldly putted for the par 4, and the ball rolled squarely into the cup.

Espinosa and Frank Walsh, another of the deadly Chicago golfing brigade, finished just behind of Dudley, and Amrour and Diegel were on his heels.

Harry Cooper made it four Chicago pros in the first octet by grabbing eighth place with 290, and Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, two ancient rivals, tied for ninth with scores of 291.

Roland MacKenzie, the crack Washington amateur who played as good golf in this competition as he ever did in his Walker Cup defenses, led the Simon Pures by a wide margin with a 72-hole count of 295. MacKenzie won a punch bowl big enough to hold the contents of the Walker Cup several times over.

MEXICAN FIVE INVADES.

Mexico City, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—The basket ball team of the National University of Mexico begins a long road trip this week, which will take it to three cities in the United States. The team will play at El Paso January 26. From there it will go to Jackson, Miss., and Shreveport, La.

Cochet to Join Tilden Pro Troupe, Is Report

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—The New York Sun says it has learned from an official of the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association that Henri Cochet, top ranking tennis player of the world, is expected to join William T. Tilden 2d in his proposed professional tour.

The official is quoted as saying the troupe will include Tilden, Cochet, Karel Kozeluh and Vincent Richards.

Tilden is matched to play Kozeluh in his pro debut.

Cochet, leader of the French Davis Cup forces, has been rated by Tilden as the greatest of all tennis players.

ALEXANDRIA TEAMS IN SERIES

Lyceum, Del Ray and Omega Fives Seek A. A. U. Crown.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Jan. 12.—The Alexandria City Basket Ball League was reorganized tonight with three teams, all complying to A. A. U. standards, entered in the series which gets under way Thursday night at the Alexandria Armory.

A small but select field makes up the league in the Alpha Delta Omegas, the Del Rays and the St. Mary's Lyceum five, all three of whom plan to enter the A. A. U. championships in March.

Jack Tulloch, sports editor of the Gazette, was again leected president of the loop. He appointed a committe of Bob Vogt, Ralph Scrivener and P. P. Clark to draw up the schedule. Plans call for two rounds to be played in the league, which is to be off the boards by February 15.

Banner Tennis Year Foreseen by Colonials

A banner tennis year is looked forward to at George Washington University for 1931 with the return to the squad of the outstanding netmen of the institution and the scheduling of the stiffest schedule the Colonial racquetmen have faced in the last decade.

Bob Considine, District champion, and captain of the 1930 G. W. Tennis Team, will be available for court service, as will be Alan Staubly, Harry Goldsmith and Syd Wallenstein, all regulars from last year's team.

Max Farrington, assistant athletic director of the downtown school, announced yesterday that ten matches had been listed to date; namely, Virginia, Washington and Lee, Washington and Jefferson, Duke, Catholic University, Marylanid, Johns Hopkins, Delaware, New York University, Pittsburgh and possibly Navy.

Army, whom the Colonials defeated, 6-to-3, last spring, will not be played this year.

RING MUDDLE BRINGS NEW ANGLES

Stribling, Max May Fight With Primo in Background.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—The big heavyweight run-around came out into the open today in a set of puzzling proposals again designed to line up one world title bout between Max Schmeling and Young Bill Stribling somewhere in Illinois in June, and another in September between the winner and Primo Carnera, the man mountain of Venice.

The Hearst Milk Fund officially—and Billi Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, unofficially—joined in extending contracts for this program to "Pa" Stribling, father and manager of the Georgia pride, and Joe Jacobs, pilot of the German clouter.

While neither representative of the antagonists hailed the proferred documents with glee, it seemed that some basis for agreement finally had arisen from the muddled state of affairs, provided that other complications could be smoothed away.

Carey Attends by Proxy.

Although Carey could not be present at the conference under penalty of suspension by the New York State Athletic Commission for dealing with a suspended fighter, the contracts were drawn up in the name of the Illinois Madison Square Garden Corporation under which the late Tex Rickard promoted the $2,700,000 Tunney-Dempsey battle of the long-count in Chicago in 1927. This charter to

Capt. Campbell to Embark Despite Speed Trials Row

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Regardless of the financial controversy between the American Automobile Association and officials of Daytona Beach, Capt. Malcolm Campbell, British speed king, will sail from England Wednesday in the hope of challenging time again for the world's automobile speed record on the Florida sands.

Campbell, with almost $100,000 already invested in his 1,400-horsepower Blue Bird racer, today asked that officials of the warring factions meet him in New York on his arrival next week in an effort to iron out the $2,000 difference in estimates of cost that threaten to prevent the record attack.

Daytona Beach officials have offered $4,000 toward the actual costs of staging the trials, while Ted Allen, secretary of the contest board of the A. A. A., estimates that at least $6,000 is necessary.

Municipal officials at Daytona Beach, where the late Sir Henry Segrave set a record of 231 miles an hour over a "measured mile" in 1929, refused today to take action on a recent communication from Allen, setting today as the deadline. Neither did the A. A. A. official notify Campbell in England that the trials were off unless the city increased its appropriation as he had threatened to do. The Beach authorities are expected to defray the costs of setting up telephone lines, timing apparatus, housing of mechanics and car, and the salaries of the necessary officials.

"The row has nothing to do with me," Campbell told the Associated Press in London. "I am only the victim. I have had no word from the A. A. A. to stay away, which I should have had if the trials had been definitely abandoned."

Campbell hopes to arrive with his racer in Daytona Beach by January 26 so that the speed trials may be run between February 1 and 10.

Ingram Takes California Grid Post

Departing Navy Mentor Succeeds Price on West Coast.

Mary College, of Williamsburg, Va., and took over the head coaching duties there in September of that year.

From 1923 to 1925, he coached at the University of Indiana and in 1926 came back to Annapolis as head coach. As leader of the Navy squads, his teams won 32 games, lost 13 and tied in 4 in the last five years.

His record:

1926—Won 9, lost 0, tied 1.
1927—Won 6, lost 3, tied 0.
1928—Won 5, lost 3, tied 1.
1929—Won 6, lost 2, tied 2.
1930—Won 6, lost 5, tied 0.

Signing of Ingram culminated a long search for a successor to Price, who was retained for one year as basket ball coach. Graduate Manager Monohan spent several weeks in the East interviewing candidates for the berth.

Price resigned following an unimpressive season that saw the Bears lose four conference and one non-conference games.

TILDEN SEEN NO. 1 IN U. S. AGAIN

Tennis Body Favors Ranking Players on Foreign Success.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Action construed by some observers as paving the way for the ranking of William T. Tilden 2d and Helen Wills Moody officially as the No. 1 American tennis players for 1931 has been taken by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

It was disclosed today in Tennis, the official publication of the U. S. L. T. A. It took the form of approval by the executive committee of recommendation by the ranking committee to consider the performances of American stars abroad, as well as at home, in making up the national ranking lists.

Tilden and Mrs. Moody, as well as several other Americans, reached the peak of their performances on British or French courts last season. Tilden suffered several setbacks at home, losing the national title to John Doeg. Mrs. Moody did not defend her national championship after an unbeaten European campaign.

Heretofore the main basis of the national rankings has been the national championship results. As a result the general expectation has been that Doeg would displace Tilden as the No. 1 ranking star.

Princetonian Urges Harvard Breach Heal

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—The Princetonian, university undergraduate newspaper, today expressed hope for a resumption of general athletic relations between Princeton and Harvard.

"Even though football meetings between Harvard and Princeton can not for the moment be arranged, this factor alone should not block the path to resumption of relations in other sports," said the editorial.

Heydler Awaits Official Coast Draft Offers

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Stating he would prefer to wait for an official communication, President John A. Heydler, of the National League, today declined to pass judgment on the reservations to the draft as proposed by the Pacific Coast League.

"I don't quite understand what they want," said Mr. Heydler, "and before making any statement would prefer to see the official communication as sent to Commissioner Landis."

He explained the reservation calling for the majors to sign only college players from among those who are without previous professional experience is no different from the original proposal.

"Of course such a reservation depends on whether all class A leagues agree to operate under the major-minor league selection rules."

Dante's Par 70 Tops Golf Field in Florida

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Jim Dante, Fort Madison, N. Y., beat a high wind around the flat sunlit course of the Fort Lauderdale Golf and Country Club today to lead 18-hole play of the 54-hole Fort Lauderdale open tournament with a pair of 35s for a par 70.

John Watson, South Bend, Ind., and Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills, Long Island, were right behind Dante, with 71s for the day's play in the $1,500 event. In the 72-rung of the scoring ladder were Jim Noonan, Chicago; Jock Hutchinson, Chicago; Ralph Kingsrud, Fargo, N. Dak., and Bill Thompson, Cleveland.

An octet swung into the first day finish with 73s, led by Johnny Farrell, former national open champion. The others were Albert Murray, Montreal; Norman Sommers, Council Bluffs, Iowa; Massey Miller, Norwich, Conn.; J. Huot, Quebec; Charley Dice, Hempstead, Long Island; Ken Martin, Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Clarence Gamber, Detroit.

Sixty-one of the 123 professionals and 22 amateurs that finished play were bunched in the niches between 74 and 80, with E. W. Rodormer, Chicago, leading the amateurs with his 36—38—74.

Club's Utility Strength Is Bolstered

Southpaw Hitter Has All-Time Average of Over .300.

Fast on Bases, Has Good Arm; West Is Seen as Regular.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

CONVINCED that his Nationals have a chance to win the 1931 pennant and that he can not hope to get a capable outfielder in the minors, Clark Griffith, Washington Club owner, last night announced the purchase of Harry F. Rice from the New York Yankees. While the amount paid was not divulged, it is known that the Yankees asked waivers on Rice, but withdrew them. It is estimated the Nats paid $10,000 for the player.

Both Griffith and Manager Walter Johnson are convinced that Rice is a first-rate ball player. He was only 29 years old last November 22, is a good fielder, a great thrower, lightning fast on his feet, and has an all-time batting average of better than .300. Last season, he was the only player in the league hitting exactly .300, while he drove home 98 runs, more than any Washington player except Joe Cronin. He is a left-handed hitter.

Rice, of course, will be given every opportunity of landing himself a regular berth with the Nationals, but he was obtained primarily for utility work. "We're thinking pennant next season," Johnson explained, "and feel that we should be well protected in every position. We've given up trying to get an experienced man from the minors.

Seems Destined for Utility.

"Personally, I don't believe that Harry can beat out Sam West for the center field berth, if Sam's arm is all right when the season starts, but Rice would more than earn his salary if he were able to step into somebody's shoes in an emergency, if we happened to be in the thick of the fight. If we'd had a fellow like him available last season when Heinie Manush was hurt, we might have beaten the A's out in the flag race. But we didn't, and the team simply slowed down almost to a walk until we never did get back in the race."

Rice has been playing professional baseball for nine years, having started with the Paris Club of the Kitty League in 1922. The St. Louis Browns bought him and had him at both Danville, of the Three-Eye League, and Tulsa, of the Western, until finally recalling him late in 1923. He was an infielder until converted into a fly-chaser the next season.

Earned Job With 1925 Browns.

Harry became a regular with the Browns in 1925, hitting .356 that year, and has dropped below the .300 mark only once since—in 1927, when he batted only .287. Despite his good baseball record, Rice has got been a model athlete, failing at times to take his work seriously and maintain his best condition.

At the end of the 1927 season Rice was traded to the Detroit Tigers, along with Pitcher Elam Van Gilder and Infielder Chick Galloway, in exchange for First Baseman Lu Blue and Outfielder Heinie Manush. He hit better than .300 in Detroit during 1928 and 1929, yet did not seem to fit in well there and Bucky Harris traded him to the Yankees early last season, he, Pitcher Owen Carroll and Shortstop George Wuestling going to the big town in exchange for Hurler Wait Hoyt and Shortstop Mark Koenig.

The Yankees have several promising young fly hawks signed up for the coming season and probably for this reason were willing to turn Rice loose.

West Says Arm Is Right.

With respect to Sam West, for whose regular job Harry Rice will be gunning, he will leave for his home at Rochester, Tex., this afternoon. The club physician believes that West's ailing left elbow will respond to rest treatment, while the player himself is sure that it will be normal long before the 1931 schedule get under way.

"Why, my arm's all right now," Sam told the writer last night. "I've been out hunting often and have used it considerably, and am not worrying at all. I had the same trouble at Chattanooga last spring and was only out six days. I'll be ready to start off with the rest of them at Biloxi next month, and I figure on being able to go right through the season, too."

CENTRAL BATTLES TECH IN SERIES DEBUT TODAY

Eastern and Western in Opener

New Central Team Well Groomed for Series Test.

Lincoln Park Five Heavy Favorite in 2d Appearance.

GAMES TODAY.

Eastern vs. Western, at Tech, at 3:30 o'clock.

CENTRAL HIGH, long a power in the high school basket ball field, makes its debut in the 1931 series today at the Tech gymnasium when it encounters Tech, defender of the high school court crown, in the second game of the second round of the series.

The lead-off game today will see Eastern, hot favorite in most quarters to cop the crown, and Western mixing matters, beginning at 3:30 o'clock.

It is Business' turn to be idle today.

Central Groomed for Debut.

Central enters the series today potentially the most seasoned team of the series. The charges of Bert Coggins have played fifteen games and taken their due of losses from a half-dozen of those opponents. But Coggins' team, seasoning or not, has not been too impressive in its victories. It seems to be a team which shows full power only occasionally.

Central's passing seems to be its main forte. It needs consistently accurate shooters most.

Central will have tough going today against Coach Artie Boyd's Tech High dribblers. The Manual Trainers, stung by a loss to Eastern in the first round last Friday, are not likely to be in a receptive mood toward another defeat today.

Eastern Strong Favorite.

Eastern looks like it is going to make it two straight today against Western. Eastern's first advantage lies in Noonan, whose great height should give Eastern the ball on nearly every tap-off. Noonan, high scorer of the series so far, showed no signs of a let-up yesterday in a fast workout Coach Guyon called in place of the game scheduled with Catholic University Frosh.

Kelly, G. U. Relay Ace, Undergoes Operation

Georgetown's chances of winning the mile relay event which is to feature the Brooklyn College games, at Brooklyn, N. Y., on January 24 next, were dealt a severe blow yesterday when it was learned that Jimmy Kelly, one of the mainstays of the Hilltop quartet, has had his tonsils removed and probably will be lost to the team for the next two weeks.

Kelly, who is a junior at Georgetown, is confined at present to the University Hospital recuperating from the effects of his operation.

Coach John D. O'Reilly also announced yesterday that trial heats in the sprints, middle distance events and relays will be held tomorrow and Thursday, at which the men selected to represent Georgetown in the forthcoming Brooklyn meet will be selected.

The Enumerators are also seeking several games for the ensuing week. Manager Moser is in charge of booking the tilts.

PET JRS. SWAMP FOES.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Fair Grounds Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

FAIR GROUNDS racing today will be over a sloppy track, but a good card is offered, featured by the Olympic Purse for 3-year-olds at a mile. The feature has the smallest field of any number on the program, but as all the horses in it are mudders, there probably will be none of the six horses scratched.

GARLIC is picked to win. He has had no qualifying race in the South, but his last race at Bowie, in which he beat Mad Career, Backgammon, Albazano and others—not top notchers, but good horses—entitles him to the place of honor in this field. He beat these horses by five lengths. They were among the best second flight horses of their age racing in the East. GARLIC was entered in one race the other day, scratched, and should go for the front money today. PLAY BIRD is probably next best. She won her last two races, beating The Judge, West Virginia and other good ones last week. She may be favorite, as GARLIC is little known there. THISTLE DUKE, a double winner and a mudder, also has a chance, and will be in the money.

FIRST RACE—The first is a claiming race for 3-year-old maidens at six furlongs. SCOTCH LASSIE seems best, has run some very good races, and last out was unplaced but one of the favorites. She was third to Light Mint in her previous race. FLOWER OF ERIN, third to Anne Arundel, should get the place, for ALL GIRLS, picked for third, but which was second to Anne Arundel in that race, seems to be getting worse instead of improving her form.

SECOND RACE—The second race has better horses and is for 3-year-olds at a mile. FLY GUY should repeat. His last race was a runaway victory from Fudge and his opposition is easier here. MARDIE is a dangerous contender and in her last race won easily from Flying Nancy. ZALIA is inconsistent, but very fast on a muddy track. She might win, but is more likely to quit against so much speed.

FOURTH RACE—MY BEAUTY, a good mudder and a consistent winner this winter, is best in the fourth race. Her defeat in the race won by Cash Play should not be held against her in this ordinary field. Previously she beat Betty Bux and others. FLOOD CONTROL may wake up. He is best of the others, unless BOB SHANNON should run one of his best races. MY BEAUTY has too much early speed for these slow beginners.

FIFTH RACE—TORCH can win right back in the fifth race. The track is made to order for him, and he beat horses like Herendeen and Scot Free on Saturday. DUELIST will be backed. He is the only danger in this race. He won his last race galloping, but he only beat Broker of that class. BOZO has an outside chance in the mud and should get show money. He was second to Eager Play, beaten two lengths, but the track was fast. He will improve on that race today. Third is as good as he deserves.

SIXTH RACE—SANTA SOPHIA is moved up several points by the muddy track, and, by throwing out her last race or so, she seems best. GREY GULL, third to Lillian T. last week is the contender, and has a real chance for the purse. FAIR ORB won a race about as good as this on a fast track at Jefferson Park, but mud will be no especial drawback. She beat Sterling Silver, among others, in his last winning race. It seems the purse will surely go to one of these three fillies. All are suited to the distance of a mile and a sixteenth.

SEVENTH RACE — BLACK ON WHITE is chosen to win the seventh from an ordinary bunch of platers. He won his last race easily from Peter and Omardale. It would be almost as easy to win this one, but there is a little more sign of life in this field. WRACK ROYAL may be next best. He is bound to be a mudder almost by his breeding and form, running third last week to Dante on a slow track. SHARK will figure in the race and probably in a dangerous way. The track will suit him. His last race was bad.

117-TO-1 SHOT WINS CLOSE FINISH

Balroma Pays $236, Closing Stoutly at Fair Grounds.

FAIR GROUNDS, New Orleans, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—J. D. Grant's Balroma, ridden by Apprentice R. Reeves, won at the longest odds of the meeting when the 5-year-old chestnut horse came from behind to win the sixth race today and pay $236.20 for $2 tickets in the mutuels. Borough Monger finished second and Vandal third. Balroma was $33 to place and $24.70 to show.

Balroma worked his way up to the leaders on the outside and, outstaying Borough Monger in the final furlong, drew away in the closing strides.

Chip, racing in the silks of Mrs. E. L. Swikard, scored an easy victory in the Avondale Purse, mile and a sixteenth contest featuring the program here today. Five lengths behind the winner was Eli Weir, with Water Lad in third place.

The track was ankle deep in slushy mud as the result of the heavy downpour throughout last night and this morning.

The oval was made to order for the chestnut son of Supremus, which moved into contention after going a quarter of a mile and disposed of Eli Weir in the final quarter, to win in going away fashion.

Favorites failed badly, the first four choices suffering defeat. Backers of Chip received $9.60 for $2 mutuel tickets.

BLUE RIDGE'S FATE UP TO MAJORS

Backing Is Needed if Circuit Is to Carry On.

Special to The Washington Post.

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 12.—Baseball fans in the Tri-State district now are casting their optics in the direction of the major leagues in the hope of seeing something that will make them optimistic about their chances of witnessing professional games during the approaching season.

With the big leaguers already interested announcing they will not care to continue their farms in the Blue Ridge loop unless it consists of six clubs, officials of the loop are unanimous in their opinion that, unless two clubs in the big show take over two in the Jamison wheel or furnish them some financial aid, the pioneer of the Class D leagues will sing its swan song.

Yanks, Indians, Cards Willing to Help.

The New York Yankees, Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Cardinals are willing to help out at Chambersburg, Frederick and Waynesboro, respectively, and Joe Cambria, Baltimore sports promoter, is ready to continue to operate the Hagerstown Club, providing Martinsburg and either Hanover, Carlisle or Winchester join the league. If not, the big league godfathers are not in favor of a four-club arrangement and neither is Cambria.

J. Vincent Jamison, jr., president of the Blue Ridge, who has guided the league over stormy seas many times in the last fourteen years, will in the near future, put the proposition up to the big fellows. It will then be up to them to say whether they want the Maryland-Pennsylvania-West Virginia circuit to perish or to continue developing players like Hack Wilson, Lefty Grove, Adam Comoroskey, Lou Blue, Johnny Neun, Billy Sherdel, Eddie Rommell, Joe Boley, Jimmy Dykes and a host of others.

O'Hara, Mrs. Bryan Control Bowie Track

The Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, which operates the Bowie Race Track in Prince Georges County, is in the absolute control of James F. O'Hara and Mrs. Gadsden D. Bryan. At a special meeting of the stockholders held yesterday at Upper Marlboro, the majority of stock was voted to simple majority rule, which was substituted for the two-thirds majority system.

Mr. O'Hara and Mrs. Bryan are said to control 6,679 of the 12,500 shares The other largest stockholders are Joseph A. Farrell and John J. Farrell, jr., both of whom own 3,339 shares, it is said.

Joseph A. Farrell has been acting general manager since the illness of Mr. O'Hara. His brother, John J. Farrell, jr., has held the position of assistant. They were elected last May to serve for a year.

The stockholders, after changing the by-laws, did not take up the possible change in management.

Swavely Five Bows To Shenandoah Cadets

Special to The Washington Post.

Manassas, Va., Jan. 12.—Shenandoah Military Academy Basket Ball Team invaded Swavely's Gym today and gave the home team a 32-27 lacing before a crowd that jammed the sidelines of the court.

It was too much Lee for the Swavely dribblers. The lanky jump man of the invaders deposited balls through the basket to the sum of 18 points. The absence of Devlin and Carey from the Swavely line-up also was instrumental in the downfall.

Alger, Anderson and Noble looked good for Swavely.

Maryland Frosh Beat Business Five, 37-15

Maryland freshmen's basket ball team found little difficulty yesterday in sending Business High back to Washington on the briefer end of a 37-15 score.

Against Maryland's first string combination of Buscher, Chase, Vincent, Wright and Snyder, the visiting Stenogs could make but slight progress. Only against the Old Line plebe reserves did Business show its accustomed form.

Maryland led 13-3 at the quarter, 18-7 at the half, and 28-8 at the three-quarter mark. Business scored 7 points in the last quarter against the second-string Marylanders.

St. Johns' Goal at End Beats Virginia, 22-20

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 12.—A quick toss in the final seconds of play by Fader gave St. John's veteran quint a 22-to-20 victory over Virginia here tonight.

It was the second victory gained by the Cadets in their three-game series in Virginia. The visitors got off to a 3-point lead and were never headed during the first half, which ended, 11 to 8.

In the second half the Cavaliers rallied, and on the first goal of the period by Harrison gained a 1-point lead. For the next ten minutes the play was nip and tuck.

Stouder's basket four minutes before the period ended knotted the count, whereupon St. John's called time out to rest. On resuming play, Carpenter caged the ball, but a sensational shot by Stouder made it 20-all. Then Fader came through with the winning toss just as the referee's whistle sounded.

Though knocked senseless by a fall in the first half, Hoff played spectacular ball in the closing period.

FLORIDA GRID WORK THIS WEEK

Bachman Gets Early Start in Spring Football.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Coach Charley Bachman, whose Florida football teams have won 22 out of 29 games during his three years at Gainesville, believes in an early start toward any objective. While other coaches are waiting several weeks before beginning spring gridiron practice, Bachman is assembling all interested candidates this week.

He will call his varsity squad together about February 5. Virtually all other Southern Conference coaches plan spring training around this date. Many coaches have announced regular intrasquad league games during the February workouts between the various elevens forming their squad.

Boxing Urged for Ga. Tech Gridders.

Coach W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech has recommended boxing as beneficial to all football players and urges all gridders not out for basket ball or baseball to join the boxing classes.

"The footwork that is developed by rope skipping and shadow boxing will be very beneficial to any football player and especially to linemen," Alex said.

However, boxing instruction will be forgotten for a while in February during spring football training period.

Coach Billy Lavall, creator of the "crazy quilt" and other unorthodox gridiron formations, plans a new football system at the University of South Carolina next fall. Practice in the new style of play will start with spring training February 4.

Development of a barking signal caller and discarding of the huddle, discontinuance of scrimmages in favor of real games, concentration of group work and general improvement of the players are only a few of the plans Billy has in mind.

Moon Mullins Named Grid Aid at Kansas U.

Lawrence, Kans., Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Appointment of Larry (Moon) Mullins, Notre Dame football star, as an assistant football coach at the University of Kansas was announced today by Athletic Director Forrest C. Allen.

Mullins, who replaces Paul Murphy, will take part at least in part of the spring practice and will report next fall to Groom, the jayhawker back field. Murphy, employed only for the football season, has returned to the study of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania.

SOLDIERS WIN FROM EAGLES.

Fort Myer's 130-pound basket ball team smothered the St. Paul's Eagles yesterday at Fort Myer by the score 74-29.

Wolverton and Steele, of the winners, scored 39 points between them, while Nau looked best for the losers.

NEW ANGLES FOUND IN FIGHT MUDDLE

promote matches in Chicago still is considered "alive," although it has not been used by the New York parent organization since the biggest fistic spectacle of modern times.

The contracts were offered Schmeling and Stribling through the Illinois branch of the New York Garden despite opposition of the Illinois State Athletic Commission to any heavyweight endeavor not promoted by local talent. The contracts did not name Chicago as the site for the June match, although no other city in that State is under consideration.

Rival Managers Given Time.

Neither the Stribling nor Schmeling managements would sign the documents immediately and both were given time for consideration.

The contracts as offered today definitely eliminated Sharkey, who fouled Schmeling in a title bout here last June, from a match with either the German or Stribling this summer. It was also predicted the wrath of the local fathers will fall heavily upon all concerned when and if the contracts offered today are signed.

They will fight in Chicago or Detroit, the latter city having entered the situation just lately as a sort of capper to boost Chicago's bid. Of course, Detroit is known to have been hit harder by the commercial depression than any other major city in the country, and since the Governor of the State has been promoting college football games for the support of the soup lines and flops in Detroit it seems unlikely that the citizens will be in a position to support a million-dollar prize fight as early as June of this year.

DETROIT NO PLACE FOR FIGHT

But discussion of the bids and the financial possibilities would lead into melancholy territory. The notion of a million-dollar house anywhere for a couple of prize fighters fighting for an honorary political championship which has already been revoked, while men are waiting in line in the cold for quarter-time job on which to support families, suggests a good note on which to close the discussion.

JANUARY 13, 1906.

Washington street car service was bitterly denounced at a mass meeting last night in the Masonic Temple. An audience of 600 persons heard addresses by representatives of citizens associations.

Dr. Robert Fletcher, chief compiler and collector of the medical and scientific library of the United States Army, was tendered a dinner last night on the occasion of his eighty-third birthday.

While excavating yesterday under a building at 927 G street northwest, workmen found the skeleton of a man.

An appropriation is to be asked of Congress by Postmaster General Cortelyou to purchase a site adjacent to the new Union Station on which to erect a handsome, modern city postoffice.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TREATING MONGOLIANISM.

DR. WALTER TIMME has a treatment for mongolianism. This treatment has been in use for ten years. He is not satisfied with it and it has not been adopted by physicians generally. All of which is conclusive that it falls short of being perfect. On the other hand there is no other treatment that has given results that are satisfying, or anywhere near so.

Dr. Timme reports children greatly improved in facial and bodily appearance, greatly changed in disposition, and so improved in mentality that they have been able to do school work in the lower grades, to participate in children's games, and to take their places in the child life of the home and neighborhood. The treatment seems to promise much for a few cases, something for more, and little or nothing for others.

As he uses it now, the Timme treatment consists if thyroid one-tenth to one-fourth grain; saturated solution of iodide of potash, 2 drops; pituitary substance, 2 or 3 capsules, each containing 1 to 2 grains of the anterior lobe; and of the whole lobe, one-tenth to one-fourth grain. These are all the doses for one day. The medicines are given daily as regular as the sun rolls around, year in and year out, and for ten years or more.

After it has been in use for considerable time, a half ampoule of anbultrin is given twice a week in addition to the other medication. The treatment is something of a shotgun affair. There is no proof that each of the ingredients should be in the combination, or that the dosage of each is right. About all that can be said for it is that mongolianism seems to be due to some disturbance of the ductless glands, that the best proof relates to disturbances in the pituitary gland, and that the treatment gives better results than any other that has been tried.

SPOTS ON FINGERNAILS.

Miss E. A. writes: I am bothered with quite a few small white spots on all of my fingernails and would like to know the cause and remedy. Does my diet have any effect?

REPLY.

We had an article on white spots on the nails some time ago. A white spot means that there was some interference with nail growth at the place and time when that particular piece of nail was forming. The most frequent cause is pushing back the cuticle. Too much manicuring is a potent cause. Fungi cause it. There are still other causes.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

A daily reader writes:

1. What causes high blood pressure?
2. How can it be cured?
3. Is it dangerous?

REPLY.

1. Among the causes are heart disease, kidney disease, old age, wear and tear of life, worry and other emotions, overeating, and lead poisoning.
2. It is not difficult to lower high blood pressure in the earlier stages of the disorder. It is not so easy to keep it down. Refraining from worry, fear, and other emotions is the best single procedure.
3. Sometimes it is; sometimes not.

STOCKS MOVE DOWN AS TURNOVER DROPS

Losses Are From 1 to 4 Points; 1,501,220 Shares Sold.

CARRIER LIST HARD HIT

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Lacking material with which to build a further rally, the stock market settled back today to cool off after its recent exertions. For a brief interval in the early trading, it seemed undecided which way to go, but selling of the rails shaped its course for the remainder of the day and final prices were 1 to 4 points lower.

The turnover of 1,501,220 shares was the smallest since early December. Professional bears who used the weakness of the carrier issues as the basis of operations had less success in other groups, although a few individual miscellaneous stocks were soft, particularly Texas Corporation and Westinghouse.

Bonds enjoyed another day of relaxation. Prices were fairly easy throughout that market, which stood aside while a large volume of new securities was sold. Wheat and corn rallied, but cotton declined.

Texas Breaks 4 Points.

A 4-point break was Texas Corporation's response to the estimate by its president that 1930 earnings would probably not be more than $1.52 a share, against dividend requirements of $3. The official statement added, however, that even with no improvement in business conditions the company would continue the present rate "for at least a year." Other oil stocks softened in sympathy, and there were net losses of from ¾ to 1¾ in Standard of New Jersey, Sinclair, Sun, and Prairie Oil & Gas.

Westinghouse sank to 86¾, the lowest since 1927, finishing slightly above the bottom for a 4-point loss. Its weakness encouraged short selling in most of the other industrials, especially steels and chemicals. U. S. Steel, Vanadium, Bethlehem, American Can, General Electric, Auburn Auto, Union Carbide and National Biscuit lost 1 to 2. Among the utilities there were similar declines in American Telephone, American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas and others. Allied Chemical dropped 3¾.

Losses in the rails cut rather heavily into their last week's gains. Frisco declined 5, New York Central and Atchison 4, Baltimore & Ohio, Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific 2 to 3 and Pittsburgh & West Virginia, an inactive, 10¾.

Views of Bankers Studied.

The views of the chairman of the country's largest bank concerning interallied debts and the tariff were read with interest in financial circles, especially since they followed so soon after the remarks of another prominent banker along similar lines. Both statements included references to subnormal security prices.

Any bullish interpretations of the large gain in United States Steel's unfilled tonnage had been well discounted. Although today's market ignored the figures, published last Saturday, Wall street kept a weather eye toward this week's production estimates which will appear on Wednesday. Further expansion in activity, it is expected, will bring another fair sized rise in operations.

Insufficient rain in the Southwest, an improvement in export business at Winnipeg and a decrease in stocks afloat combined to give wheat a firmer tone. The July future rallied nearly a cent and there were smaller gains elsewhere. Corn rose one cent a bushel, reflecting unfavorable weather, a decrease in visible supply and small receipts at Chicago. Cotton's losses ranged from 8 to 14 points.

A half cent rise in bar silver firmed Chinese exchanges, but European rates were irregular, with changes narow. The Spanish peseta sagged.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Higher prices for grains went hand in hand today with a shifting on corn traders to the big pit heretofore used for wheat business. Wheat dealings, dwindling in volume and dominated of late by Government-sponsored agencies, were retired to a smaller pit previously devoted to corn. An unexpected decrease of the corn visible supply was a factor in hoisting of prices, and, so, too, was announcement that supplies of wheat on ocean passage were almost the smallest ever known.

Corn closed firm, ⅞ to 1⅛ cents higher, wheat ⅛ to 1 cent up, oats ⅜ to ⅝c advance, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents off.

Although reduction of the corn visible supply was only 114,000 bushels, the news came as a surprise and was followed by a brisk late advance that contrasted with transient sharp declines around midday. Any decrease of visible stocks of corn at this time of year emphasized that the movement from rural sources to distributing points was abnormally scant. For the corresponding week last year, there was an increase of 2,251,000 bushels.

Shrinkage of country offerings of corn to arrive for Chicago gave further momentum to price upturns. Besides, there were advices that in important farming districts corn was only being received a load or two at a time, with growers holding tight to meager supplies for feeding purposes. Corn primary receipts, as well as arrivals in Chicago, totaled larger than a week ago, but failed by far to equal the figures of a year back. Prevailing unsettled weather conditions were adverse to promoting the crop movement. Oats sympathized with corn.

Despite selling by a house that frequently acts for Farm Board allies, wheat responded to corn gains. Wheat upturns were also in the face of 1,774,000 bushels increase of the wheat visible supply, an amount in excess of trade expectations. Stocks of wheat afloat for Europe are now 25,166,000 bushels, against 27,272,000 last week and 32,672,000 last year.

Provisions declined owing to a large run of hogs.

Buying Dollars

at a

Liberal Discount

THAT, in effect, is what many careful buyers of well selected bonds are doing.

When sound bonds bearing a coupon rate of 5%, 5½% or 6% can be purchased at prices to yield seven or eight per cent or more, the purchaser is certainly getting his incoming dollars at a substantial discount.

Good bonds are a desirable form of investment at any time. At this time they present unusual opportunities for profitable income.

The current conditions which have developed these opportunities for investors are rare, but they are by no means unprecedented. The more experienced investors will recall, for example, that quite similar developments occurred in the bond market during 1920-21.

There were then, as now, many sound bonds available at prices which presented exceptionally liberal income returns.

Numerous indications support the belief that the prices of carefully selected bonds will in the future, as in the past, show improvement when business returns to higher levels

Our suggestions for investment adapted to varying individual and institutional requirements, and including a list of selected bonds selling at substantial discounts, will be submitted upon request.

BRAZILIAN BOND LIST CONTINUES TO CLIMB

Many Other Latin American Issues Advance to Better Levels.

U. S. GOVERNMENTS RISE

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Brazilian bonds today made further progress in their comeback from the bottom levels reached last summer and carried many other Latin-American issues up with them. Advances ranged as high as 5 points and although in many instances the gains were on only a few sales the improvement was taken as further indication of the better sentiment toward obligations of Latin American countries where economic and political disturbances last year influenced a sharp drop in quoted values.

Most domestic issues gave a little ground and were off three-tenths of a point in the averages. The listed market had competition from utility loans amounting to more than $60,000,000, the largest single day's offering in many weeks, and in addition the reactionary trend of stocks affected many issues. The money market was very easy. Call funds were quoted at 1½ per cent officially and some dealers cut time money rates with 30-day loans at 1½ per cent.

United States Governments continued their climb. Liberty 4th 4¼s duplicated their 1930 high, at 103 27-32 and closed 1-32 under that figure. Turnover in Treasury issues was light compared with recent sessions but prices ruled firm.

Brazilian government and state loans were buoyant. Brazil 6½s gained nearly 3 points. Sao Paulo 7s of 1940 rose 1¾; Porto Allègre 8s, 3⅛; and Rio Grande do Sul 7s, 2⅛; Chilean bonds were actively higher. The 7s climbed 5¼ and the 6s, 2. Argentine 5½s advanced 1¾.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—An opening decline in cotton today under small offerings promoted by relatively easy cables and rather a bearish view of cloth statistics was followed by partial recoveries on covering, but the market eased again in the late trading under increased selling which appeared to come chiefly from New Orleans and local sources. March contracts, after selling off to 10.15 during the early trading, rallied to 10.22, but later broke to 10.12 and closed at 10.13, compared with 10.24 at the close of Saturday. The general market closed steady at net declines of 8 to 14 points.

The opening was steady, 2 to 8 points lower, with more active positions selling about 5 to 7 points net lower during the early trading under liquidation and some scattered selling. This was evidently influenced by the relatively easy showing of Liverpool, while there was some bearish comment on the domestic cloth statistics showing an increase of 2 per cent in stocks on hand and a decrease of 13 per cent in unfilled orders.

The British Board of Trade returns showing exports of cotton cloths for December amounting to 130,000,000 yards, compared with 274,000,000 for the same month in 1929, and 12,000,000 pounds of yarns, compared with 14,000,000 for the previous year, were also considered unfavorable, but the comparatively light early offerings were quite readily absorbed and the market became very quiet and steady during the middle of the day.

May sold up from 10.44 to 10.48, or within a point of yesterday's closing quotation, but offerings increased again in the late trading when there appeared to be some New Orleans and local selling on reports of an easier tone in the stock market. New January sold off to 9.95 and May to 10.37, or 12 to 14 points net lower, and closing prices were within a point or two of the lowest for the day, with new-crop positions relatively steady.

Liverpool cables said that local buying had absorbed hedging and London selling in that market, but that the decline in silver was restricting business with China and that the Indian boycott of cotton goods was intense. Port receipts today, 14,482; United States port stocks, 4,065,849. Exports, 14,180, making 4,238,320 so far this season.

Curb Review

New York, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Professional selling brought lower prices in the curb market today, but except in the oils and some specialties net declines were of little consequence. Utilities traveled a narrow path and finished with small losses. Sales totaled only 380,900 shares.

Late heaviness of the oils on the big board, coincident with the estimate of Texas Corporation's 1930 earnings, spread to the petroleum shares of the junior exchange. Gulf developed considerable weakness and closed more than 4 points lower, while Vacuum lost 3 and Humble 1. Cities Service and Standard of Indiana eased. Missouri Kansas Pipe, weak all day in reflection of the petition for a receivership, ended the session at 5½, off 2⅞.

Electric Bond & Share was the only utility to suffer more than nominally from the steady pressure applied to the general list throughout the dull session. The leader of the utility division opened steady, but sagged thereafter and lost a point net. Declines in United Light, United Gas, American Superpower, Niagara Hudson and American Gas amounted to less than half a point on the average.

Miscellaneous issues dropping one to two points included Cameron & Reynolds A preferred, Newmont Mining, Niles Bement Pond, Deere, Western Air Express and Ford of Canada A. The latter met considerable profit taking from Saturday's rally. Ford, Ltd., however, held firm.

There was little activity in the investment trusts.

No Smoke, No Smell, No Bang

SUCH is the report on the new fuel, bonalin, invented in Germany . . . it comes in a tube like toothpaste; when squeezed into a cigar lighter it's a clear liquid, nonexplosive, odorless, smokeless.

Today more than ever we demand safety in our conveniences. And in the field of finance we are through playing with dynamite—we demand proof of the unfailing returns and unfailing safety of every investment.

And so it is no wonder that so many added hundreds of investors have turned to the assured safety of First Mortgage Notes. For more than 61 years the 6% First Mortgage Notes sold through the Swartzell, Rheem and Hensey Company have given safety of principal, and unfailing interest returns, to every investor. Through all that period of wild financial ups and downs, no investor has ever suffered a penny's loss, either in interest or in principal invested.

BANK COMMITTEE MEMBERS LISTED

Sports Program Group of Convention Is Headed by H. G. Hoskinson.

REPORT OF CREDIT MEN

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Frederick P. H. Siddons, chairman of the general committee for this year's convention of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, at Hot Springs, Va., announced yesterday the membership of the committee to arrange the sports program as the recreational feature of the bankers' thirteenth annual meeting.

Hilleary G. Hoskinson, vice president, Riggs National Bank, will be chairman of the committee and will be assisted by B. Agee Bowles, vice president, Potomac Savings Bank, as vice chairman. Members of the committee are Clyde B. Asher, Liberty National Bank; Ralph P. Barnard, District National Bank; Ezra Gould, Washington Mechanics Savings Bank; Bynum E. Hinton, Chevy Chase Savings Bank; Herbert T. Shannon, National Metropolitan Bank; Robert S. Stunz, Park Savings Bank.

Closing its thirty-ninth business year successfully, the Mutual Building Association reelected the following officers and directors last night; Thomas P. Brown, president; Joseph F. Marsden, vice president; Thomas E. Petty, secretary; J. Walter Stephenson, treasurer; Joseph Dant, Joseph P. Burke, Joseph T. Fitzgerald; Max Kohner, William T. Finn, Percy C. Brady. Sheey & Sheey were renamed attorneys.

Has Never Foreclosed.

The association is a South Washington organization launched in the old St. Dominic's School to aid people of the community in the saving of money for the purchase of homes. Its organizers gave their services free and during the 39 years of its existence, the association has never experienced a single loss or been forced to foreclose on a property.

A slight improvement over last month in both sales and collections of wholesale and manufacturing firms is reflected in the January trade survey conducted by Credit Monthly, publication of the National Association of Credit Men. The survey is based on information supplied to local branches of the association by credit executives in 108 cities.

Six cities reported brisk sales and four reported good collections, whereas only three cities reported good sales a month ago and none reported good collections.

65 Cities Report "Fair."

A majority of the firms contributing to the survey in 65 cities characterized their sales as "fair," while in 37 other cities, the majority called their sales "slow." Sixty-three cities reported collections as "fair," and 41 cities reported them "slow."

The general tone of comments made by those reporting was more cheerful than in any month since early fall. Unemployment was still the chief reported cause of slow collections.

Department store sales for the District in December were 3 per cent lower than the month in 1929, according to the report of the Federal Reserve Board. For the year they were 1.3 per cent behind 1929.

President Maurice D. Rosenberg, Bank of Commerce & Savings, will speak on his recent South American trip at the meeting of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at the Willard Hotel January 26.

CORN GETS MAIN PIT OF CHICAGO MARKET

Maize Officially Installed as Trading Leader by Board of Trade.

PRICE JUMP FOLLOWS

Chicago, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—Corn, officially installed today as market leader on the Board of Trade, after 82 years of subordination to wheat, turned upward in price and led the demoted wheat to higher prices, despite some selling by a house that has made deals for Government-sponsored agencies.

There were no coronation ceremonies as maize was placed in the main pit, so long used for wheat, which abdicated and took to the smaller pit originally assigned for the coarser grain.

Wheat traders took the change of position philosophically. Corn traders, outnumbering the wheat brokers at least 2 to 1, took their places in the old wheat pit, with here and there a favorable comment about the increased "elbow room" for the rapidly rising native American grain.

There was nothing that would indicate anything unusual was taking place, except a photographer waiting to take a few pictures of the milling traders in the pits.

Trading started quietly, corn driving forward after showing some momentary weakness, with wheat following. There was some news favorable to higher wheat, and for the first time in many weeks the market responded, including the July option for 1931 wheat, in which governmental agencies have not taken a hand.

Although it was the first official day of leadership for corn, the new King of Cereals has dominated speculative trading for weeks. Sales of corn have regularly been twice as large as those of wheat since Government-sponsored agencies decreed wheat prices should go no lower last fall for options of the 1930 crop.

The fact that sales of corn have run twice as large as those of wheat has been subject to comment among brokers and pit operators. The volume of wheat sales formerly was from three to ten times that of corn.

A coincidence was the fact that the pits were "swapped" on the day that James C. Murray, new president of the Board of Trade, took office. John A. Bunnell, retiring president, turned direction of the exchange and its vast affairs over to his successor late today.

NAIL IT UP In Your Office

Calvin Coolidge Says: When I was a boy in the hills of Vermont, 12 miles from the railroad, the only merchandise I saw was in the country store. But my horizon was widened by certain publications containing pictures and descriptions of things that appealed to youth. I read and bought. The man who supplied them became rich and died a great philanthropist. He advertised.

It is essential in the first instance to make good merchandise. But that is not enough. It is just as essential to create a desire for it. That is advertising.

The person or association of persons who can produce that combination of excellence and demand is performing a real public service. They enlarge the mental horizon and provide new forms of utility and beauty. The material benefits pass over into spiritual benefits. Culture and charity are the by-products.

A country that is spending $2,000,000,000 annually in the production and application of beauty lotions has resources with which to make large purchases of what it concludes it wants. The only way for the people to become acquainted with what they want is through judicious advertising. Goods not worth advertising are not worth selling.

It's Worth Remembering—

That to create good merchandise and create a demand for it are equally essential . . . That advertising broadens the mental horizon, performs a real public service and confers a distinct benefit upon mankind

. . . That the only way to acquaint people with what they want is through judicious advertising . . . That one of the best advertising mediums — one which offers the most value for YOUR advertising investment, is

U. S. Restrictions On Trade Opposed

Need for Firm Stand by Grain Mart in Chicago Is Asserted.

Chicago, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—John A. Bunnell, retiring today as president of the Chicago Board of Trade, urged "helpful support and assistance from the Government" rather than what he termed "the imposition of further radical, uneconomic and unwise restrictions."

Welcoming his successor, James C. Murray, Bunnell said that during his administration the Board of Trade had cooperated with the Federal Farm Board and the Department of Agriculture "to the fullest extent consistent with the maintenance of the integrity of our organization."

Unwise restrictions, he asserted, "inevitably result not only in injuring us, but also the general business of our country." Murray said the Chicago mart must take a firm stand on its constitutional rights.

THE MAN WHO KNOWS

This strange man sees the way and tells it all. Just what your life has been, just what it will be. Tells you when and whom you will marry; whether husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false. Tells as to changes, travel, lost or absent friends, divorce, wills, deeds; whether it is best to buy or sell. He tells the good and the bad. A visit will convince you of his wonderful power. Something tells you this is the man. You feel the impulse to call. Do not delay.

Advertisers discover

Vita-Minutes!

DURING the fresh Vita-Minutes of the morning . . . before the demands of the day have tired the mind . . . the advertising news of The Post makes clear impressions that last from morning till night.

Leaf over your business memoranda book to any busy day. The page will usually read something like this:
9:00 A. M. . . . Call meeting of department heads.
10:00 A. M. . . . Consider Mr. Carlson for new position.
10:30 A. M. . . . See New York Jobber's display.

You've set every one of these important business appointments for some hour in the morning!

Why? Because in the morning your mind is rested. It is keen, clear, alert. Impressions flash across your brain vividly—and stay there. You make decisions accurately—quickly—, during these morning minutes . . . minutes so vital in the day's work that they have been named Vita-Minutes.

It is during the Vita-Minutes that vivid impressions are also made in the minds of shoppers! They glance over the morning papers. They read the advertisements. They jot down the name of a store . . . an article. Later in the day they keep these business appointments with the merchants whose advertising message flashed a decision into their minds.

Wise advertisers have learned that The Washington Post reaches the homes of Washington in the early morning . . . during the Vita-Minutes . . . when the purchases of the day are decided on and planned for . . . when it is early enough for Vita-Minute reading to result in same-day sales.

But that's not all! They've also discovered a Plus-Value in Post advertising. For The Post not only reaches Washington families at a time when memos are being made and purchases planned. It reaches the right kind of Washington families. The families who go down town to buy, not merely to "look around". The families who decide whether a merchant's business shall be written in red figures or black.

Thus, Post advertisements gain a prestige which finds instant favor and preference with the thousands of women who eagerly scan its pages for shopping news every morning. If your message is not among The Post pages . . . you are losing this important double advertising advantage!

The delivery trucks which stop at Washington doors today bring purchases planned during the Vita-Minutes of a day or two before.

When the day's fray has jangled the nerves and fagged the brain, important matters are left until the following morning . . . and advertising messages find themselves outwitted by fatigue.

The Washington Post.
